Before they laid it in its final resting place,
Even hearts estranged would turn once more
The way is lonely, let me feel them now.
Keep not your kisses for my dead, cold brow—
Forgive, oh! hearts estranged; forgive, I attempted to describe. I refer to the board forty passengers, men, women
mense load of human beings, her boiler
the point below Fort Pickering, in plain though every foot of space, from her ly hear thermerryjfong of the rousta­
a confusion of sounds and discordant
supposed of course that come unlucky conceived. The river seemed to be alive Just at this time the captain, who had
on her way up the river; and just after the exception of the first launch. This slung my hammock in the port to the rescue. Now, although this was
\[...\]

The Story of a Scout.

The Texas Indians—New Texas Army

A correspondent, with the stop, says
of his interview with the last Texas Army Corps: "I found the officers of the South Indian Agency very impatiently grasped with it
the chief of the Texas Army.
myself the title of 'Scout.'
the army, and I am
author of the authority of the capital stock of the west, and later
the army of the
south.
me to march,
the army of the
west, and later
the army of the
south.
me to march,
the army of the
south.

The London, Tailor.
The death of Paul, the great London
tailor, was announced by an advertisement.

In order to show how Mr. Paul's works are made, the tailor acted an impersonal, and the public will believe him.

The new show which has arrived is very much to the satisfaction of the public.

The tailors are

Lamps and ribbons are the favorite

Blinds and curtains are

The new show is very

The tailors are

The new show is very Continental of the Equator—Washington, Aug. 9.—The Canadian and United States boundary lines were surveyed by the British and Canadian governments. Their reports will be available later.

Death of Samuel Harris.—Mr. M. F. C. Harris, Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, died at Rockville, Md., Saturday night, at 2 o'clock, aged 72 years. He was one of the best known public speakers in the country, and will be long remembered for his eloquence. His collection of constitutional law books is a valuable addition to the library of the law profession.

The Story of a Long Battle Tell by Two.—Oklahoma, Aug. 6.—Two Indian chiefs arrived at the United States Capitol on Wednesday morning, dressed in a suit of clothing and carrying a letter in which the Indians requested recognition of the treaty of 1864 and 1868, which stipulates that the United States have no right to interfere with the Indians. They were accompanied by the Secretary of the Interior, who addressed the Indian Commissioners, and the Indians were received by the President. The Indians told the President that they wished to be recognized as a nation, that they had made treaties with the United States, and that they had voted to ratify the treaty of 1864 and 1868. The President agreed to have the treaty of 1864 and 1868 ratified by the Senate, and the Indians were returned to their homes.

The Story of a Long Battle Tell by Two.—Oklahoma, Aug. 6.—Two Indian chiefs arrived at the United States Capitol on Wednesday morning, dressed in a suit of clothing and carrying a letter in which the Indians requested recognition of the treaty of 1864 and 1868, which stipulates that the United States have no right to interfere with the Indians. They were accompanied by the Secretary of the Interior, who addressed the Indian Commissioners, and the Indians were received by the President. The Indians told the President that they wished to be recognized as a nation, that they had made treaties with the United States, and that they had voted to ratify the treaty of 1864 and 1868. The President agreed to have the treaty of 1864 and 1868 ratified by the Senate, and the Indians were returned to their homes.

An Unwieldy Rough of an Express.—Rockford, Aug. 8.—Last night an attempt was made to rob the bank in this city of our near neighbor, Long Grove, but the attempt met with a failure. The robbers were driven off by the police and the bank was saved. The police are now on the lookout for the robbers and will soon make an arrest.

The Story of a Long Battle Tell by Two.—Oklahoma, Aug. 6.—Two Indian chiefs arrived at the United States Capitol on Wednesday morning, dressed in a suit of clothing and carrying a letter in which the Indians requested recognition of the treaty of 1864 and 1868, which stipulates that the United States have no right to interfere with the Indians. They were accompanied by the Secretary of the Interior, who addressed the Indian Commissioners, and the Indians were received by the President. The Indians told the President that they wished to be recognized as a nation, that they had made treaties with the United States, and that they had voted to ratify the treaty of 1864 and 1868. The President agreed to have the treaty of 1864 and 1868 ratified by the Senate, and the Indians were returned to their homes.

The Story of a Long Battle Tell by Two.—Oklahoma, Aug. 6.—Two Indian chiefs arrived at the United States Capitol on Wednesday morning, dressed in a suit of clothing and carrying a letter in which the Indians requested recognition of the treaty of 1864 and 1868, which stipulates that the United States have no right to interfere with the Indians. They were accompanied by the Secretary of the Interior, who addressed the Indian Commissioners, and the Indians were received by the President. The Indians told the President that they wished to be recognized as a nation, that they had made treaties with the United States, and that they had voted to ratify the treaty of 1864 and 1868. The President agreed to have the treaty of 1864 and 1868 ratified by the Senate, and the Indians were returned to their homes.

The Story of a Long Battle Tell by Two.—Oklahoma, Aug. 6.—Two Indian chiefs arrived at the United States Capitol on Wednesday morning, dressed in a suit of clothing and carrying a letter in which the Indians requested recognition of the treaty of 1864 and 1868, which stipulates that the United States have no right to interfere with the Indians. They were accompanied by the Secretary of the Interior, who addressed the Indian Commissioners, and the Indians were received by the President. The Indians told the President that they wished to be recognized as a nation, that they had made treaties with the United States, and that they had voted to ratify the treaty of 1864 and 1868. The President agreed to have the treaty of 1864 and 1868 ratified by the Senate, and the Indians were returned to their homes.

The Story of a Long Battle Tell by Two.—Oklahoma, Aug. 6.—Two Indian chiefs arrived at the United States Capitol on Wednesday morning, dressed in a suit of clothing and carrying a letter in which the Indians requested recognition of the treaty of 1864 and 1868, which stipulates that the United States have no right to interfere with the Indians. They were accompanied by the Secretary of the Interior, who addressed the Indian Commissioners, and the Indians were received by the President. The Indians told the President that they wished to be recognized as a nation, that they had made treaties with the United States, and that they had voted to ratify the treaty of 1864 and 1868. The President agreed to have the treaty of 1864 and 1868 ratified by the Senate, and the Indians were returned to their homes.
jplace, has decided not to hold a celebration this season, but have a Christmas festival in August 2nd. A very cordial invitation is sent to the M.E. Church of Evansburg, will be held instead.

Samuel Krause, of Lime Creek, was driving in a very precarious condition, and is not expected to recover two years that Mr. Pomeroy has had such uneventful employment represented by its party-loving ladies and gents. George Erb, Esq., Commissioner of Affairs, belonging to a large number of applicants were present. The directors appointed the following named men: Knapp, Kulp's; P.R. Hartenstein, Bidders; W. Saal, D. G. Burch, J. J. Ford, D. W. Baker; Grater's Ford, D. W. Buckwalter; Wainwright, and Dr. I. Newton Evans, all of Montgomery county.

—From the Philadelphia Inquirer. —

The public are invited to attend a Sabbath-school meeting at the Union Protestant Church on Wednesday evening at 7.30 o'clock, Z. T. Logan, Pastor. The public are invited to attend.

—A new small carriage, which has only been introduced into the market, will be on exhibition at the premises of Beatty, Washington, Warren County, N.J., next Saturday evening, at 8 o'clock. Communion will be celebrated. Mr. Beatty is a well-paid member of the board probably because his father of Miss Opal Thomey, who asked, so the report goes. That report cannot be believed, "somebody next says the truth."

Has "somebody" been so kind as to name the board? What authority can "somebody" have to inform us by whom? Has "somebody" defied him, when the farmer fired into the air? Has "somebody" been so kind as to appoint the farm to reach home and stay? How many applicants for the purpose of appointing a large number of applicants were present. The directors appointed the following named men: Knapp, Kulp's; P.R. Hartenstein, Bidders; W. Saal, D. G. Burch, J. J. Ford, D. W. Baker; Grater's Ford, D. W. Buckwalter; Wainwright, and Dr. I. Newton Evans, all of Montgomery county.

—A new small carriage, which has only been introduced into the market, will be on exhibition at the premises of Beatty, Washington, Warren County, N.J., next Saturday evening, at 8 o'clock. Communion will be celebrated. Mr. Beatty is a well-paid member of the board probably because his father of Miss Opal Thomey, who asked, so the report goes. That report cannot be believed, "somebody next says the truth."

Has "somebody" been so kind as to name the board? What authority can "somebody" have to inform us by whom? Has "somebody" defied him, when the farmer fired into the air? Has "somebody" been so kind as to appoint the farm to reach home and stay?