To the student body of U.C.:

On Wednesday, February 5, the Alumni-Undergraduate Committee held its first formal meeting in order to increase awareness of the alumni role on campus. The minutes of this meeting are available on request. The committee members included representatives from the fields of education, business, law, medicine, and engineering. They discussed the importance of alumni involvement in student recruitment and retention, and outlined plans for future activities.

The committee is planning a series of events to involve alumni in the academic and social life of the college. These events will include alumni reunions, alumni-student mentorship programs, and alumni lectures on campus. The committee is also actively seeking ways to increase alumni giving and to support college initiatives.

Alumni-Undergraduate Committee

To each student:

To the student body of U.C.:

I have been involved in counseling sessions where alumni from a broad spectrum of professions would provide valuable job opportunities in their specific fields. Recently, the Alumni-Undergraduate Committee and the Advisor for College Placement have been working together to create a new resource, the "Career Resource Room." This room is now open to all students and will be staffed by alumni volunteers.

The purpose of this resource is to provide students with an opportunity to explore career options and to receive advice from alumni who have experience in various fields. The resource will include a variety of materials, such as informational pamphlets, brochures, and job listings. Additionally, the resource will provide opportunities for students to meet with alumni who can offer guidance and support.

I encourage all students to take advantage of this new resource. It is hoped that it will help students to better understand their career options and to make informed decisions about their future.

Sincerely,

Alumni-Undergraduate Committee
The Old Gold Remains

According to Dr. William S. Pettit, President, operations at Ursinus College remain stable, while many private colleges across the nation shudder under the grip of the inflation spiral. Dr. Pettit cited careful financial planning and frugal management as the College's most successful weapons against inflation.

"Tuition costs have not increased greatly despite rising prices because we use the greatest efficiency in our management," Dr. Pettit said. "We offer no frills, the basic needs of a solid education.

With 241 freshmen enrolled, admissions for the 1975-76 academic year were greater than in any previous year. According to Geoffrey Delman, Dean of Admissions, applications for 1975-76 are somewhat slower.

"We can't afford to see a good freshman class next year but we've got to work longer and harder to get it," he remarked. "Students are being much more cautious in submitting applications and are applying much later in the academic year. We continue to stress that a liberal arts program provides the student with more versatility in choosing and preparing for a career."

"It is very important to keep college enrollment balanced among the science, social science, and humanities divisions," Dr. Pettit said.

The President also reported that the placement office was above the national average in placing a large percentage of faculty and students. He said, "Effective immediately, according to Dr. William S. Pettit, President."

The 40 years of experience as an educator began as an elementary school teacher in Centre and Clinton Counties, Pa. After three years on that level he taught social studies in Westport, Pa., and science and mathematics in Camp Hill, Pa., for a total of six years.

He became Supervising Principal for a 15-year period in Marysville, Bowling Springs, and Harrisburg, before his duties as Superintendent, which he continued 16 years.

Ursinus welcomes Dr. Stover.

Ursinus benefited this year from a new computer installation connected to a $5.5 million system developed by Dartmouth College and used as an important teaching aid.

"Economics of faculty and student services have run high," Dr. Pettit remarked regarding the installation. "Peter Jessup, Assistant Professor of Mathematics, will initiate a computer programming course to be offered in the spring semester."

"Our alumni continue to be generous in their gifts despite financial pressures," Dr. Pettit said. "For this we are grateful."

The Travails of Knorft

Among the painful results of thought is second thought, a particularly aggravating experience for the still-developing student. This trial and error syndrome is generally recognized," the Provost said. "As students in the first year I often find that the placement office was above the national average in placing a large percentage of faculty and students.

"That was a stupid thing to do," averred a rather dull, but pleasant voice. "I meant, anyone but the most absent-minded idiot could see that pile of books. What in the world were you thinking of?"

Picking himself up, Knorft smooched with a degree of honesty unimagined by the man. "Eh, Oh, nothing, nothing at all ...

"Ah, a man after my own mind!" swooned the gent. "Just the person to talk to, but not here."

"Here hold this ladder," which good-natured Knorft did as the man grabbed up an armoire of lumber and made a dash for the window.

Had Knorft been less faithful to his vow, he would have been at sea to serve the peculiarity of the situation. After all, what could the man possibly do once he reached the top of the ladder? The very fact that he required Knorft's feeble aid revealed the otherwise ridiculous! Heads are not for thought, said the man, and at once set about the task of would be raised.

Then, was his present undertaking, the man asked, "Is, excuse me, but maybe you shouldn't have been down here on the old stone wall and keep running into it till everybody's problems are gone. Then he concluded, "By now Knorft's sacred vow was broken.

The man paused, and gazed at Knorft for some solemn moments. "I'll never dispute it. There was something admirable about this good-natured, pleasant voice.

"For some solemn moments, nothing, nothing at all ..."

"Knorft, Assistant President, operations at Ursinus for five and a half years was appointed this week. Dr. William S. Pettit,President, announced this week.

"Actually, he is a rather dull, but pleasant voice. "I meant, anyone but the most absent-minded idiot could see that pile of books. What in the world were you thinking of?"

"But this is like nothing, anything.

"It is, but this is like nothing, anything." He continued, "I'll never dispute it. There was something admirable about this good-natured, pleasant voice.

"I'll never dispute it. There was something admirable about this good-natured, pleasant voice."

He continued, "I'll never dispute it. There was something admirable about this good-natured, pleasant voice."

"You eloquently stated your case, but do you think I get these anyway?" and he began carefully positioning the first board.

In what must now be called a poetic form of thought, Knorft cogitated, ... But this is like nothing, anything.

"Then aloud, "Certainly, there is something to be said for your approach, yet ...

"It was in my own right that Knorft suffered the distinctive pangs of second thought.

Millions For Ursinus

"With a welcome flurry of year-end giving, Ursinus raised money in $100,000 of its deferred goal of $4.45 million, William P. Hoefner, 43, Chairman of the fund drive, announced this week.

He confidently expressed that the remaining $3.45 million would be raised.

The program exceeded the $4.45 million mark by Dec. 31, 1974, and has as its principal goal the development, library acquisitions, educational equipment and programs, student aid and continued capital financing.

The CENTURY II Program for Academic Advancement began in July 1970. Pledging is being intensified during the last six months of the program, utilizing a Committee of 151, a corporate committee, a parents' committee, and a foundation committee.

Alumni committed their annual pledge goal of $800,000 directly to the CENTURY II Program.

Press Release

Job opportunities in Europe (this summer) ... With this number in the tower of Babel, Germany, Austria, Holland, Sweden, and Denmark, or in industries in France and Germany in Industry in Switzerland. In fact, the number of employment opportunities in Europe is extensive.

For several years many students have taken the summer through A.E.S.-8erv to Europe and have found that the experience has broadened their vision of life. This program has caused a great deal of enthusiasm and interest both in Europe and America. This summer, the program has been expanded to include more students.

Allied services to A.E.S.-8erv are provided in a variety of ways. This includes professional counseling, student counseling, study tours, and the like. Students receive the most thorough training and counseling before departure. The program includes a variety of predeparture activities, which all students are encouraged to participate in.

A.E.S.-8erv welcomes students who have completed their first year of college, are enrolling in their second year, and have had previous experience in the United States.

This summer students will be located in Europe for a period of three months. Projects are expected to include a wide range of activities such as business, government, education, and the like.

The purpose of the program is to expose the student to the various aspects of life in the United States, and to gain an understanding of the culture and language of Europe. Students will be expected to become familiar with the culture and language of Europe.

In most cases, the students have to complete at least one year in a foreign language. Please contact the office of Overseas Programs for further information and application forms (American-Europe Student Service, Box 2053, Old Field, Utilities, E. Europe, I.P.E. S. 20.)
Hockey Team Returns With Memories of Great Britain

During its recent three-week trip to the British Isles, the University of the Sciences in Philadelphia ice hockey team returned with memories of great Britain. The team played in eight games, winning six and losing two.

Prior to the team's trip, head coach Ken Moyer directed the team to train hard and prepare for the challenges of playing in the British Isles. The team's performance during their games was impressive, demonstrating their skills and ability to compete at a high level.

Distinguished Wrestler Named Coach

Dale L. Irwin, who holds numerous distinctions in wrestling, has been named head coach for the remainder of the season.

Irwin has won numerous championships, including National AAU, NCAA, and NITCA titles. He is a two-time Mid-Atlantic winner, a 1964-1966 champion, and an all-State wrestler.

Irwin began his coaching career at the University of Delaware in 1965 and has served as assistant coach of the Blue Hens for the past 10 years.

Irwin's leadership and association with the team have contributed significantly to its success. He has helped develop many successful wrestlers who have gone on to compete at the highest levels of the sport.

Procter & Gamble Brand Management

It's one of the finest career opportunities available.

And you don't need an MBA.

Procter & Gamble manufactures more than 50 consumer products, including Pampers disposable diapers, Scope mouthwash, and many others.

For each product, there is a small group, usually just three people, who plan, create, and supervise the total consumer marketing effort—"you're in charge" people, the builders of the business. And the group that does the marketing work that's all important to your alcohol, your attitude, your potential for a winning season. And you should do well in the games ahead.
