SPRING 1942
Current Comment

The Date of Commencement Has Been Changed

From June 5-8, as originally set, to May 15-18, as a part of the College’s accelerated program. The tentative program of events is printed on the back cover of this issue. Please note this change.

The Program for Alumni Day Is Not Changed

All of the traditional alumni events are scheduled to be held as in former years. We realize that there are many obstacles—transportation difficulties, defense work, etc.—which the alumni of Ursinus must hurdle to be present on May 16, but this is a special occasion, a sacred one to many, which warrants the making of an unusual effort to attend, especially in the case of those whose classes hold their reunions this year. We hope that all who are able to come back to Ursinus, if only for Alumni Day, will do so.

Members of the Alumni Association

Should study the list of nominees for the several offices of the Association which appears in this issue. During the past year, the Association has greatly increased its activity and usefulness under the energetic administration of President R. C. Kichline ’16. The groundwork has been laid for still greater advances. This year, especially, the members should make their choices of officers with greatest care to insure that the work so well begun shall be carried forward. The nominating committee has selected those whom it felt to be the best candidates available. An election of this sort should not be perfunctory and should be more than a popularity contest. Every member in good standing should make his or her choice thoughtfully and then be sure to send the ballot in well before the May 15 deadline.

We Are Proud of the Trenton Alumni

Who are forming a local association in that area and who will hold their initial dinner on May 1. The enthusiasm and energy of the group who have taken this project in hand cannot be praised too highly. We wish them every success in their effort. The Harrisburg group is about to be reorganized, after several years of inactivity, and we trust that this movement will likewise meet with success. Other areas in which local associations should be formed include Pittsburgh, Washington, D. C., Wilmington, Del., and Cleveland. We challenge the alumni in these areas to get in touch with the Secretary of the Association, Charles H. Miller ’24, whose address is Collegeville, Pa. The Association and the College stand ready to help in this effort.

Ursinus Men in the Armed Services

Would do us a favor by letting us have their correct mailing addresses. We want to do what we can to see that they receive the Journal and other College publications, and to serve as a clearing house for those among their college friends and classmates who wish to keep in touch with them. In too many cases, the information we have received regarding men in the service has been too sketchy and incomplete to give us an address which the post office will accept for mailing purposes. A postcard will do the trick.

If You Have Not Yet Given to the Loyalty Fund

Please send your contribution in now. A list of the names of contributors will be printed in our next issue. Our endowments draw less interest than they used to; income from student fees is unstable; and the College must pay more and more for everything it buys. More and more must we depend upon our alumni and friends. Last year this Fund set an enviable record, which should be surpassed this year. We want as great a number of contributors as possible. Many small gifts can help us to do more than a few large donations. Join in this popular movement to make Ursinus better—and join now.
THE PRESIDENT’S PAGE

In time of peace or of war one important function of the liberal arts college is to prepare candidates for the learned professions. In a very interesting article contributed to The Bulletin of the Association of American Colleges (October, 1941) Dr. B. W. Kunkel, Professor of Biology in Lafayette College, attempts to measure the efficiency of the leading liberal arts colleges and engineering schools in preparing candidates for four types of professional and graduate schools: medicine, law, theology, and arts and science. The study does not include graduate schools of business administration, education, dentistry, etc. To obtain the facts upon which the study is based Dr. Kunkel canvassed all the members of the Association of American Medical Colleges, the Association of American Law Schools, the Association of American Theological Schools, and eighty-five graduate schools of the larger universities. Each was asked to name the college or engineering school from which each of its students had been graduated. In the study no account is taken of the graduates who fail to obtain their advanced degrees, and who fail to enter the professions that they had hoped to enter.

Dr. Kunkel’s study shows that of the 337 liberal arts colleges and engineering schools that send the largest number of alumni to professional and graduate schools only thirteen have a higher percentage of alumni taking degrees in medicine than Ursinus has. Of these 337 colleges and engineering schools only forty-four have a higher percentage than Ursinus taking advanced degrees in all four types of professional and graduate schools. Fifteen percent of the graduates of these 337 institutions take advanced degrees in all four types of professional and graduate schools. At Ursinus the percentage is 26.8. The average for endowed colleges throughout the United States is 12.75.

No one, I suppose, will maintain that the percentage of alumni that take advanced degrees is a reliable index to the worth of the contribution that a college makes to society. No statistics can measure that. But I believe, as Dr. Kunkel does, that the percentage of alumni that take advanced degrees is an index to the native ability of the students, to their intellectual vitality, and to the kind of families and communities from which the students come. I believe further that this percentage depends largely upon the teachers’ enthusiasm for scholarly achievement, the thoroughness of the work in classroom and laboratory, the planning of the curricula, and the reputation of the college.

The contribution of Ursinus College to the learned professions in general, as shown by Dr. Kunkel’s study, is noteworthy. Especially important is our contribution to the medical profession at a time when there is a nation-wide and world-wide shortage of doctors. The accelerated program, recently planned at Ursinus and at the medical colleges, will enable a serious and competent student to earn his degree in medicine in a much shorter time than heretofore. We hope that this plan will be helpful to a large number of students.

At Ursinus we are making every effort to adapt our work to the needs of those students who expect to enter military service. Many have enlisted and remain on inactive duty until graduation. For these and for others whose plans remain indefinite, we have modified some courses and added others to meet new needs. The accelerated program, by enabling students to complete all or a large part of four years’ college work in three years or an even shorter time, offers them during the coming months the maximum of preparation for service and advancement whether they serve the nation in the armed forces or elsewhere.

But as we face the exigencies of the moment, we do not forget that Ursinus can make its greatest contribution to the nation now and in the future by doing what may be called the “normal” work of the liberal arts college—and by trying to do that work better than ever before. During the war and after the war the nation will need men and women of the best type that the best liberal arts colleges have produced and must continue to produce—men and women who have acquired enough of wisdom to make them patient and hopeful and magnanimous and ready to attempt once more—patiently and hopefully and magnanimously—the building of a better world.

ACCELERATED PROGRAM DATA

An accelerated program which features year-round classes, the elimination of senior comprehensive examinations, and curtailment of recess periods has been adopted by the faculty and administration of the College. This action is in accord with the procedure being followed in many of the nation’s colleges, and follows the recommendations adopted at a conference of college officials recently held in Baltimore, Maryland under the auspices of the Association of American Colleges.

Graduation exercises will be held at Ursinus this year from May 16–18 instead of from June 6–8 as previously announced. This change was made possible by reducing the mid-semester and final semester examination periods from two weeks to one week, and by eliminating the Spring recess. The early graduation date will make it feasible for seniors to take positions in industry where there is urgent need for them, and will also enable students who desire to enter medical schools or other graduate institutions to make an earlier start than would have been possible otherwise.

The Ursinus summer session is scheduled to begin on June 22 and will continue until September 12. Classes will meet six days a week instead of the traditional five days as at present, thereby making it possible to complete in twelve weeks an amount of work equivalent to that which it is permissible to complete in any regular semester. A staff of approximately twenty instructors will be retained to conduct the summer session. Emphasis will be given to those courses which are essential for students who anticipate entering medical schools or other professional schools of a scientific character, or for students who plan to complete their courses as rapidly as possible in order to enter certain technical, industrial, or military careers. Arrangements have been made for students now enrolled in the College to register for the summer session early in April. A limited number of new students will also be accepted to begin their college courses in June.

For the period of the national emergency Ursinus will accept new students in June, September and February. Under the new arrangements students may complete their work for a degree at the end of any term, although formal graduation exercises will in all probability be held only once a year as at present. Because of the accelerated program, a limited number of qualified students may now complete their graduation requirements in three calendar years instead of four, and may thus be enabled to receive their college degrees before being called into military service. Others may be enabled to enter professional schools or upon the careers of their choice at an earlier age and thus make a needed contribution to the national defense effort.

The burden upon the officers of the College who are charged with the responsibility of keeping the College filled with students will be materially increased by the accelerated program. It is therefore important that alumni be informed about the present program so that they may be helpful in turning to Ursinus such young people in their respective communities as can benefit from the offerings of the College. A communication addressed to the Registrar will bring such literature as has been prepared or is in process of preparation for distribution to prospective students. The same policy with regard to scholarships and self-help positions as has been in effect for many years will be continued. It is reasonable to expect, therefore, that all worthy students who need financial assistance may secure it at Ursinus if they will make their needs known.

The affiliation of the College with the V-1, V-5, and V-7 programs of the United States Navy will make it possible for a limited number of qualified male students who are affected by the national selective service legislation to continue in College until graduation. The V-1 plan is of interest to prospective college students and to freshmen and sophomores now enrolled in College. According to this program, students acceptable to the Navy Department are regularly inducted into the Navy and assigned to inactive status. A general comprehensive examination of the objective type will be administered each Spring by the Navy to the men so enrolled. Those who make a satisfactory showing in the examination and who by their college records and personal characteristics show evidence of possessing the qualities required of officers may at the end of their second year in college be transferred to the V-5 program. A limited number of V-5 candidates may be transferred at the end of the second year to active status and given instruction in a Naval Training School which may ultimately result in the awarding of commissions as pilots in the Air Service of the United States Navy. Others may be permitted to finish their college courses and given similar training after graduation from college. Still others may be transferred from the V-1 to the V-7 program, allowed to complete their college careers, and after the awarding of their college degrees be given instruction leading to commissions as deck officers in the United States Navy. Some upperclass students have already enrolled in the V-5 and V-7 programs, and it is expected that considerable numbers of the underclassmen will be attracted to the V-1 program, which has been made available in recent weeks.

The College is exerting every effort possible to be of maximum service to its present students and to all students who contemplate entering Ursinus so as to prepare them most advantageously to cooperate in the various phases of the national defense effort. Wherever necessary courses have been modified to coincide with the requirements of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, and the College is keeping in close contact with the changing developments in the military needs of the nation. The College is also awake to the demands of industry, and has effected a working relationship with the Jacobs Aircraft Engine Company in Pottstown, Pa., and the Superior Tube Company in Collegeville, whereby students who desire to do so may carry on a program of work and study simultaneously.

According to this plan students may be employed in one of these defense industries working on the late afternoon and early evening shift. They will continue in residence at the College, be provided with transportation to and from the plant in which they are employed, and be permitted to carry a reduced program of college studies. It will be possible for students enrolled in the Work and Study program to carry from six to eight semester hours of work each term. Since the College is now organized on a three term basis a student may thus complete in any calendar year from eighteen to twenty-four hours of work. While the time required for obtaining a degree will be somewhat lengthened under this plan, it will be possible for the student who needs to do so to be fully self-supporting while he is at the same time working for his college degree.

In these and other ways the College is demonstrating its willingness to alter its traditional policies to cooperate with other agencies in making its contribution to the nation and to society in these times of crisis. Details concerning any of the features of the college program referred to in this article may be obtained from the Office of the Registrar, which is charged with the responsibility for administering the newer aspects of the Ursinus curriculum.

Commencement Advanced to May 15–18 Week-end

The entire commencement program has been advanced to May 16–18 inclusive in accordance with the accelerated program of the College. All of the events normally included in the program, including class reunions and the alumni banquet, will be held as before. The tentative program in full appears on the back cover of this issue.

William Mather Lewis, president of Lafayette College, will deliver the address at the Commencement Exercises on Monday morning, May 18. Dr. Lewis has had a long and distinguished career in the educational field, having been president of George Washington University before assuming his present post in 1927. He has held many positions of honor and trust in educational bodies and served as the first director of selective service for Pennsylvania, resigning Jan. 1 last.

The Baccalaureate Sermon on Sunday, May 17, will be preached by Rev. W. Sherman Kerschner, D.D., ’09, pastor of Heidelberg Evangelical and Reformed Church, Philadelphia. Dr. Kerschner was graduated from Central Theological Seminary in 1912 and became pastor of the English Reformed Church, Freeport, Ill. In 1914 he was called to Grace Church, Pittsburgh, Pa., where he served a year, then becoming pastor of Heidelberg Church, York, Pa. He assumed his present pastorate in 1931. Dr. Kerschner has held a number of important positions in the Church, serving on the Board of Ministerial Relief from 1923 to 1934, Trustee of Central Theological Seminary from 1929 to 1934, president of Philadelphia Synod in 1940 and 1941, and is secretary of the committee to prepare a new Hymnal. Ursinus conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity in 1928, and he was elected to membership on the Board of Directors of the College in 1940.

Woman's Club Corner

Dear Fellow Members:

Plans have been formed by the committee for the Ursinus Woman's Club card party to be held in the upper dining room of Freeland Hall, Saturday, April 18th. We are passing along a very good suggestion made by the chairman of one of the sectional groups. If four or more members in any one locality cannot return to the campus for the party, they might meet together at the home of one of the group and play cards there, the proceeds from their tickets to be sent in to the chairman, Mrs. Edward Fretz, Collegeville. May we count on your support?

We have contacted members in twenty-five localities to help us enroll the alumnae who are not members of our organization. Will you help us toward our goal of 100%?

In a letter to be sent the members later, we shall list some of the questions to be discussed in the May meeting. This will give everyone time to consider the way she wishes to vote, and will afford an opportunity to those who cannot be there to send their ballots.

Sincerely,

Miriam B. Smith ’14
President

Accelerated Program Puts May Pageant in April

Because of the requirements of the accelerated program and the early commencement date, May Day will be observed on Saturday, April 25. Except for being held in April, May Day will in all other respects be the May Day of yore.

"Toyland Fantasy," the pageant to be presented this year, was written by Julia E. Urich ’42, of Harrisburg, Pa. Lenore D. Berky ’42, of Allentown, Pa., has been chosen as May Queen.

Because of the possibility of inclement weather due to the early date, the pageant will be presented in the Thompson-Gay Gymnasium.
Noted Speakers Address Campus Organizations

A feature of the past winter has been the unusual number of speakers of more than local reputation who have appeared before the various campus organizations. Several were men of international repute, and all had a recognized standing in their respective fields. A list of these speakers and the organizations which sponsored their appearance is here given.

Beardwood Chemical Society: Dr. E. F. Kohlman, director of laboratories, Campbell Soup Company, "Nutritional Aspects of Canned Foods;" Fielding Ellis, Alan Wood Steel Company, "Photography in the Analysis of Steel;" Arthur F. Martin, Ph.D., '38, research chemist, Hercules Powder Company, "A New Development in Viscosity Measurement;" Dr. Martin's address was an abridgment of a paper which he will deliver at the forthcoming meeting of the American Chemical Society.

The Forum: Oliver W. F. Lodge, British scholar and critic, "The Poetry of George Meredith;" Philip B. Willauer, Esq., '30, attorney-at-law, Philadelphia, "Bases for Reconstruction after the Conclusion of War;" Dr. Wilhelm Sollman, former member of the German Reichstag and one of the founders of the Weimar Republic, now on the staff of Pendle Hill, center for social and religious study of the Society of Friends.

Vesper Services: Dr. Charles D. Spotts, professor of Religion, Franklin and Marshall College; David Adney, graduate of Cambridge University and a member of the China Inland Mission; Dr. E. G. Homrighausen, dean of Princeton Theological Seminary; Lee J. Gabel, director, Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association; Emory Nelson, general secretary, Y.M.C.A., Chester, Pa.; Dr. Theodore F. Herman, president, Theological Seminary of the Reformed Church, Lancaster, Pa.

College Defense Council Formed

A defense council composed of members of the faculty and student body has been formed to unify the various defense activities on the Campus. The council is a part of the local civil defense set-up and is headed by Prof. Maurice O. Bone, of the Department of Business Administration.

Plans have been laid whereby in case of emergency, selected students will perform definite tasks as members of fire patrol or first aid squads, or in assisting the Campus air raid warden, Dr. Frank L. Manning, of the Mathematics Department. A large number of students have enrolled in the special first aid course being given by Margaret Claffin '39, of the Physical Education Department.

Students Raise $200 for Foreign Student Relief

Over $200 was raised by the Christian Associations of the College as the result of a drive held on the Campus in February, as a contribution to the World Student Service Fund. The proceeds of this fund, which is a nation-wide effort, are used to relieve the plight of students in China and Europe.

Individual gifts accounted for about half the total sum. The student body voted to do without dessert at three meals, the proceeds of which were turned over to the drive. The balance was raised through sale of chopsticks and a benefit movie.

Distinguished British Scholar Serves as Visiting Professor

The College was privileged to have as visiting professor of English during the month of January the noted British scholar, critic and author, Mr. Oliver W. F. Lodge.

Mr. Lodge was accredited to Ursinus by President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University, acting for the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, which has undertaken an extensive program of assigning noted foreign scholars as visiting professors in the leading American colleges and universities. During his stay at Ursinus, Mr. Lodge lectured before various of the classes in English Literature, held individual conferences, and addressed the Ursinus Forum.

Mr. Lodge was born in Staffordshire, the son of the late Sir Oliver Lodge, the eminent physicist, and attended Eastbourne College and Liverpool University. He also studied privately under outstanding scholars, both in Britain and on the continent, in the fields of literature, philosophy, physics, bibliography, aesthetics, and the fine arts. He is the author of the standard work, What Art Is, and of a number of plays, poems, and critical works, and has lectured extensively on both sides of the Atlantic.

Freshman Customs Changed

A number of changes in the traditional freshman customs were adopted at a meeting of the Men's Student Assembly on March 26. Black ties will come back, replacing the red cravats of recent years, a different form of dink was adopted, and all freshmen will henceforth be required to wear coats except when engaging in sports. The pajama parade held on the first night of the term was dispensed with and a tug-of-war between the freshman and sophomore classes, under rules to be prescribed by the Student Council, will take its place.
ALUMNI ASSOCIATION NOMINEES

The following persons have been nominated for the various offices of the Alumni Association for the coming year. Ballots and instructions for voting have been mailed to all members in good standing and must be received by the Secretary by May 15 to be counted.

WITH THE GRIZZLIES

Intramural Program

In view of the accelerated academic program of the College with the attendant increased scholastic demands upon students, and in keeping with the request of federal authorities for emphasis on the physical fitness of all American youth, a compulsory physical program for all men students has been inaugurated.

Because of this action the intercollegiate spring sports schedules, already cut in half by the early advancement of the commencement date, have been cancelled.

The program is being administered by the Athletic Department under Director Jing Johnson. The regular coaches of the spring sports—Jing in baseball, Ken Hashagen in track, George Tyson in tennis, and Pete Stevens in golf—are directing their respective sports in cooperation with selected student leaders.

All men students were registered and allowed to select the sport in which they wished to take part, and all but a very few were able to get their first choice. Each man has a definite hour at which he must report to his team or group, and no cuts are allowed except on certificate of the college physician. The dinner hour has been moved up to 5:30 to allow events to be held in the early evening.

Six-team leagues have been formed in baseball and softball, which drew 80 and 60 men respectively, each team playing three games a week. Those participating in track, tennis, and golf receive regular instruction and will compete in a series of tournaments which have been scheduled. The hiking group tramp for three to five miles each week, with the probability of several long-distance hikes after the group gets sufficiently hardened.

One of the pioneer programs of its sort, the Ursinus plan is being watched with interest by government authorities as well as other institutions. Although the organization required much careful planning and an enormous amount of detail, Jing's well-known executive ability enabled a smooth start to be made. Student interest and enthusiasm are all that could be desired, as athletics for all becomes an accomplished fact at Ursinus.

Football to Continue

Present plans call for the continuance of football as an intercollegiate sport next fall, pending action on the part of our scheduled opponents or other developments which might make a different course necessary. The schedule, however may be curtailed as the accelerated program makes the usual September practice period impracticable, and the early October games may have to be cancelled.

The freshman rule has been relaxed for the duration of the war by action of the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate Athletic Conference, of which Ursinus is a member, to permit freshmen to play on varsity football and basketball teams. Freshman so permitted to play may engage in four years of varsity competition. Each institution may decide for itself whether or not to take advantage of this option, but it is believed that most, if not all, will do so.

The 1942 schedule, subject to the possibilities mentioned above, is as follows:

Girls Basketball

The girls had their traditional successful season, losing only to Beaver, who this year had the only undefeated team in the East. Penn, Bryn Mawr, William and Mary, and Temple were defeated and Chestnut Hill tied. Miss Snell and her teams deserve much credit when it is considered that year in and year out they consistently meet the best college teams on the Atlantic seaboard and just as consistently win.

Marion Bright was chosen for the All-Philadelphia District first team, Natalie Hogeland won second-team selection, and Nancy Landis received honorable mention.

Varsity Basketball

What promised to be the Bears' most successful court season went off-shelf at mid-years when starting center Ruggles Wadsworth and ace guard Barney Barab joined the Army Air Corps and relief center Thorpe and the Rorer twins were drafted by the Dean. With League permission, Ken Hashagen skinned the cream of the freshman team and finished the season with a patchwork assemblage that looked well piece by piece but gave at the seams. Ken worked magic in turning out a first team that was anyone's equal, but the reserve strength was undependable, and game after game was handed away in the closing moments. The Bears were seldom badly beaten.

It was a season of ups and downs and a lot of excitement. One night the Grizzlies set a league and college scoring record, beating Lebanon Valley 77-31. Four nights later they helped Albright beat the record, losing 33 to 80. Besides the dependable veterans, Hutchinson and MacMahon, there were sensational sophomores like Kuhn and Dave Ziegler, and a freshman named Walz who shone like a comet through the later games. Still, the season was a statistical failure, with only four victories out of sixteen games, and 677 points scored against 713 for the opponents. Al Hutchinson, Atlantic City senior, copped individual honors, being high scorer, making the AP All-League Team and honorable mention for the All-Philadelphia District Team, and being elected captain at the close of the season.

Wrestling

The Grizzly grapplers, as the \textit{Weekly} has long delighted to call the Ursinus wrestling team, followed the pattern of former seasons in getting off to a good start and then succumbing to the twin disasters of ineligibility and injury. Kutztown Teachers were defeated in the opener, and the last match was a 16-16 draw with Temple, with little glory in between. Sophomore Joe Tropp, in the heavyweight class was the most consistent winner, along with \text{Captain Dick Arnold}, who had two falls and a decision out of four matches wrestled. Arnold, incidentally, was never pinned in four years of college competition.

Trenton Alumni to Hold First Meeting on May 1

Ursinus Alumni in the Trenton, N. J. area are forming a local alumni association and will hold a dinner meeting on May 1 at which time an organization will be effected. Details as to time and place will be sent to all alumni in the area whose addresses are known.

Initial action to form the Association was taken at a meeting of interested alumni held at the house of Harold E. Fisher '33, 243 Arborlea Avenue, Morrisville, Pennsylvania on March 4, which was attended by R. C. Kichline '16, president of the general Alumni Association, and Stanley Omwake '31, assistant to the vice-president of the College. Members of this group who are also the committee on arrangements for the dinner include Eleanor Mengel Fisher '32, Warren F. Bietsch '34, Dorothy Threapleton Bietsch '26, Rev. C. H. Athletic Club Holds Successful Stag Party

The Ursinus Men’s Dinner, held at the University Club, Philadelphia, on January 30, proved a highly successful and enjoyable affair. Good fellowship was the keynote of the evening, which was helped along by appropriate refreshments, a tasty dinner, and some good story-telling.

Seventy-six stout fellows were present at the affair which was sponsored by the Alumni Athletic Club. Harry W. Snyder ’08, president of the Club, introduced Hon. Lloyd H. Wood ’25, who in his inimitable way, called on R. C. Kichline ’16 to exhibit his skill in prestidigitation. Arrangements were in charge of R. D. Evans ’18, and Stanley Omwake ’31.

The Club is considering the possibility of holding a picnic or clam bake during the late Spring or Summer if conditions are favorable.

Schmitt Broadcasts Story of Unique Church Building

The Journal is indebted to Marjorie Lee Dressner, ex '41, now on the staff of Methodist Information in New York City, for the following story:

"Ursinus alumni of the college generation from 1932-36 were pleasantly startled by the familiar voice of their fellow student, Elmer W. J. Schmitt, '36, on the popular C.B.S. program "We the People" Tuesday, January 13. Mr. Schmitt who now rates a "Rev." and is writing his doctor's thesis in Drew University, told the unique story of his Eastwick pastorial charge in the Hog Island section of Philadelphia, with its "Church That Friendship Build." This church, otherwise called Elmwood Church has a Jewish tower, Catholic and Episcopal walls, and was completely constructed by the voluntary labor of local residents representing every faith and four different races.

"Mr. Schmitt was convinced that Eastwick needed interracial and interfaith good will, and asked the population of the community to help build a church. Among the volunteers were Protestants, Catholics, Jews, Negroes, Chinese, Germans, and Italians. The complete plant consisting of church and parsonage is valued at $31,000 but cost little more than $1,200, due to contributed labor."

Mr. Schmitt was graduated from Drew Seminary in 1939 and had been pastor of the Elmwood Church for the past five years. He was transferred to the Bethesda Church, Manoa, Pa., at the annual meeting of the Philadelphia Methodist Conference on March 16.

Mrs. Schmitt is the former Ruth I. Hamma, '36.
