The mighty wrestler rose
And held his arms on high
His stance - a victory pose
In a match of do or die.

Just one more match remained
One more that must be won
And tho' he wrestled mightily
His spirit was undone.

The champ - a gracious loser
Acknowledged being pinned
He wiped his tired brow
Waved to his fans - and grinned.

The victory he had savored
Had proved a fleeting thing.
Alone he'd face the music;
Alone he'd leave the ring.

But as he rose to exit
His body locked in pain
The champion knew the truth
He'd never rise again.

"O God I beg you now."
The wrestler prayed at last.
"Give me the strength to stand
For the glory of the past."

And so appeared the helper
Answering the Lord's command
And off they went to heaven
Two brothers hand in hand.

-W ith love and remembrance,
The students and staff of PV South Elementary
Ryan graduated from Perkiomen Valley High School in 1994, where he served as class president for four years. He was a member of the National Honor Society, the student council, the football team, the wrestling team and the track team.

While in school, Ryan attended the Center for Talented Youth at John Hopkins University, and the Hugh O’Brien Youth Foundation Eastern Pennsylvania Leadership Seminar.

Ryan, "The Gentle Giant," was also the most successful heavyweight wrestler, in terms of victories, in Perkiomen Valley High School Wrestling history.

While a freshman at Ursinus, Ryan majored in Sports Medicine. He was a member of the football team, Beta Sigma Lambda fraternity, and he also worked part-time for Wood Food Services on campus.

In his spare time, Ryan volunteered as an assistant wrestling coach at Perkiomen Valley High School. He enjoyed music and working on cars. Ryan was very proud of his 1967 Mustang convertible which he restored.

Diagnosed with leukemia in March of 1995, Ryan received a bone marrow transplant from his brother Robert in September. Ryan never once gave up in his battle with leukemia. He always had a 1,000-watt smile which we will all remember him by.

Ursinus College was chartered by the Pennsylvania Legislature on February 5, 1869.

It was established on the site of the former Freeland Seminary, a Mennonite institution in the village of Freeland (now Collegeville). The College's founders, members of the German Reformed Church, were led by the Rev. John Henry Augustus Bomberger. They named their new enterprise after Zacharias Ursinus, born Zachariah Baer in 1534 in Breslau, Germany, a German Reformed scholar and theologian, who in the academic tradition of his day had latinized his name. Zacharias Ursinus is best known today as principal author of the Heidelberg Catechism, which was written while he was head of the theological department at the University of Heidelberg. The principles expressed in that work are consistent with the sense of service to society fostered in Ursinus students today.

Ursinus College is located on the site of three former educational institutions. The first was a primitive 18th century log schoolhouse, which was replaced in 1832 by Todd’s School, a one-room stone grammar school. Todd’s School in turn gave way to Freeland Seminary, a private secondary school for young men, founded in 1848. Three years later, Pennsylvania Female College was established, one of the nation’s earliest collegiate institutions for women, which closed in 1880. In 1881, Ursinus first admitted women students. During the decade of their co-existence, Ursinus and the Pennsylvania Female College shared some of the same faculty members and trustees. From its inception, Ursinus College was independent of the church. Today it is voluntarily related to the United Church of Christ, a successor denomination to the German Reformed Church.

In the last twelve and a half decades, Ursinus has grown and evolved. The first collegiate class to graduate in 1873 had five members. Today, the student body consists of 1,150 day students and 1,400 part-time adult evening students. The College has about 12,000 living alumni who reside in 49 states and 27 countries. Since 1869, the College has offered an undergraduate liberal arts curriculum, and in its early years, a graduate seminar program as well. Today, Ursinus is strictly a four-year liberal arts college which offers courses in 20 majors and 39 minor fields, emphasizing pre-professional preparation for further study in the liberal disciplines and for fields such as medicine, law, education, science, and business. It is 16th among liberal arts colleges nationally in the proportion of its graduates who go on to become physicians, and 30th in the proportion of its students who go on to earn Ph.D.s in the natural sciences.
To the class of 1997,

Congratulations to the Ruby staff for producing a handsome yearbook. And "well done" to all Ursinus students for making such great strides in strengthening Ursinus College as a place that fosters excellence, nurtures responsibility, and engenders understanding and mutual respect.

I have enjoyed getting to know many of you, and I look forward to continuing to root for you in the years ahead.

Cordially,

Kerri Strug came to the Olympics with two goals: to make the all-around women's gymnastics finals and have a good time. Strug's vault that sealed America's first Olympic team gold medal also left her with torn ligaments and a sprained ankle. Missing the all-around was especially disappointing for Strug, but "winning the team gold medal has been a dream come true," said Strug.

Democratic National Convention

President Clinton made a determined case for a second term August 29, 1996, in a climactic convention address that took credit for blocking Republican budget cuts and promised an array of new help for poor and middle-class families. "Hope is back in America," Clinton declared.

The World Series

The World Series trophy is back in the Bronx, belonging to a New York Yankees team that never gave up. The Yankees won the first champion Atlanta Braves in four straight, with a 3-2 victory in game six on Saturday, October 26, 1996. This marked the Yankees' 23rd title, the most in history.

Alanis Morissette is at the top of her profession these days. With sales of "Jagged Little Pill" reaching 13 million, the 22-year-old Canadian singer/songwriter's debut in the United States became the best-selling album by a female artist.

The Dawleys

Professors Robert and Ellen Dawley have been teaching for twelve years. They came to Ursinus in 1969 after various appointments at Cornell University and Bowdoin College. Robert received his B.A. in Chemistry, his B.S. in Biology, and his M.S. in Biology at Wayne State University. He then went on to earn his Ph.D. in Biology at the University of Connecticut before beginning to teach. Ellen earned her B.S. in Biology at the Mercy College of Detroit and her M.S. in Biology at the University of Michigan. She then earned her Ph.D. in Biology at the University of Connecticut several years later. Each has written numerous articles and publications about their specific areas of research. Robert has written a book about these interests entitled Evolution and Ecology of Unisexual Vertebrates. Ellen’s research interests have included the chemosensory systems of various salamander species. Outside of the spacious confines of “The Beagle,” Ellen enjoys the piano and singing, as well as gardening and reading. Robert finds time to practice his handyman skills throughout various building projects on the Dawley residence.

Dr. Robert Davidson

Dr. Robert Davidson is the head of the Ursinus exercise and sports science (ESS) department. He joined the Ursinus staff in 1972 after receiving his B.S. from Northwestern, an M.A. and a certificate of advanced studies from Springfield College. He earned his Ed.D. in sports administration from Temple University. Dr. Davidson was previously the president of the Pennsylvania State Association of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance. He also received the organization's highest honor, the Elmer B. Cottrell Award, in 1993. He was also the president of the Middle Atlantic States Athletic Conference.

Professor Tortorelli is an accomplished teacher. He received his B.S. from Manhattan College, then earned the Ph.D. in Organic Chemistry at Princeton University, then he began teaching. Dr. Tortorelli, the current chairperson of the Chemistry Department, entered Ursinus in 1981 after a two-year appointment at Haverford College. Professor Tortorelli’s research interests are in the field of organometallic chemistry, involving organosilicon chemistry and/or photochemistry. Chemistry students working under Dr. Tortorelli have the opportunity to generate reactive intermediates known as silylenes using photochemical techniques. Aside from academics, Dr. Tortorelli participates in many areas of campus life. He has served on many committees and helped out with various student events such as the Ursinus Spring Service Day in 1995. A resident of Plymouth, Pennsylvania, Dr. Tortorelli enjoys cycling, baseball, and “anything associated with Walt Disney or Yogi Berra.”
Communications Studies And Theater

Dr. Jay K. Miller

Professor Miller, the current chairperson of the Communication Arts department, came to Ursinus in 1985 after teaching for ten years at Rutgers University and working for the Department of State in Washington, D.C. and for a communications consulting firm for four years. He earned his B.A. and M.C.R.P. at Rutgers University; his M.A. at Miami University, and the Ph.D. at The Union Institute before entering the communications industry. At Ursinus, Dr. Miller teaches television production and editing courses. Dr. Miller has also written many papers and articles, including "A Comparison of Japanese and American International News" that was published in the Keio Communications Review. Professor Miller's research interests include an analysis of television news and new communication technology. Outside of Ursinus, Dr. Miller enjoys mountain biking, swimming, and video work.

Philosophy And Religion Department

Dr. Stewart Goetz

Dr. Stewart Goetz is the head of the Philosophy and Religion department. He began teaching at Ursinus in 1988. Dr. Goetz received his B.S. from Michigan State University, an M.Litt. from Oxford University, and his Ph.D. from the University of Notre Dame. Along with teaching, Dr. Goetz has published several of his writings and reviews in such journals as Faith & Philosophy and The Philosophical Quarterly.
Dr. Colette Hall, Professor of French, has a very diverse educational background. Dr. Hall received her undergraduate degree in English at the Université de Nanterre, a university close to Paris, and her Ph.D. in French at Bryn Mawr College. Before teaching at Ursinus, where she has taught for seventeen years, Dr. Hall served in the Peace Corps. During her distinguished career at Ursinus, Dr. Hall has received such awards as the Lindback Award in 1984 and the Laughlin Professional Achievement Award at last year’s commencement ceremonies.

Dr. Hall has done an abundance of research on twentieth century women writers in France. Among her works is a series of essays published in 1991 entitled Redefining Autobiography in Twentieth Century Women’s Literature, which she co-edited. In 1994, another work of Dr. Hall, Marie Cardinal, was published. She is currently working on Violette Leduc. Adding to the list of Dr. Hall’s work regarding women in literature, Dr. Hall is also the president of an international organization, Women in French.
Dr. Martha Takats

Dr. Martha Takats, chairperson of the Physics Department, can be found teaching such classes as modern physics and math physics as well as instructing physics labs. During her twenty-six years at Ursinus, Dr. Takats has had several abstracts published in various scientific journals. Since working with computers is one of Dr. Takats' main interests, she is currently developing computer software to be used in labs.

Dr. Takats received her B.A. from Wellesley College and received her M.S. at the University of Wisconsin. After earning her Ph.D. at the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Takats began teaching at Ursinus, where she has been teaching since 1969. Dr. Takats views her time at Ursinus as a very positive and fulfilling experience.

Classics Department

Dr. John Wickersham

Professor John Wickersham, chairman of the Classics Department, came to Ursinus in 1972. Dr. Wickersham earned his A.B. degree in Greek and Latin and his M.A. degree in Greek at the University of Pennsylvania, before beginning his academic career. Later, in 1972 he earned his B.A. degree in Literae Humaniores at Oxford University and the Ph.D. in Classical Philology at Princeton University. Dr. Wickersham has written three books, numerous articles and reviews, and given various public lectures. A resident of Strafford, Pennsylvania, Professor Wickersham enjoys classical and country western music and gardening. In consideration of his experience at Ursinus, "On a normal day it would be carpe diem. On every other day it isn't."
Dr. Carol Dole

Carol Dole is the head of the English department here at Ursinus. Dr. Dole attended Manhattanville College where she received her B.A. in English. She attended Louisiana State University where she received her M.A. and then went on to Cornell University where she earned her Ph.D.

This year is Dr. Dole's ninth year teaching at Ursinus where she can be found teaching courses in British Literature, Film, World Literature and Writing. Prior to teaching at Ursinus, Dr. Dole began her career as a proofreader in a Wall Street law firm, soon after becoming a paralegal. She then became a copy editor for a literary journal entitled The Southern Review. Finally, while working on her masters degree, she taught at Louisiana State University. In her career, Dr. Dole has had several works published including commentaries on Steven Spielberg's Adaptation of 'The Color Purple' and Harrison Ford's Star Persona. Dr. Dole is currently preparing for her sabbatical.

Outside of teaching at Ursinus, Dr. Dole spends most of her time with her three boys. She also enjoys traveling.

Most Ursinus students know Dr. Bernard Lentz as Professor and Chairperson of Economics and Business Administration, yet Dr. Lentz has also gained recognition as a result of his fascinating research. During the past several years, Dr. Lentz has had several editorials in the Philadelphia Inquirer and USA Today regarding his research on the influence of the O.J. Simpson trial on work productivity. For example, some of Dr. Lentz' research focused on the amount of time people spent talking about the trial instead of performing their work tasks. Sex Discrimination in the Legal Profession, which was published in 1995 and co-authored with David Lahand, is the most recent of Dr. Lentz' three books.

Dr. Lentz received his B.A. from Oberlin College and received both his M.A. and Ph.D. from Yale University. Prior to teaching at Ursinus, Dr. Lentz at Virginia Polytech Institute and State University as well as State University of New York at Albany. In 1994, Dr. Lentz was the recipient of the Laughlin Professional Achievement Award.

Dr. Steven J. Hood

Steven Hood, Ph.D., is the head of the politics department at Ursinus. Dr. Hood attended Brigham Young University where he received a bachelors degree in International Relations. He then earned his masters degree at Brigham Young and his Ph.D. at the University of California at Santa Barbara.

This year is Dr. Hood's tenth year teaching at Ursinus where he can be found instructing courses in comparative politics, IR theory, Chinese politics, Japanese politics and political development. In his career, Dr. Hood published a book entitled The Democratization of Taiwan and is currently working on another book, Democratic Virtues and the Prospect for Democracy in China.

Outside of teaching at Ursinus, Dr. Hood is married with three children. In his spare time, he enjoys hiking, fishing, gardening and traveling.
Dr. Hugh Clark

Hugh Clark, Ph.D., is the head of the history department here at Ursinus. Dr. Clark attended the University of Pennsylvania where he received his bachelor's degree in Political science, then his masters degree and Ph.D. in history.

This year is Dr. Clark's 15th year teaching at Ursinus, where he can be found instructing courses in World History, East Asian History and Historiography. Prior to teaching at Ursinus, Dr. Clark taught part-time both at Haverford College and ran the study abroad program at Penn. He has published one book and is currently working on another.

Last year, Dr. Clark participated in an AIDS ride, in which he biked from Philadelphia to Washington, D.C. in three days. He also enjoys baseball and the outdoors.
Dr. Peter Jessup

Dr. Peter Jessup, professor and chairperson of mathematics and computer science, has had a great influence on the Ursinus community during his 23 years here. After bringing computing to Ursinus, Dr. Jessup served as the head of academic computing for 15 years. He received his A.B. from Kenyon College, his M.S. from Villanova University, and his Ph.D. from Lehigh University. Prior to teaching at Ursinus, Dr. Jessup taught at Clarkson College, which is an engineering school school now named Clarkson University. Presently Dr. Jessup teaches such classes as computer science and statistics. In addition to his work dealing with computers, Dr. Jessup is also interested in model railroads and photography.

In addition to teaching, Dr. Chambliss has had numerous publications. Outside of her life at Ursinus, Dr. Chambliss has four children; three sons and one daughter. She also enjoys escaping in her garden. Dr. Chambliss commented on how she has greatly enjoyed watching students take on greater leadership roles in community and volunteer projects associated with the department. She feels that students function more as professionals by the time they are seniors which helps them obtain the respect they deserve.

Wellness House

This special interest house, which is located at 777 Main Street, is designed for student athletes or those interested in physical fitness. With the programs coordinated by Christine Keyes, they have had gym activities during finals, supported the blood drive, and supported all other areas of Ursinus athletics.

USGA

The Ursinus Student Government Association is the link between students and administration. Comprised of students from all classes, this group works to address and solve concerns presented by the student body. This is done through various committees like the campus planning committee and the athletic committee. Students are assigned to meet with the faculty of these respective groups and then provide feedback to the USGA members. If concerns arise, USGA tries to solve them.

Members: Andrea Gaitan, Melissa Gilbert, Christine Keyes, Wendy Kilian, Stephanie Zenorini, B.K. Kuklinski, Michelle Landis, Raun Lazier, Laura Stook

Campus Activities Board

CAB provides a range of activities for the entire campus. Some activities include comedians, hypnotists, and speakers. CAB also sponsors several annual events such as the Mr. Ursinus Contest and Spring Fling. CAB is in the process of growing and reaching out to all student groups.

Members: Rocco Iacullo - President, Bee Heeney - Vice President, Brian Ebersole - Corresponding Secretary, Semra Forman - Recording Secretary, Mike Fleming - Treasurer
The media services assistants, a.k.a. AVers, are the friendly students who deliver audiovisual equipment, such as overhead projectors, televisions and VCRs, to classrooms. Media services assistants may also be found in the basement of the Myrin Library. There they help faculty and students find videos, compact discs, cassettes and slides.

SUN is an acronym that stands for Sankofa (back to your roots), Umoja (unity) Nia (purpose). SUN's purpose is to foster a sense of awareness and promote educational and cultural programs throughout the Ursinus community. The programming is unique to students of African descent. SUN began in 1996. It hosts a variety of cultural and social events including this year's Pajama Jammy-Jam and the SUN semi-formal. In the future, SUN plans to bring speakers to Ursinus and have various black history programs.
The Lantern

"The Lantern," advised by Dr. Jon Volkmer, is the literary magazine of Ursinus. Dedicated to the promotion and publication of creative writing, "The Lantern" is published twice a year. The Fall/Winter issue features short stories, while the Spring/Summer issue features poetry. Ursinus is home to a richly talented community of writers, and "The Lantern" exists as a forum for writers of all styles.

The Grizzly

The Grizzly is the student newspaper of Ursinus. It is published weekly and serves as an open forum for discussion by all members of the Ursinus community. It is also a place for students to read summaries of national news, college sports and upcoming events on campus.

Meistersingers

Meistersingers is a small choral ensemble which performs in Bomberger Auditorium throughout the year. Members are selected after an audition. Their annual tour will take them to Virginia over Spring Break.

Members: Benjamin Baehr, Christina Dappollone, Shannon DeCosta, Meera Domingo, Chris Gaskill, Justin Harrison, Jacqui Hickey, Beatrice May, Michelle Miller, Laura Owens, Christine Pili, Jill Schnader
Men's Volleyball

The 1996-97 academic year saw a new athletic team surface. During its first full year as a club sport, the Ursinus Men's Volleyball Team competed in the north division of the Mid-Atlantic Club Volleyball Conference. The team was led by co-captains Phil Landis and David Gaft whose efforts made this new team possible. Becoming an exciting new sport across many other college campuses, men's volleyball is expected to become a varsity sport at Ursinus within the next few years.

Psychology Club

The focus of the Psychology Club is to expose students to different fields in psychology through possible job opportunities, volunteer service, speakers, and films. Students in the Psychology Club are often used as a potential resource for freshman psychology majors in various ways. Finally, the club can add more depth to students' backgrounds in Psychology.

The mission of the Unity House is to present, promote, protect, and preserve the variety of cultures that exist on our campus. Programs have included a trip to the Balch Institute of Ethnic Studies in Philadelphia, a diversity workshop, performances by jazz and ska bands, and a women’s history program.

The goal of the residents of Hobson Hall is to perform and promote community service on and off campus. As a house, the students do three or more service projects each semester. This year, they have sponsored a Halloween party for children with diabetes, did work on Trinity Church, and hosted a campus-wide collection of toys for needy children at Christmas.
Musser International House

Musser is the international house here at Ursinus. Through the international program, this house seeks to broaden campus awareness of foreign cultures and customs. Musser also attempts to be a home away from home for foreign students visiting Ursinus. Throughout the year events are hosted by members of the house about traditions from around the world.

Isenberg Hall

Isenberg is the biology honors house located on Main Street. Each member of the house is a biology major and required to do research in the biology department. To expand both their knowledge and interest in biology, the house has participated in various activities which include canoeing trips, and visits to the Franklin Institute and Longwood Gardens. On campus the house watches nature movies and holds fundraisers to raise money for house projects.

The Omwake Education Club provides opportunities for students to learn about the education profession through discussions, field experiences, and campus speakers. Led by president Joe Catalfano, the club watched and discussed "Dangerous Minds," went to St. Gabriel's Hall, the Valley Forge Military Academy, and the Chester County Intermediate Unit.

Throughout the year the French Club, Le Cercle Francais, sponsors a variety of activities for its members as well as for the entire campus. Last semester Le Cercle Francais showed French films that spanned a variety of subject matter, including the popular film Gazon Maudit. A dessert festival was also organized and involved the preparation of desserts from around the world by several different organizations. Members of Le Cercle Francais prepared a wine and cheese gathering in Berman Museum to welcome new members and any students interested in the organization. Through such activities Le Cercle Francais enables students to become more familiar with the French culture and more open-minded to various ways of life.

The Brownback-Anders Pre-medical Society has long been a solid foundation for Ursinus students who wish to pursue interests in the health care professions. Students of the society work together to learn about the many fields of medicine and ethical concerns of the present in order to become effective health care professionals of the future.

Clubs/Organizations 49
The Astronomy Club, which has remained inactive for several years, has been revived! Events have covered a broad range of activities. Highlights included a trip to the Franklin Institute and the Fels Planetarium, star parties with the local Delaware Valley Amateur Astronomer's Association (DVAA), and an open house for the campus community to witness the appearance of Comet Hale-Bopp.

Ursinus Christian Fellowship (UCF) is affiliated with InterVarsity Christian Fellowship, a Christian ministry to college students and faculty on over 800 campuses throughout the United States. At Ursinus, there are weekly large groups, where members gather for worship and fellowship. In addition, there are a number of peer-led Bible studies that are committed to helping students grow in their relationship with Jesus Christ.
Beardwood Chemical Society

Students from a wide variety of majors are members of the Beardwood Chemical Society. The group meets several times a semester to listen to chemistry-oriented talks given by speakers from industries and universities. The club sponsors not only these talks, but also community service projects and social events.

Haines-Barnard Pre-Legal Society

The Haines-Barnard Pre-Legal Society is an organization of students who share a common interest in the law. Most are planning on going to school after Ursinus, and the society serves as a foundation for those aspirations. Through speakers, trips, and other activities, the society aims to give insight into the legal world.

Student’s Right for Life is a group dedicated to encouraging the community to respect life, especially that of the unborn. Among other activities, the group volunteered at the Birthrightasis Pregnancy Center in Pottstown, and they plan to do more activities like this in the future.
Whew! After four years of hard work the Class of '97 has reached the final stretch at Ursinus. The class officers spent much of their time this year in planning events geared to unify the class and allow everyone to kick back and have some fun. Probably the biggest social event was the Halloween party where everyone got a chance to dress up and hang out with the whole senior class. For their service project, the officers assisted in Chi Rho Psi's kickball tournament, which raised money for victims of abuse. The spring semester kept the officers busy planning the 97 days before graduation party and the events during senior weekend, including deciding upon a graduation speaker. It's been a long haul, but the fun we've all shared this year as a class has made it all worthwhile. The officers sincerely wish the best of luck to each and every graduating senior and are happy to have played an active role for the Class of 1997.

The last class of the millennium has worked hard this year. They sold t-shirts as a fundraiser and helped the community by co-sponsoring the Can-A-Thon. The class of '99, in conjunction with the class of 2000, held an Ursinus Date Auction. The class is looking forward to an equally active junior year.

The officers of the class of 2000 have many goals this year. To start their semester off the right way, the freshman class officers took a poll of 350 students in an attempt to determine the true concerns of the Ursinus student body. Their upcoming fundraiser is not going to be the usual t-shirt sales. Instead, they came up with Ursinus emblem key chains (the popular ones made by the BRINE Company) to sell as their fundraiser. These items will be sold to the student body in mid-February. The officers also intend to hold a Jello wrestling event during Spring Fling and to aid the sophomore class officers in the annual date auction. "Although this is our first year and we don't really know the ropes yet, we're trying our best to serve our class and the rest of the student body." —Oona Burke

Overall Season:
2 Wins, 16 Losses
Entrance into the Patriot League gives Ursinus Field Hockey Something to Aim For 1996 began as a momentous year for the tradition of field hockey at Ursinus. After being one of the only Division I teams not belonging to a conference, Ursinus became the seventh member of the Patriot League, joining Bucknell, Colgate, Holy Cross, Lafayette, Lehigh, and the other new member, Fairfield. This addition created new goals for the team including the league championship and a bid to the NCAA tournament. The top four teams in the league during the regular season play in a postseason tournament to determine the final victor. This team then plays the champion of the Ivy League; whichever team emerges as the victor will be eligible for a NCAA bid.

The Lady Bears began their season with many things in mind: this new league, the reconditioning of their field, and high hopes and goals. After losing nine letterwinners to graduation, the team was rebuilding following their successful 1995 season, in which they went 10-7 and gained a bid to the Division I ECAC playoffs held at Dartmouth University. Head coach Vonnie Gros, in her eighth season with the Bears, and assistants Jen Oscheal and Kim Ryan relied upon their ten returning letterwinners, including seniors Amy Minnich, Sue Boyer, Annie O’Connor, Kate Ruley, Colleen Sabol and Allison Snyder, to provide leadership for their young team. A productive preseason and a high turnout of players also created depth off the bench.

Cross Country

The Ursinus men's cross country team hopes to be one of the most successful in the history of the college. Under the coaching of Peter Crooke, and the leadership of lone senior and captain, Bayard Huck, this 1996 team has already been ranked tenth in the region, close to meeting their goal of getting in the top 5 and to nationals. To compete in nationals a school must be ranked in the top two of their region. This goal is very much within the sights of this men’s team. Despite the fact that they are a relatively young team, they are strong and determined, running consistently in meets and in practices. Bearing the wind and cold, they can always be seen running around the campus and the community, encouraging and pushing each other to do better. According to their captain, “This is the best team that I have run with since I've been here.”

The Ursinus women’s team is also coached by Peter Crooke, and like the men, they are a young team with exceptional talent. Two seniors, co-captain Christine Keyes and Wendy Sands, and co-captains Andrea Gaitan lead the team of nine women. They are looking to expand their roster and improve their times in order to place in more of their meets. In fact, their younger runners are placing more frequently and consistently in meets, providing a great base for the future. Regarding the beginning of the season, Keyes said, “Everyone’s doing so well; we are looking long-term to place in conference meets.” The leadership and commitment on the women’s team has enabled them to improve on their record and rebuild for the coming years.

the last two years, the cheerleading squad has undergone changes and has excelled to a new level. They have gained support from alumnae, coaches and the community to help achieve success. Overall, the cheerleaders had a great time cheering for the successful Bears football team.

Quarterback Chris Orlando drove the offense with a steady passing attack.
The defense, led by Rhodenbaugh (#99), stifled the attempts of opposing teams to move the ball.

Without a doubt, the biggest sports story of the year was the tremendous success of the football team. With a strong running game and an exceptional defense, the Bears roared to an historic season, gaining a Centennial Conference Crown and a playoff berth. Several players turned in outstanding season performances including first team ECAC players Gary Rhodenbaugh and Ron Floyd, Rookie of the Year Chris Lakatosh, and Division III All-American Peter Hinckle. The "team first" attitude, though, is what drove this team and it was their spirit and determination that made the 1996 football season one that every member of the Ursinus community will not soon forget.

Coach Steve Gilbert received a number of postseason honors for his performance in overseeing his staff and leading the team.

Special teams MVP Mark McGonagle lifted the team with a number of timely kicks.

The strength of the offensive line allowed back Brandon Shepherdson to rack up yards on opponents.
Men's Soccer

Led by senior Brad Getz and junior goalkeeper Chris Daniluk, the men's soccer team completed a hard fought '96 season. The Bearcats' 7 wins, 11 losses, 1 tie overall record is no indication of the determination and fight displayed by the team as each one of its games was a highly competitive contest. While Getz, the Ursinus all-time leading scorer with 59 goals, has played his final game, the team returns a very strong group for next season led by sophomore All-Conference selection Matt Finnegan who tallied a team-high 10 goals, and this year's co-captains Ed Luberski and Vincent Milano.

Coached by Bill Bonewitz and Mary Wilson, the women’s soccer team enjoyed its first year as a varsity sport here at Ursinus. Despite an injurious year, the team accomplished its goals of beating a conference team and becoming a competitive team on the varsity level. Captains Megan Larkin and Kathleen Farrell earned the honors of Conference Player of the Week and Honorable Mention for the title, respectively. The team is looking forward to next year, but they will miss the presence of their lone senior, Kathleen Farrell.
Coached by Lisa Cornish and assistant coach Phil Landis, the women's volleyball team showed much improvement this year, increasing their number of wins. Captain Jenni Nelson, the only senior, was one of the conference leaders in assists, while junior Chloe Morroni was third in the conference with kills. The team showed great potential for next year and will turn eager to create a winning season.

Men’s Basketball

The Ursinus Men’s Basketball team struggled in the 1996-97 season under third year head coach George White. Despite a 5-18 record, the team worked hard and positioned itself for successful future campaigns with a fine recruiting class and talented remaining personnel. Senior Pat Buyse graduated with a 1,000 point career and is twelfth on the all-time Ursinus scoring leaders list. He led the Centennial Conference in scoring and was in the league leaders for free throw percentage and rebounding while earning second team all-conference honors.

Sports 85
The Ursinus women's basketball team had a very talented team this year, with a bright look for the future. The team is a very close-knit family who had a lot of fun this season. They would have liked to go much further, but the team was plagued with injuries. Despite the loss of two seniors, Kathleen Farrell and Steph Casperson, the women look forward to a strong successful season next fall.

86 Sports
They keep getting better and better! That is what is often heard about the Ursinus gymnastics team around campus. 1997 has been the best season yet for the women and their coaches Ray McMahon and Suzanne LeDonne. Numerous individual and team records have been broken, including the team scoring record which now stands at 173.85.

Led by captains and seniors Jen Courtney and Carrie Luka, the team is close to attaining their goal, which is a spot in the team competition at the Division III national meet. Individually, Courtney and Luka are looking for their fourth trip in the all-around, Angela Mullan, her second, and freshman Cindy Leahy wants to begin her career at the top.

In addition to the women’s extraordinary talent, the teams they compete with are Division I and II teams. One of the highlights of their season was beating West Chester twice.

The Ursinus women look to be a powerhouse in the future, since they only graduate two out of the tremendous twelve from the 1997 season. However, Courtney and Luka will be sorely missed as fierce competitors and top all-around athletes.
Swimming

Despite only having fifteen members on the Ursinus swim team, the team worked hard, improved times and competed very well individually. Cristin Veit and Russ Whelan contributed to many first places throughout the dual meet season. At championships, Geoff Mills placed seventh in the 400 individual medley. In the 1650 freestyle, Lynn Knothe placed seventh and Kelly Donohue placed fifth.

The wrestling team, coached by Bill Racich and Bob Katz, enjoyed a winning season, earning the title of Centennial Conference Champions and placing fifth in the region. Team captains Darren Torson and Donny Asper led the team to an overall record of 20-2. Sophomore Nate McElhaney was a member of the Academic Honor Roll and an Academic All-American. Senior team members Tom Guzzo and Darren Torson, two of the team’s six regional placers, wrestled their way to 100 career victories. In addition, one won the Regional Championship 8 pounds, allowing him to advance to Nationals.

The Bears Baseball team is coming off a championship season. They hope to repeat their success under captains Brian McTear and Mike Romello. Romello and McTear along with junior Dirk Cleveland will lead the infield and Ben Mills will hold the outfield together. Although the Bears lost seven starters to graduation they hope that the young team will pick up where they left off last year.
In the fall season, the golf team competed in four invitationals. The team consisted of six players with the lowest ur scores counting toward the team standing. The team could compete against as many as thirty schools at the invitationals. The team finished second to Dickinson in the Centennial Conference Championships held in Ocean City, Maryland this past fall. The team will be spending Spring Break training at Pinehurst, North Carolina before beginning their spring season. Mike Spangler, co-captain of the team, says that the team will be focusing more on invitationals rather than matches against individual schools. The team plays at two home courses, which are Limerick and OneWall. Their coach Ted McKenzie is a golf pro at Stone- all.
After a successful 1996 season that saw the Ursinus women’s lacrosse team win the Centennial Conference with a 14-4 record and advance past the first round of the Division III NCAA tournament, many believe the Lady Bears will be a strong force again this year. Lacrosse Magazine has ranked them fourth, nationally, in its annual pre-season poll.

Coach Gros will look towards co-captains Colleen Sabol and Amy Minnich to help keep the team on pace to reach the NCAA tournament. The team has great depth to help them attain their goals. With returning players Missy Myers and Kris Algeo, the offense is as strong as ever, and the defensive unit will be looking towards Dana Curry to step up. Gros has one major hole to fill. With the graduation of Kim Ryan last year, the team is without a proven goalkeeper.

Ursinus will repeat their triumphs of last season if the freshmen get acclimated to the Bear system quickly, and the depth on the team comes through for them in the clutch. Look out Division III title, here come the Lady Bears!
The Ursinus softball team is coming off a record-breaking season. With the loss of seven seniors to graduation, this year will be a year for rebuilding. Senior Janetta Trecroce will spearhead the pitching staff but freshman Lisa Newmaster will be ready to back her up. Senior co-captains Lori Lennon and Michelle Morrell will lead the infield and provide the bulk of the lineup along with senior outfielder Annie O’Connor, junior centerfielder Selena Trecroce, and catcher Kim Reese. The Bears look to be contenders for a third straight Centennial Conference Championship but they will need the underclassmen to step up.
Led by captain Josh Hartle, the men’s tennis team continued to improve in the demanding Centennial Conference tennis schedule. The team’s overall depth has improved this year. Their schedule began with a trip to Florida which was a springboard to prepare for their spring season. Coach Del Engstrom says, “It is a pleasure working with a fine group of men in my fourth year of coaching tennis at Ursinus.”

Women’s Tennis

Courtney Kraemer - Captain, Heather Williams - Captain, Karen Amichetti, Heather Dromgoole, Andrea Hoppel, Lauren Newkirk, Emily Robles, Kate Weinrich, Carolyn Peters, Jennifer Rickards, Jen Alessandrini, Laura Hiegersell, Jamie Hurvitz, Maria Lougharn, Helene Mystakas, Tania Radocaj, Mari Aoki

The women’s tennis team is excited to begin their season with new coach Wendy Schenk. Senior captains Courtney Kraemer and Heather Williams led the team which consists of a few veterans and many newcomers. They’ve been practicing since the fall and look forward to improving their Centennial Conference standings this spring.
Track & Field

Using speed, strength, and technique, the Ursinus track & field team is primed for success in the spring season. With strong individual performances and strong team focus and coordination, the Bears are looking to run, jump, vault and throw their way past all competition. With a wealth of underclassmen, the team will look for leadership from proven, experienced team members like Bayard Huck and Rachelle Pecovsky. Coach Peter Crooke and his assistants will be working hard to get the team ready to offer excellent performances and to hopefully achieve their goals in the end-of-season championships.

Against all odds, the 1997 Ruby has become a great success. Although the “death” of last year’s Ruby made this difficult, our hardworking staff made its revival possible. With long hours, hard work and a sense of humor we have created a yearbook of many memories. Read it. Enjoy it. Cherish it.

These 180 pages are what Ursinus is all about.

To Lisa Barnes, Bill O’Brien and DaVor Studios: We thank you for your advice, your help and your patience.

To the Ursinus College Community: without your support, our efforts would have been pointless. Most importantly, to the class of 1997: good luck in the future. Make your mark on the world and do your best. That’s what we tried to do here.
