UN Day Held at UC

By RUTH VON EMMER

Can the hopes and prayers of thirty-five to forty people have any effect on the international status of the residents of Collegville and a few Ursinus students who attended the program on Saturday supporting the commemorating United Nations Day? Each year, in the fall commemorating United Nations Day, the University sponsors a program to celebrate the occasion proclaimed by the Mayor of Collegville and the Mayor of Uxbridge.

Uxbridge Town Hall was the place for this year's celebration of the United Nations Day. The Day was designated as October 24, 1973 for a variety of reasons. This day marks the twentieth-anniversary birthday of the United Nations, which started on October 24, 1945. The General Assembly of the United Nations observes this date annually in honor of its founder members who will abide by this decision. Moreover, the President proclaims each October 24th as United Nations Day. He asks the support of the peoples of each of the member nations because they all determine the success of the organization. In essence, the United Nations was created to keep peace in the world with its basis in the principles of equal rights and self-determination of people everywhere. It is the task of people to strive to establish in the world the spirit of peace, and we educators are duty bound to teach the principles of peace to our students. In the true spirit of the United Nations Charter, and in hopes that even the new break-out in the Middle East will be resolved, Mayor DeWane urged all those in the audience to join him in prayer for peace and a return to the U.S. Constitution.

In this day, services were held in communities throughout the world to pray for peace at home and abroad. The service for rest in the campus chapel was held on the Ursinus Campus in Bomberger at 3:30 p.m. last Wednesday evening. It was a call to service, followed by the singing of a song "When Wilt Thou Have the People" written by Eugene Ionesco and directed by Michael Werner; and "There Shall Be a Peace Song" written by George Bernard Shaw and directed by David Friedman. The plays are being presented in the old snack shop.

The snack shop is now home for ProTheatre. With the opening of the new student union last January, the Administration turned the vacant building over to ProTheatre. At that time it was elected the Montgomery County Center for the Performing Arts. For the most part, remodeling plans have been proceeding on schedule. Although the major step of the Center's facade-lifting was the installation of a heating system, to be finished this week. Ready or not, ProTheatre intends to use the Center as stages for the plays being presented this fall.
It is still too early to tell whether the American Film Theatre's Subscription Series will be successful or not, but at this point it can be said that he has not run into a hitch that he hasn't been able to handle.

The series of eight monthly films begins on Tuesday as film-goers across the nation viewed a production of Harold Pinter's "The Homecoming." Future performances include "Rhinoceros" by Eugene Ionesco and Eugene O'Neill's "The Iceman Cometh." Although one or two of the films have been on television, the series as a whole is a concept is not unlike a film festival stretched out over a period of eight months, the advertising campaign.

JAZZ
Herman Herd in Motion

By ERIC NEMEYER

If you haven't heard the Woody Herman Big Band because you think that he's still playing what your parents used to listen to, think again. This band, along with its leader, were at one time the vanguard of the big band movement. Although his esoteric and even eccentric style makes it difficult for the uninformed to appreciate, his band has been a major influence on every jazz musician to come along since it was formed in the late 1930's. Since that time, most of the great jazz musicians have played in bands that were influenced by Woody's ideas. Though his music is not for everyone, it is definitely worth a listen.

Woody Herman's style is characterized by a love of melody, a flair for arranging, and a sense of humor. His music is often filled with unexpected twists and turns, and his arrangements are always full of surprises. His band has been a source of inspiration for many other musicians, and his influence can be heard in the work of everyone from Charlie Parker to Miles Davis.

Woody Herman's biggest achievement was his ability to bring together a group of musicians who could all play in harmony. He was able to create an ensemble that was both flexible and powerful, and his arrangements were always a joy to listen to. His band was one of the first to use electronic instruments, and he was always experimenting with new sounds and techniques. His music is a perfect example of the innovative spirit that has always been a part of jazz.

If you're interested in learning more about Woody Herman, I would recommend checking out his discography or attending one of his performances. His music is a testament to his talent and dedication, and it's sure to inspire anyone who listens to it.

KILT BLAD'S COMMENT:

Ursinus Downs U of P; Then Falls To Rams

By EVA MORGAN

October 23rd Ursinus defeated the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia. U of P, sporting both strong defenses and defenses, was a real challenge for the Ursinus teams. The Varsity game was fast and hard and the Rams got off to a quick start. The first time of the season gave 100 percent for the Rams. In the second quarter, Stover, U of P's strong left inner (and a U.S. reserve player) met her match when U.C.'s Sally Anderson stopped her every drive. (Way to go, Sally!) In fact, the entire U of P line was ineffective against the strong U of P. The Bearettes controlled the play and essentially ran away with the game as evidenced by their 5-0 win. Scorers for the Bearettes were Melissa Magee with two, and Judy Turner, Janet Luce and Heeca Garwood with one each.

The Junior Varsity got off to a slow start against U of P with a half-time score of 1-0. Missy Herod scoring. Not until late in the second period did the Baby Bears start to attack, and then they scored 2 goals in less than 15 minutes. Missy Herod scored two more in the last period and Pam Pools scored her first, slipping one past the unsuspecting Penn defense. Final score, 4-2.

U.C. will host the next game on October 24th. The home game against Philadelphia will be held Tuesday, October 25th at 6:45 p.m. in the Union conference room. Everyone is invited to attend.

Bears Lose Fifth Game

To A Tough Widener Team

By GEORGE GEIST

Widener College's football team celebrated Halloween a few days early last Saturday! Billy "White Shoes" Johnson and Company continued the all-season tradition of trick and Treats. Monday evening, Halloween Homecoming Day crowd went to a truly phenomenal display of M.A.C. football dominance. Meanwhile, the Pioneers of Widener were recording their fifth straight victory and the Bears of Ursinus continued to exhibit an extremely porous defense and a lack of a balanced offensive attack.

After the Ursinus Bears had easily defeated Swarthmore 28-0 the previous week, and with the expectation of playing before a crowd of cheering Bear fans (unusual, isn't it?), a feeling of optimism was prevalent throughout the week prior to the game. Following the first of many unsuccessful Ursinus offensive series, the Pioneers of Widener immediately displayed a sample of their powerful rushing attack. On their first play from scrimmage, Little All-American Billy "White Shoes" Johnson swept outside for six yards. Only seven plays later, in an unusual exhibition of an aerial attack, Pioneer quarterback Ken O'Brien rallied and fired a touchdown strike to sophomore tight-end John Lastow-ka. The PAT attempt was successful.

However, this score was only the beginning of an unfortunate Ursinus afternoon, and a Pioneer offensive explosion! Within the following four minutes, Widener scored three more times while mounting an unbelievable first quarter lead of 28-0. During the lastly correlated four minutes, Widener would score four more times. The final score was 31-0.
