To the right is George Bogar, Dickinson's backfield coach, who learned his football at Princeton University. In his undergraduate days he was an outstanding back and graduated from that institution in 1931.

To the left is Joseph H. McCormick, head coach of the Dickinson Gridsters. Mr. McCormick is also director of athletics and coach of baseball at the Carlisle institution. This is his third year as director of Dickinson athletic destinies, having come there in 1931.

The lad holding the ball is none other than the leader of the Red Devils. Hughes, who has received his letter for the past two seasons, is playing his last year of college football as captain of the Dickinson eleven.

THE CONFERENCE OUTLOOK

WHO will win the Conference this year—F. & M., Dickinson, Gettysburg, Muhlenberg, or Ursinus? What a problem for any football doper!

Last year four teams ended up in a deadlock for top honors, all apparently evenly matched. Only Dickinson failed to show championship form throughout the season and was the one college not in the running. This year, however, our visitors of today will be very much in the thick of the championship fight, and since the strength of the other four teams in the Conference seems to be every bit as formidable as last year, the Conference should be a five-way fight all through the season.

As for the Bears' chances for the coveted crown, not an overly amount can be said at present. What Ursinus does today on the gridiron is most likely indicative of what she will do throughout her Conference schedule. Last week's 204 defeat of St. Joe's proved that the surprising tie with Villanova the preceding week was no fluke. The Grizzlies undoubtedly have strength; whether this strength can be utilized properly in each of the four stiff Conference tests that are to come is a question.

Every team in the Conference has an even chance for the cup this year. All four rivals are hoping to wrest it from the Bears' clutches. On the other hand, the Bruin will be fighting desperately to retain it—starting with today's battle with the Red Devils from Dickinson.

Let's go, Bears! Keep that Conference title!

WELCOME, HOMECOMERS!

Today is Old Timers' Day, the occasion for the return of graduates to the Ursinus campus. To those of you who have been fortunate enough to get back we extend our heartiest welcome and to those who have not been so fortunate all we can say is that we wish you were here to mingle again with your fellow classmates.

We, who are still undergraduates can only sense in a small measure the thrill that you must have upon greeting your old acquaintances and classmates, especially those who are not able to return every year. So that you might have an opportunity to experience again this pleasure Old Timers' Day is an annual event and is now tradition at Ursinus.

Undoubtedly the campus of today may appear strange to those of you who have not been back recently and see for the first time the marked changes that are everyday in evidence about you. But we do not have to comment further on these progressive changes for they speak for themselves. Yet there is one thing that has not undergone change and that is the traditional fighting Ursinus spirit that you were part of. It exists today as much as it ever has and is now a part of your alma mater. You alumni have a right to be proud of the Ursinus of your day and you also have a just reason to be proud of the "greater Ursinus" of today.

This afternoon we are meeting a foe on the gridiron that many of you old timers have crossed swords with. They, too, are every bit as good as they were when you faced them and we assure you of an interesting game today. A dance will follow the football contest this evening and we hope that you will attend and make your day a complete success. Again, we say, welcome, homecomers!

URSIUS vs. DICKINSON

It is 38 years ago this fall since Ursinus met Dickinson on the gridiron for the initial contest—the first encounter taking place in 1896. Since that time we have battled intermittently for grid honors and have engaged in 22 combats up to this date.

Marked changes are evident in the games of today as compared with those of yesteryear and at the present time both schools are members of the Eastern Pennsylvania Conference. Therefore we have more at stake than just a game, for our Conference hopes will either be strengthened or weakened by the results of today's combat.

Football prophets before the opening of the current season had virtually conceded both Dickinson and Ursinus as candidates for last place. But the "dope" has already been upset and both the Bears and the Red Devils loom as likely champions. Coach Joseph McCormick describes the Dickinson aggregation as "a fast, light, hard driving team with all the spirit in the world." And as for the Ursinus crew, well, their record speaks for itself. And we might as well decide now that Patterson Field will be the scene of a great football battle this afternoon and with it will go the hopes and aspirations of two fine gridiron teams.

The Rule Changes

If there is one football rule that never changes, it is the general rule that there shall be frequent changes in the football rules.

The following paragraphs summarize the important revisions which have been made in the football playing code.

1. Equipment—Hard and unyielding substances used in the construction of protective devices must be covered on the outside with padding at least ⅜-inch thick.

2. Kick-Off—At least five players on the receiving team must remain within fifteen yards of the restraining line of the kicking side until the ball has been kicked, and the kick-off may be made by a drop-kick as well as by a place-kick.

3. Blocking and Tackling—The flying block and tackles are made illegal. The player may leave his feet only at the instant of contact with his opponent. Penalty of 5 yards provided for infraction.

4. Substitutions—A player withdrawn from the game may return in any subsequent period, "time out" being charged against the team for the substitution.

5. Dead Ball—The ball now becomes dead the instant any portion of the carrier, excepting hands or feet, touches the ground, regardless of whether he is within the grasp of an opponent or not. The ball becomes dead within ten yards of a sideline, it is put in play 10 yards from sideline rather than at the spot where it is downed. If it goes out of bounds it is put in play 10 yards from the sidelines.

6. Use of Hands—Players on the defense are forbidden to strike an opponent on head, neck or face, but may use palm of hand to ward off or push such opponent in effort to get to the ball or the carrier. Penalty for infraction is disqualification of the player and loss by his team of half the distance to goal line.

7. Clipping—Running into or diving into the back of an opponent as well as throwing the body across the legs. Penalty decreased from 25 yards to 15 yards.

Official Signals

Touchdown or Goal—Both arms raised over head, palms forward.
Safety—Right arm raised, first two fingers opened.
Touchback—Arms raised over head and crossed at wrist.
Incompleted Pass or Missed Goal—Arms crossed before body, palms down.
Penalty Declined—Right arm extended forward.
Clipping, Roughing or Piling on—Right arm extended to the side and extended upward from elbow with fist closed means penalty.
Foul by Both Sides—Both arms raised over head with tips of fingers touching, palms down.
Holding—Both arms extended forward shoulder high, right hand grasping left wrist.
Dead Ball—Right arm raised over head, palm forward.
Offside—one arm extended with index finger pointing to offender.

Ursinus Grid Mentors

McAvoy

For the past three years, Jack McAvoy has been connected with the Ursinus football team. Graduated from Dartmouth five years ago, "Mac" was a member of the 1925 Green team that was recognized as the nation's champion of the gridiron. Quarterback McAvoy piloted this team through its banner season and was prominently mentioned for All-American honors. Not only in football, but in track and field events also did "Mac" excel, for he held championships in the shot and discus while in college. Three years ago, the now present Grizzly mentor assisted Coach Kiehline in producing a Conference Championship eleven, two years ago he produced one himself as head football coach, and last year set forth on the gridiron a team that was far from unsuccessful. McAvoy's capability as a football mentor may be seen in the fact that he was instructor in the use of the Warner system at the Ursinus College Coaching School during the past summer. Furthermore, his genial personality has a great deal to do with the recent success of the Bear grid team.

Chase

The "big" reason why Ursinus lines are so aggressive and tough to crack is this 240 pound youngster. In other words, Ralph "Horse" Chase, Pitt's line fortress in 1925, has for the past two years been teaching the Bear linemen the same style of scrappy offense and defense that he learned while playing for the Panther under the tutelage of Pop Warner. "Horse" is starting his third year as line coach of the Grizzlies, and judging from the way the line fought two weeks ago at Villanova, the giant All-American tackle's efforts have not been in vain. Before "Horse" came to Ursinus, he had assisted Warner at Stanford, as line coach for two years. The big fellow, who in his undergraduate days struck terror into the hearts of opposing backs, is a mild-mannered individual and is pleasant to work with. He understands the Warner system perfectly and as a result, Ursinus lines using this system, have generally outplayed their opponents for the past several years.
“Two Bears”

Roy Johnson

Coach "Swede" Paul

Captain of his team his senior year and coach of the freshman squad the following year, quite a record for any man, yet that is just what happened to this stellar end, Alvin Paul.

No football fan who has followed Ursinus teams for the past three years can question the ability of "Swede" on the gridiron, for his work on the line shows that he possesses real football intuition. Opponents, as well as his followers, join in acclaiming him a great ball player as is evidenced by his selection on the mythical all-conference team.

His elevation to the position of freshman football mentor will undoubtedly have a direct bearing on winning football teams in the future. And this afternoon when his proteges open their season against Perkiomen we may rest assured that Coach Paul will put a team on the field endowed with its share of traditional Ursinus fighting spirit.

A hefty three-sport man, Roy Johnson not only holds down his end position well on the grid team, but also is center of no mean ability on the Grizzly basketball team. He is most proficient at baseball, however, and is expected to crash the big leagues when he finishes his mound duty for the Ursinus nine. Roy is a junior this year.

C. Howard "Emerson" Gill

C. Howard "Emerson" Gill is playing his second year of varsity ball and is coming along quite well. This year he has been shifted from guard to tackle, and should see more service at this post.
Ursinus-Dickinson Again

Today's Game a Continuation of Long Series

When the opening whistle blows this afternoon Ursinus and Dickinson will have begun their twenty-third grid encounter and will be continuing athletic relationships that started in 1896, just 37 years ago this fall. Looking over the results of these 22 encounters we note many interesting facts.

In the 1896 game, the premier game, Dickinson emerged victorious with a 40-0 victory to their credit, quite an inauspicious beginning for the Bears. However, in the next encounter, which took place in 1902, the Ursinus men were able to eke out a hard-fought victory. Then for the next four years from 1903-1907 we find Ursinus on the short end of the score and this is the longest period in which we find one team so completely outclassed by the other. During this continued losing streak we note that in the four combats Dickinson amassed 58 markers while Ursinus had only 6 to its credit.

It is also interesting to note that each college has one very decisive victory to its credit. Ursinus in 1910 when they rolled up a 46-3 score and Dickinson in 1922 when the Bears fell 48-0. However, on the whole, we have been pretty evenly matched and the scoreboard shows many close and hard-fought games.

Up to this date Dickinson has 12 victories to their credit while we have only 8—but then there is today's game . . . ?

Grizzly Gridder Notes

45 — 38 — 54

Three sports captains are members of the Grizzly Gridders. Wally Tropp not only leads the 1933 pigskin warriors, but also will head the 1934 track and field team; Mickey Shuman is captain of the 1934 baseball team, and Elmo Sommers heads the 1933-34 basketball five.

49

Roy Johnson was third high scorer in the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate Basketball League last year, and was the Bears’ leading moundsman in their baseball campaign last spring.

37

From Bennett’s most recent biographer we learned that Bob was a “chu-bby little cod-ger when he was a baa-bry.” It might be of interest to note that Bob won first prize in the Glen-Alden Coal Co. baby contest back in 1916.

62 — 55

Among our hardy Grizzly linemen we find two choir singers, namely, “Emerson” Gill, the Sitting Tenor, and “Rube” Levin, the Charging Basso.

34

For the biggest bargain in the world we suggest Gene Bradford’s forty (40) cent flivver—and b’gosh, it runs.

38

It is rumored that Mickey Shuman practiced for two weeks to prepare his impromptu speech given at the recent pep meeting.

55 — 56 — 34

Rube Levin, ’36, holds the college shotput record (42 feet); Johnnie Grimm is the holder of the college high hurdle record (16.2 seconds). These two and Gene Bradford, last spring at the Freshman Track Conference scored a total of 48 points among them.

42

Over week-ends, Matty Farias is a local politician, or “ward-heeler,” in Beverly, N. J.

We unanimously select Hitler Bassman as the toughest baby on the squad.

1933 Cross Country Outlook

CROSS-COUNTRY at Ursinus means exactly what the term implies. If a visiting team were to meet the Bears at Collegeville, they would not only see Collegeville but much of the surrounding countryside at the same time, for the courses used by the Grizzly harriers are exceedingly hard ones over fields, hills and rough roads. As a result of these tough courses, strong cross-country teams have been in evidence at Ursinus since the adoption of this minor sport.

Two years ago the Ursinus cross-country team went through an undefeated season and topped off its brilliant work by copping the Eastern Pennsylvania Conference Championship. Last year the hill and dalers were not quite so successful, losing the Conference by a slim two points.

This year, however, the Bears are planning a come-back. Slowly they are being rounded into condition by Coach Stanley Omwake and are pointing towards one goal—the Conference. The coveted cup will go out of circulation this year, for F. & M., Dickinson and Ursinus, the contenders, all have two of the required three legs (to win the cup). The Conference promises to be a battle, and the Grizzlies’ preliminary meets should amply prepare them for the test.

With only two lettermen back, the harriers will open their 1933 campaign with a comparatively in-experienced team. Irv. Sutin, ’34, captain, and three-year veteran, who has for the past three seasons won individual honors in the Conference, will again be the team’s mainstay. The other letterman is “Pope” Gregory, ’34, another three-year veteran. McLaughlin, who won his Freshman numerals last year, Fissel, another Sophomore, and Danehower, a Senior, are the other experienced men back. Quite a few promising Freshmen are also bolstering the strength of the squad.

Manager John Schnebly, ’34, announces the following schedule to date:

Oct. 28—Open.
Nov. 4—Eastern Pennsylvania Conference, at Gettysburg.
Nov. 11—Lehigh at Collegeville.
Arthur’s Knights Tackle Caesar’s Senators

The “Yankee from Connecticut” had coached King Arthur’s team, and everyone admitted that he gave it lots of steam.
The tricky plays they shot at Rome, made Romans tear their hair.
For when they went to tackle men, the ball was never there.
The “Yankee Coach” had taught his team “Ye Hidden Ball Attack”
And every time they ran a play, the Senators lost track.
For each one seemed to have the ball and yet it wouldn’t do.

To tackle all, for they’d be sure to lose a yard or two.

Ye drinks were served between ye halves, as “Red” was taking one.
A cop burst through the open gate and came out on the run.
“Quaff not ye H2O,” cried he, “it’s near HCl; For Modred’s doped your drinking cup.” A sudden hush then fell.

For “Red” collapsed, the English vowed they’d get that Modred yet
And wring the traitor’s neck for what he’d done to win his bet.

Leodogran chased Modred ‘cross the field and off ye sward
A shot rang out, the king re-entered, wiping off his sword.
But now the Knights had lost their star, and no one felt the same.
And all the Romans thought that now, they might yet win the game.

So point by point, the Romans crept up on their Saxon foes
While “Red” upon the side-lines lay, and thundered through his nose.
The English scored not one lone point, the Senators were gay,
The Saxons hope there were not many minutes more to play.

Then Caesar took the ball, himself, and round the end he tore
Shot down the field across the goal, and Rome had tied the score.

One minute more was left to play, the ball was in mid-field,
And Rome had failed to gain a yard, the English line had steeled.
The two lines charged, the men piled up, the ball was rolling free.
Sir Bors then saw the oval bounce, and pounced on it with glee.
He picked it up, flew down ye field, resolved to save the day,
But failed to see he was supposed to run the other way.
The coach gave chase, Sir Bors looked back, and saw the flashing shields.
Tore through the gate, and down the street, the coach upon his heels.

And still they say, to this very day, these men who fought the Danes,
That they hear them pound, the country round, through the Ancient Saxon Lanes,
Thanksgiving night, when the moon is right, and the wind is lying still,
And dusk of eve, like a floating leaf, has settled o'er the hill.
Then the people sit, by the fire new-lit, and listen for footsteps soft
Of the ghost of yore, as along they soar, and the full moon floats aloft.
And the years may go, as the rivers flow, through sunshine and through rain,
But the "Yank" pursues, till the last owl whoo's, in the dusky Saxon Lane.

“Stories They Love to Tell”

JOHN C. MCAVOY, Ursinus Head Coach

LAST week the assistant coach told one—now reader, judge for yourself whether the head coach can do him one better.

Jack McAvoy, head coach of the Bears, has also had quite a bit of experience as an after-dinner speaker, and although we haven’t heard all his stories, here’s one that fitted the occasion perfectly when he told it.

Title—(To be supplied by the reader).

Occasion—The Ursinus College track team gripping for chocolate bars on the Carlisle trip last spring.

Results—Coach McAvoy tells us this bedtime story:

A second-rate academy in southern New York state was known to have the toughest, meanest, etc., coach in the world. As long as his baseball team won games, everything was rosy. But every time they lost, his players did without food. Consequently, winning teams were the result most of the time, because even baseball players like to eat.

But even Notre Dame under Rockne lost sometimes—and this academy was no exception. It happened that the team took a three-day trip, playing three tough opponents on successive afternoons. Coach "Toughboy," with his devastating forked tongue, verbally lashed his men into a fever heat before the first game, reminding them of the no-food rule if the game was not won, and by the eighth inning his tossers had built up a five-run lead. But the academy pitcher, usually steady, unexpectedly blew up and six rival runs crossed the plate before the side was retired. The game was lost, and so were the players' suppers.

The next day the empty-stomached outfit travelled to the next town for game No. 2. Again the usual pre-game tongue-lashing and violent threats of no food if the contest was lost. The academy boys played good ball for a time, but by the seventh inning weakness from lack of food began to affect them, and several misplays gave their opponents two runs and the ball game. Again no supper.

The third day was torture. The players were groggy. Some were so weak they couldn't shoulder a bat. Still old "Simon Legree" made good his threats. The trip to Battleground No. 3 on vacant stomachs caused terrific attacks of nausea. The haggard players listened to the third successive tongue-lashing by their endeared master before the game and staggered on the field. As early as the first inning the academy outfielders, in desperation, nibbled grass on the sly. In fact it was due to the left fielder's earnest attack on a juicy clover plant that an easy opponent pop fly rolled for a three-bagger and scored three runs.

By the fourth inning the third baseman was begging the people in the grandstand for peanut shells, and in the fifth, the shortstop went into hysteria from listening to the cries of the hot dog vender. With the score 21-0 against his team in the seventh, and all his pitchers battered flat, the coach reluctantly gave up, and started homeward with his fainting proteges. Still no signs of food, and the catcher hungrily started in on the padding of his mitt, while the horsehide covers of the balls suddenly became rare delicacies, despite the coach's stormy protests.

Once on the home grounds, the players made a dash for their lockers and ravenously gobbled down old pieces of bread, orange peels, etc., that they had hidden away for such an occasion... And then we had enough nerve to gripe about no chocolate bars.

The highest score made in an intercollegiate game was 222 to 0. George Tech. vs. Cumberland University, in a 45-minute game, 1917. The largest number of touchdowns on record were scored in this game, Georgia Tech. making 32. This unprecedented score enabled James Preas to establish a high record of 16 successful consecutive points after touchdown.

Dickinson has played more football games with Franklin and Marshall than any other college. The two teams have met on 35 occasions since 1889. It is interesting to note that in that year, they played three games, Dickinson winning two and F. and M. one. During these years Dickinson won 16 games, lost 17, and tied 2.

The rivalry with Ursinus is also one of old standing, having begun back in 1894 when Dickinson won 26 to 6. Since that time the two rivals have played a total of 22 contests, 14 going to Dickinson and 7 to Ursinus with one tie.
