THE LAST HOME GAME

TODAY Ursinus is playing the last home game scheduled for the current year. We are drawing to a close one of the most successful football schedules that Ursinus has ever enjoyed.

Although we do not have a great number of victories to our credit, it has been a good season, and we regret to see it come to a close. At the beginning of the season we predicted a hard-fought schedule. This prediction has been fulfilled. Whatever we are to say about the Conference teams we must admit that they all have shown a brand of football that is of the best. Every Conference game has been packed with thrills aplenty, and not one of these contests turned into a rout by any one team. The teams have been more evenly matched than any other Conference schedule we can remember, as is evidenced by the score sheet.

Although we have completed our Conference schedule, several of our opponents have one or more games to play, and since the final tilt, the one between F. & M. and Gettysburg, will not be played till Thanksgiving, the standing still remains in doubt. However, it may safely be said that Gettysburg has a good chance for first place, either by tying for top honors or annexing the title without any strings attached.

It has been a great season, Bears, and you may be justly proud of your record. Whatever else can be said about the schedule, it cannot be denied that you have shown ability and true sportsmanship. We have thoroughly enjoyed every contest and feel that we are not only expressing our own opinion, but that of the entire student body, the faculty and the coaches when we say that you have done credit to yourselves and the college. Again, we repeat, we are proud of you. May your work against Swarthmore today and Alhambra the following week only serve to increase that pride. Best of luck, Bears!

CAPTAIN KELLY

We received word last week to the effect that Swarthmore will probably have to carry on throughout the rest of the season without the services of one of their best players, Captain Kelly, due to an infection which laid him up recently.

We wish to extend the sincere wishes of both our football team and our coaches for a speedy recovery of their star captain, and regret that he cannot break into the lineup before the season closes and draws to an end his intercollegiate football career.

OUR COACHING STAFF

We, the editors of this publication, feel that we would be more than neglecting our duty if, in this, the last issue of the Grizzly Gridder for the current season, we failed to say something about the splendid work of our coaching staff in turning out the fine football teams that they have in the past few years.

We feel that we are not only giving vent to our own opinion but to that of the entire student body and college when we express our appreciation of them. Although Ursinus has not annexed the Conference title again this year, we have already had more than our share of victories and have put up a real battle in every game played. When all is said and done we have to admit that no more can be asked of any coaching staff than that they teach their players football and instill into the players a spirit of true sportsmanship. Have our coaches failed in this? No. On the contrary they have more than filled their assignments.

To Head Coach McAvoy, who is completing his third year in that capacity, we owe a debt of gratitude for the fine teams that he has produced in the last few years. Then, too, we cannot let out "Horse" Chase, our line coach, when we think of Ursinus football teams, for his work on the line has been much in evidence in every game. It is our sincere hope that Ursinus will be able to retain these two splendid coaches for many years to come.

Hats off to them, students! They have not only made it a pleasure for us to follow our football teams, but they have also done honor to the name of Ursinus.

WELCOME, VISITORS!

Besides the visitors from Swarthmore, we have with us this afternoon a delegation of high school students which represent most of the neighboring schools in this section. It is a pleasure to extend a hearty welcome to them on the part of both the entire college and the athletic department.

We wish to commend this policy, which was adopted only recently by the college. Without doubt it is a wise move to invite these prospective students here to see for themselves the college at first hand.

Today you will see representatives of two similar educational institutions in action on the football field. We believe that we are not prejudiced when we say that they represent two of the finest small colleges in Pennsylvania and that they both emulate the finest sportsmanship possible.

As our guests we want to make your day complete, and for your benefit all the college buildings are open and ready for inspection. It is our hope that you will take advantage of this opportunity by making yourself at home on our campus.

Captain Wally Tropp (above) will culminate his football career on Patterson Field today, when he leads his band of Grizzly warriors against the Swarthmore eleven. For three years Wally has been a mainstay in the Bear backfield and his colorful playing will be missed by all who have seen him scintillate in the past.

In civilian clothes is Bob Cunningham, student manager of the Bear football squad. Although he has never donned football togs, nevertheless he sees plenty of service with the team.

Old Ursinus

Don Breisch, to the right, is one of the biggest men on the squad. Despite a leg injury, he has been filling his tackle post capably.

Hank Detwiler, left, is a newcomer to grid warfare at Ursinus. Although playing his first and last year of football with the Bears, he has shown up well at tackle.

Mickey Shuman, Bear mite quarterback, who has been calling signals for the past two years.

Right: Another three-year veteran is Bob Bennett, a center of no mean ability. Bob has been favoring a bad shoulder this season.
Last Time on Patterson Field

The game with Swarthmore today marks the close of football hostilities on Patterson Field for the 1933 season. Only the Thanksgiving Day clash with Albright remains on the Ursinus schedule, and when the final whistle blows in that contest, seven Grizzly football warriors will hang up their togs, never to don them again for the Red, Old Gold and Black.

Not all of the seven graduating gridders have outstanding records, but we know that some of them have, and we also know that all of them gave their best when they were in the game. All but one are three-year veterans, and that member is playing his first year of varsity football at Ursinus because he is a transfer student from last year. In comparing the annual graduation loss with the 1932 season toll, we find that nine members were lost that year, which dealt a damaging blow to the nucleus of this year’s team. However, we are not belittling the merits of the seven Seniors of this year’s team one bit when we say that their loss will not be as damaging a blow, since the present Frosh team is slated to supply plenty of punch for the varsity next season.

The first of the seven Seniors who will be missed, and, in fact, missed more than many an Ursinus star has been in the past, is Captain Wally Tropp. For three years, Wally has been a regular in the Grizzly backfield, cutting off-tackle, skating the ends, ploughing through the line, snaring passes, blocking and tackling with the ferocity of a true Grizzly Bear. Heralded as one of the outstanding backs in small college circles, and rated a berth on the All-Conference team last year, he has been a constant threat to every opponent Ursinus has played ever since he first started his spectacular grid career in his Sophomore year. Two years ago in the Gettysburg game, the bones of Tropp’s face were badly shattered, and ever since, for safety’s sake, he has donned a mask, which has colorfully earned him the title of the “Masked Marvel.”

Besides Captain Tropp, two more backfield men will be lost by graduation, “Mickey” and “Minnie,” as they are familiarly known, alternates at the quarterback post this year. Mickey Shuman has been the Bears’ field general for the greater part of the time during the past two years, and has shown himself to be a clever punter as well as a tricky little ball-toter. Not much bigger than Shuman is Minnie Seiple, the slipperiest ball-carrier on the team. This elusive little back proved to be the hero of the Villanova game in the season’s opener, for it was his touchdown enabled the Grizzlies to tie the Wildcats.

Four linemen also will be missed after the next Commencement exercises. The two regular tackle berths will be free-for-all in next year’s scramble for positions, for Dan Breisch, giant three-year veteran, and Hank Detwiler, a transfer last year from Bluffton College, will see no more service for Bear grid teams after Turkey Day. Breisch, who before an unfortunate knee injury last year was rated as one of the best tackles ever produced at Ursinus, was slowed up considerably this season, but nevertheless held on to his regular position most of the time. Detwiler, the other tackle, played great ball in his only year on the varsity and will be sorely missed next year.

Bob Bennett, lanky center from Kingston, was a mainstay at his position in his Sophomore and Junior years, but this season he favored a bad shoulder and consequently did not see much action on the field. Elmo Sommers, a local lad and captain of the Grizzly basketball team this year, is a scrappy guard who, like Bennett, played his best ball during his first two years on the team.

We realize the worthiness of these grid warriors and express our appreciation for their spirit and co-operation that they have provided in the three years that they have played on the team. And as we review the 1933 season, we also realize that the Ursinus aggregation has done notably in her hard gridiron battles, considering the pessimistic outlook which was held at the beginning of the season. The team was light, inexperienced, and lacked reserve strength. But the stubborn Bears played a most unbelievable tie with Villanova in the first game of the season, conquered F. & M. and Drexel, bitter rivals, and lost to Gettysburg, potential Conference champions, by only one point.

The 1933 season has not been a glorious success, but has been far above pre-season expectations. And despite the loss of the several Seniors, the most damaging loss being that of Captain Tropp, expectations for the new season are already bright. The 1933 Freshmen have proved to be a pack of football terrors, and barring all unforeseen happenings, 1934 promises to be a highly successful season if the Cubs of this year come through as hoped, with, of course, the many veterans of this year’s team who will be back again next year.

Grizzly-Garnet Scraps of the Past

Twenty-eight Games Played Since 1895

The oldest football rival on the Ursinus schedule. So ranks Swarthmore, the visiting team of the Grizzly Bears today. Since 1895, back in football's embryo history, the Little Quakers and the growling Grizzlies have waged many spectacular gridiron battles, and no less than 28 times have these ancient rivals met over a period of 38 years. The longest gap in this almost continuous series was from the years 1903-1909, when no games were played between the two institutions. And now it appears as though this traditional series will be discontinued with the culmination of today's battle, at least temporarily, for the Garnets are not on the Bears' grid schedule for 1934.

However, many interesting facts can be drawn from these many games of the past. Swarthmore has, at least in earlier years, had the decided edge in the series, having conquered the Bears 18 times. The Grizzlies have been victorious only 8 times, while the series has produced 2 tie scores, one in 1933-0, amassed back in almost continuous series one-sided than Grizzlies have been victorious only 8 times, while the traditional series will be discontinued with the Over games than his story. The highest number of points ever scored by one team in a single game is 34, the total Ursinus amassed in 1910, as against a mere 6 for Swarthmore. In 1923 the Garnets bowled over the Bears, 33-0, but never has a victory on either side been more one-sided than either of these.

If the Bears have won 10 less games than their rivals, nevertheless they have shown up better in point producing, considering the number of defeats they have sustained. The Grizzlies have amassed 227 markers, while the Little Quakers have scored 232. The point averages per game are 8 and 10, respectively—proving that close scores were prevalent in the long series.

The longest winning streak goes to Swarthmore, who from 1912 until the 6-6 deadlock in 1924, won 8 straight games. In 1925 and 1926 again the Garnets were again on the long side of the ledger, but from 1927 until 1932, Ursinus has had a decided edge in the contests. During these years the Bears have won four of the six games, and have piled up 87 points to Swarthmore's 20. The Grizzlies have been shut out from the scoring column seven times, while the Garnets have drawn the goose egg six times.

We may conclude by observing that today's game promises to be a repetition of many of the keen battles of the past between the two teams, for both the 1933 Bear and Garnet clubs seem to be fairly evenly matched, on paper, at least. But one can never tell what may happen after that initial whistle; and if this series is to be ended with today's game, let's end it in the right manner, Bears. The old bell in Free-land must ring tonight.

Changing The Game - 1869 to 1933

Modern Football Has Had a Unique Evolution Over a Period of 64 Years

The year 1869 is a significant date on the Ursinus campus for two reasons: Ursinus College was founded in that year and the first intercollegiate football game was played then. Both institutions, football and the College, have changed greatly since then. Ursinus today has probably ten times the enrollment, which it had in its first student body; and its physical equipment has changed in keeping pace with an ever-rising standard. However, this publication is not the appropriate place to trace the development of the College. This being a gridiron magazine, we shall attempt to present the important changes that have taken place in football from the time of its birth.

Since the first intercollegiate game was played sixty-four years ago many changes have been effected in the gridiron sport. When it is brought to our attention that in the first game of American football—Rutgers vs. Princeton in 1869—the goal posts were 25 feet apart and there were 25 players on each side, the development made is really amazing. The trend of civilization might easily be read between the lines of the rule changes in football within the past sixty-four years. Each season finds a different motive behind the altering of rules.

The reasons for the more important changes in football rules in the past year have been for the protection of the player, to speed up the game, and to allow a wider range of tactics. The Rules Committee felt that prior to 1932 there had been too much piling up, too many injuries resulting from diving on fallen ball carriers, and entirely too much lee-way in the use of the hands. In other years players on defense had overdone the use of punishing tactics around the face and head. In 1933, therefore, rules were made to right these prevalent evils.

Little Regulation in Old Days

The regulations of the present day would probably make our modern gridders appear like "sissies" to the old timers. It was perhaps lack of regulation that gave the game many of its thrills in the old days. The first year that there was any active regulation in the rules was in 1876 when the first regulation uniform—costumes consisting of tights—were worn; the number of players was reduced to 15 men on a side: nine men in the rush line, one quarterback, two half-backs, one three-quarters-back, and two full-backs. Brute strength and mass weight, not brainy football, were undoubtedly the determining factors in those days.

In 1880 we find some semblances of the present-day game. The number of men on each side was reduced to eleven; the playing field was reduced from 140 yards by 70 yards to 110 by 53 yards; and the playing time of the game consisted of 45-minute halves with a ten-minute intermission. Two years later the system of "downs" and "yards" to gain was established. The first rule to this effect was: "If on three consecutive fairs and downs a team shall not have advanced the ball five yards or lost ten yards, they must give up the ball to the other side at the spot where the fourth down was made." The use of signals was also originated in this year. In the beginning this consisted of sentences, later of letters beginning the words of a sentence, and finally numbers. In this year there was a final settlement of the position of the players as they are now known: Seven linemen, one quarter-back, two half-backs, and one full-back.

It was not until 1892 that sideline coaching, one of the features of baseball, was prohibited from the gridiron. The umpire was given authority to banish anyone from the game or order them behind the ropes for violating the rules. In 1896, helmets, for the first time, became part of a player's equipment.

Yet, changes were not made only in the old days. Football rules are being changed every year. Some of the most obvious factors that we see today are really recent innovations: The playing time of the game divided into four periods of 15 minutes each came in 1910; numbers on the backs of players' jerseys made their appearance in 1915; the tee used for kicking was not abolished until 1924; in 1927 the goal posts were set back on rear line of end zone. The ball becoming dead within ten yards of a side line (1932) is the last radical change on the books.

Football's Future

The evolution of football has not reached a final stage. Like any other progressive institution it will change each year. It is only because the forbears in the early years were not reluctant to changing the rules that football has progressed to its present level. However, we cannot help but think, as we pour over the annals of a generation ago, that about thirty years hence the college youth will be conjecturing as to what a peculiar game football must have been back in the 1930's!

RALPH E. CHASE  JOHN C. McAVOY

These Men Are Responsible for the Football Policies At Ursinus

Chase

The “big” reason why Ursinus lines are so aggressive and tough to crack is this 240 pound youngster. In other words, Ralph “Horse” Chase, Pitt’s line fortress in 1925, has for the past two years been teaching the Bear linemen the same style of scrappy offense and defense that he learned while playing for the Panther under the tutelage of Pop Warner. “Horse” is serving his third year as line coach of the Grizzlies, and judging from the way the line fought at Villanova, the giant All-American tackle’s efforts have not been in vain. Before “Horse” came to Ursinus, he had assisted Warner at Stanford, as line coach for two years. The big fellow, who in his undergraduate days struck terror into the hearts of opposing backs, is a mild-mannered individual and is pleasant to work with. He understands the Warner system perfectly and as a result, Ursinus lines using this system, have generally outplayed their opponents for the past several years.

McAvoy

For the past three years, Jack McAvoy has been connected with the Ursinus football team. Graduated from Dartmouth five years ago, “Mac” was a member of the 1925 Green team that was recognized as the nation’s champion of the gridiron. Quarterback McAvoy piloted this team through its banner season and was prominently mentioned for All-American honors. Not only in football, but in track and field events also did “Mac” excel, for he held championships in the shot and discus while in college. Three years ago, the now present Grizzly mentor assisted Coach Kichline in producing a Conference Championship eleven, two years ago he produced one himself as head football coach, and last year set forth on the gridiron a team that was far from unsuccessful. McAvoy’s capability as a football mentor may be seen in the fact that he was instructor in the use of the Warner system at the Ursinus College Coaching School during the past summer. Furthermore, his genial personality has a great deal to do with the recent success of the Bear grid team.

IVANHOE

(Translated for College Freshmen)

The Tournament

An interstate game is about to ensue
Between Normandy Tech and Saxony U.
The Normans are big, but we'll follow my hunch,
And give our support to the Saxony bunch.
They'll need our best rooting, which may go for naught,
Because the officials have mostly been bought.
The Norms have a seasoned, all-star aggregation,
With Captain Bo Gilbert, a well-known sensation,
Stan Athel, at full, Beefy Front in the line,
And a big, hefty squad in red helmets that shine.
Our boys are not big, and they're weak on reserves,
But they have one star halfback who pivots and swerves
With the best in the country; boy! how he can go!
So we bet on the team captained by Ivan Hoe.

The whistle has blown, Ivan carries the ball,
He crashes the line over Beefy and all.
He's gone down the field, Stan's a little bit slow,
But near the ten-yard line he's tackled by Bo.
Ivan rallies the team: "Come on, boys, while we're hot!"
But down after down, they're held on the spot.
The Sax have to punt, but they hold on right there,
Bo hammers the line, but he hasn't a prayer.
The Normans punt back, Ivan's off like hot steam,
But he's downed in his tracks by the whole Norman team.
He gets to his feet, but he's battered and sore—
Says the Saxony coach, "I've got just one chance more."
He calls his big, lazy sub guard, Blackie Night,
And says, "Here's your chance! Go on in there and fight."
Old Blackie says, "Coach, I know just what you mean,
And on the next play, he appears on the scene.
Ivan calls him aside, and says, "Blackie, old scout,
There's a couple of guys we would like taken out."

The battle rolled on, then the dust cleared away,
And prone on the green, Stan and Beefy Front lay.
Said Ivan to Blackie, "Now just try once more,
And after Bo's gone, we'll be able to score."
The ball's snapped to Ivan, he's gone down the field.
He's off to a touchdown, and Tech's fate is sealed.
And so, my dear children, I want you to know,
There was never a halfback like young Ivan Hoe.
And also remember to follow your bunches,
And bet on the guy that can shoot rabbit punches.

—MARBON ABRAMSON.

"YOU'VE GOT TO BE A FOOTBALL HERO" . . .

The week preceding the Muhlenberg Game was Pep Week on the Ursinus campus. Such a high degree of spirit prevailed that the local postman was forced to work overtime in delivering mail from the fair co-eds to their football heroes. The Grizzly Gridder was fortunate in obtaining the cooperation of the football men in being allowed to peruse the letters. The epistle reproduced below was chosen by the Gridder staff as one of the most representative, and perhaps the most sincere?

Dearest Rube:

I think you're the sweetest boy on the team. I've always been in love with you, but you never notice me—in fact, no one ever notices me. I'm just an unknown Freshman co-ed. I pass you many times a day in Bomberger—you're always smiling at someone.

You have a beautiful smile. Rube—how I wish you would smile at me some time! I would be so thrilled! But I have to be content with just seeing you.

Then came this wonderful opportunity—to write to you and tell you all my hopes—tell you how much I love you and you'll never find out who I am. If I thought you might care for me, I would take the risk of telling you who I am—but I know you never would.

I must content myself with seeing you play football. You're such a wonderful player—I just thrill all over when I see you play. I know that if we win Saturday it will be due to your efforts. Please do something spectacular—make a touchdown or something. I would be so proud! Only don't get hurt! I believe I'd faint, and then the secret would be out.

I'll be in the grandstand cheering just for you—think of me while you're playing—and maybe you'll feel sorry for the Freshman that suffers in silence—and just for me you'll do something wonderful.

All my love, dearest Rube, and best of luck.

A CO-ED

(We promised not to mention the name of the football man to whom this was sent, but we might mention that his initials are R. L., he has black, curly hair, wears glasses, and the L in his name stands for Levin.)

The honorable editor of the Grizzly Gridder, according to Herman “Hitler” Bassman, B. S., ’36, makes out the Ursinus College football schedules.

According to a certain Frosh coed, Ossie Rinehart is the sweetest boy on the team.

Football Strategy: The difference between some football players and hams is that the latter can always be cured.
