Ursinus owes much to its president, Dr. George L. Omwake. Through his foresight and executive ability, the College has made great strides. It was Dr. Omwake who pushed the Science Building project to its completion. Under his careful guidance the enrollment has reached its highest peak in history this year, an especially good omen in these troubled times.

Dr. Omwake has always taken a personal interest in the students and is intimately acquainted with dormitory and cottage life. A staunch backer of the athletic teams, we take this means of expressing our appreciation to him for his many kindnesses and generosity.

The above is the season’s record to date of the Drexel football team. The merits of such a record need no explanation or a simpler elucidation. It speaks for itself. To be able to boast of a clean slate at this late stage of the season is really something to be proud of.

Still deeper significance is attached to the title of this writing. When Ursinus came to Drexel Field last season, its record was: won; tied, 1; lost, 0. That, as most of us remember, was before the Drexel game. The defeat in Philadelphia was our first of the 1931 season.

The record of Collegeville boys so far this year is not exactly impressive. Still Ursinus has been beaten decisively only once this season—at Villanova. Gettysburg defeated the Bears, though it was a close battle. Muhlenberg held Ursinus to a tie. Dickinson and F. and M. are our two wins to date.

Getting to the point, Drexel, we would like to change the “0” in your lost column.

JUST ABOUT A YEAR AGO

Ursinus went to Drexel with a clean slate. We had successfully defended the Eastern Pennsylvania Conference title, and had beaten such teams as Haverford and Lehigh outside the conference. We left our untarnished record behind when we returned. Drexel had a record almost equally impressive when the game started. They had a better record when the game was completed. Two well trained elevens, each intent upon taking the game, provided the spectators with sixty minutes of clean, hard football. When the whistle blew the Dragons had just gotten their second touchdown and the victory, 12-7 was the result.

“Mike” LaBove was the big threat of our city friends that afternoon, and he proved his worth as he pounded the Ursinus line, sometimes for a gain, sometimes for no gain. Whichever was the case, one knew his intentions when he had the ball.

“Hy” Miller and “Charlie” Soeder, our big halfback and quarterback, who also backed up the line, respectively, were prominent for the Bears. All three men mentioned have been graduated, and each is missed by his team.

Nine of the Dragons who started this game last season are playing for the Gold and Blue today. The only two not back this fall are LaBove, last season’s captain and fullback, and M’Fadyen, a fast guard. For Ursinus, eight men are back for today’s fray, though it is not likely Deibler or Breisch, giant tackles, will see any action. Their injuries sustained early in the season failed to mend as had been hoped.

Both teams, as last year, will send veterans on the field. Last year we saw a great game, with Drexel on the long end. This year we expect another great game with “?” on the long end.
In 1848, another milestone toward the Ursinus of today was marked in the founding of Freeland Seminary, a preparatory boarding school for boys. The Seminary, located at the site of what is now Freeland Hall, was one of the outstanding preparatory schools of its day in Eastern Pennsylvania. Many prominent men of the past generation, especially in the Philadelphia area, looked back with reverence upon Old Free­land as their Alma Mater.

Just one hundred years ago, the present site of Ursinus College was first consecrated as an educational center. It was in 1832 that the Todd School, a private school, was founded on these grounds to serve as a country day school for the youngsters in and about the locality that is now Collegeville. From that humble beginning, progressing on a conservative basis, the physical origin of the present Ursinus College was laid.

In 1869, a state charter incorporating Ursinus College as an institution of higher learning was granted. Those who were granted the charter were a group of eminent Philadelphians. They choose this beauty spot of Montgomery County as the location for the proposed college, only after a highly discriminating search for such an ideal site.

With the inception of higher education in College-
ville, great strides in the development of the institution followed. Ursinus became tolerant to co-education in the early eighties. The rapid expansion of the College necessitated larger building facilities. This resulted in the construction of Bomberger Hall, the present arts building, in 1891. This building, for many years, was the home of all classroom instruction in Ursinus Academy as well as Ursinus College. The former, the preparatory section of the institution, was abolished in 1910.

However, since the inauguration of Dr. Omwake as president of the College in 1914, Ursinus has witnessed its most intensive growth. Since that date the student body has more than doubled in number. During his administration the Memorial Library was erected. In 1927, the two very up-to-date men's dormitories, Curtis and Brodbeck, were built. This physical expansion was fittingly climaxed by the construction of the Science Building, which was only recently completed.

It is not her buildings that are Ursinus' greatest boast as a College. Ursinus has earned the classification of a grade A college. In addition to that, within the past few years the Collegeville institution has been placed on the approved list of American Colleges and Universities—a worthy ideal for any college to seek or attain.

FOOTBALL'S ANSWER

They reform me each new season
As they point to each new fault.
And their hands are turned against me
As they crowd me to the vault.
But amid the growing clamor,
They still know around the clan,
I'm the soul of college spirit
And the maker of a man.

O, I know I'm far from perfect
When the autumn leaves turn red,
When the tackle's neck is furrowed
By the halfback's heavy tread;
But you hear them still admitting
As they put me on the pan,
"He's the soul of college spirit,
And the maker of a man."

Perhaps I'm over-featured
In the headline's stirring plea.
Perhaps I'm more important
Than a mere game ought to be;
But with all the sins they speak of,
And the list is quite a span,
I'm the soul of college spirit
And the maker of a man.

Five Reasons Why Drexel Is Undefeated

1. EDWARD MARSH, Captain and strong unit in Drexel line. 2. HENRY WALLACE, a stalwart end. 3. TED MARKLE, who is a dependable tackle. 4. MYRON FLEMING, who will call signals. 5. TOM LUKENS, who plays a guard position.
Ralph Chase who, in 1925, was practically Pitt's one-man forward wall, is coaching the line for the second year. "Horse" has had an interesting and checkered career. He entered the University of Pittsburgh disguised as a basket-ball player, and emerged as an all-American tackle. Mr. Chase learned his football under Warner while in college, and later assisted the famous strategian at California. For two years he has combined the technical excellence of "Pop" with his own rugged style and pleasant personality. The result is an Ursinus line that is fully capable of either opening or closing the path of the pigskin, as the case may be.

Proving the story of good things in small packages, Ursinus went over the hill to Phoenixville to find head-coach McAvoy. And what a find he turned out to be! Jack played on Dartmouth's national championship eleven in 1925 and was prominently mentioned for individual all-American honors. He also starred in track and field work at Hanover, holding several amateur records in this line. "Mac" has been with us for three years, two as head coach. He has impressed all those who have come in contact with him as being a pastmaster in the theory and practice of football and one able put them across to his men in an effective and agreeable way.
The little fellow on the opposite page is Donald Sternier, '31, who coaches the Frosh teams. After three years of varsity experience in all three sports, in which he was so proficient as to win the president's award for excelling in athletics, he was appointed to his present position. His best team to date was baseball last spring, the Frosh being undefeated. This fall, having a good squad of big, husky boys, he says he is going to have a team that will stop, or make progress, depending upon whom has the ball, and one well able to uphold the traditions of Ursinus.

CAPT. PAUL—End

Alvin Paul, familiarly known as "Swede," Ursinus' star left end, is one of the greatest all-around athletes to wear the color of the Red, Old Gold and Black. Besides football, of which team he is captain, he plays either center or guard in basketball, and is so proficient in the high and broad jumps as to have been elected captain of the track team in his junior year. It is football, however, that claims his major interest. A fast thinking, hard playing end, he is equally adept at receiving or blocking passes, and at making or blocking holes in the line as the case may be. His playing last year against Lehigh, won him a place on their all-opponent team, the other end being Paul Riblett, captain of Penn.

Paul's home is in Elkins Park, suburban Philadelphia. From local schools he went to Perkiomen Prep, thence to Ursinus, where he is a senior in the business administration group.

Well respected and well liked, he possesses the qualities of athletic leadership which are essential for the success of any team.

DREXEL STATISTICS

!Airplane View of Ursinus College
To Walter H. Halas must be given much of the credit for Drexel's spectacular rise in collegiate sports. Learning his football at the University of Illinois under "Bob" Zuppke, he later went to Notre Dame, where he coached the backs and scouted opposing teams. In the latter field, Knute Rockne considered him the best in the country. His best known products were the famous "Four Horsemen." Coming to the Philadelphia school from South Bend five years ago, he found athletics on a low rung indeed. But the combination of Rockne's technical excellence and Zuppke's strategy, delivered in his own able manner, could not be denied. The result, Drexel has moved up the ladder until she is now on a par with the best of the small colleges in the state. Under his tutelage, more than three-fourth of the Dragons' games have ended in victories for the Gold and Blue. Last season they won seven of their eight games. This year, to date, they are undefeated! With a record like that, and a personality that makes him beloved by the entire student-body, we immediately understand the pride with which Drexel students speak of Coach Halas.

Assisting Coach Halas with the backfield candidates, we find "Al" Repscha, a fast thinking, hard-hitting back himself, he is well able to instruct the boys in either fundamentals or inside tricks of the trade. To make a full-times job of it he also has complete charge of the Freshmen-Jay Vee eleven, which was seen here this morning in a game with the Ursinus Yearlings.

Rae Crowther, former Colgate University star, takes care of the linemen. A pastmaster in both theory and practice of line play, skillful in the methods of teaching, and a genial personality, he is most agreeable, and quite as effective.

URSINUS GRIDIRON DIRT

Wally Tropp will let anyone feel the muscles of his arm for a quarter.

“Virgie” Diebler weighs more than twice as much as he did when he was half his present age. Figure it out for yourself.

“Haydik” Parunak has more hair on his chest than Herb Levin has on his head.

Petroski has never had his name spelled right in a newspaper write-up. In fact, I don’t think I spelled it correctly just now.

Smeigh and Parunak are commonly known as the “Heavenly Twins.”

O’Donnell is partly Irish. Mario Farias is not.

FIGHT SONG

Fight Ursinus—Fight, Ursinus;
Fight against the foe,
Wave your colors, wave them proudly
As we onward go.

Fight Song

For when all Drexel students fall in line,
We’re going to show our spirit every time.
We will compete with all the schools around,
And make the Gold and Blue outshine their varsity.
For as it stands for Science, Industry,
As well as Arts and Business, too,
We’re going to fight! fight! fight!
For the Gold and Blue, Drexel, too,
Rah! Rah! Rah!

CAMPUS SONG

When the shades of evening gather,
Ursinus students hie
To the soft, greenswarded campus,
For a time their books lay by;
And the parting riffs of sunlight,
As they linger soft and long,
Shed a hallowed gleam of gladness
On our merriment and song.

Now the g'ees of Old Ursinus
Peal across the downy green,
From Memorial to Olevian
Span the distance far between.
And the walls of dear old Freeland
The reverberations fling,
From the East Wing to the Dog House,
As our voices loudly ring.

Then across the Perkiomen
The chimings wing their flight,
Till beyond the far-flung hilltops
They kiss Heaven's dome of light.
Then as if they rued their boldness
Come the trembling echoes back;
And thus end the winged praises
Of the Red, Old Gold and Black.

DREXEL ODE

Hail! Drexel Institute, worthy of praise;
To thee a joyful song, thy children raise.
Thou to their watching eyes art guiding star,
Bright with illuminating rays shining afar.

Blest Alma Mater, within thy walls,
Young men and maidens fair answer thy calls.
Dwell 'neath thy portals wide muses divine;
Art, Science, Industry, build here their shrine.

Radiant in beauty now, we see thee stand,
Laurel upon thy brow, lyre in thy hand.
E'en as the music swells, accept our lay:
Hail! Drexel Institute, Hail! happy day.
