Jeane Dixon Arrives at Ursinus College

By RUTH VON KUMMER

Jeane Dixon’s long-awaited visit to Ursinus took place on Friday night, April 19th. The crowd of people in Helferich Hall was large between 6:00 and 6:30, while all were awaiting her appearance.

When we did see her, she spoke for quite a long time on some introductory topics which she had prepared. In the midst of all this, she began to show evidence of her devout spiritual training in God, which influenced all of her later predictions. Mrs. Dixon defined a prophecy as “a revelation of the will of God which the will of humanity cannot change.” She mentioned her past predictions which have come true and others concerning those who should have been able to stop them—but it had been possible.

She quoted several times from the Old Testament, once comparing Watergate and the state of the world to Nebuchadnezzar. The passage tells us how we could handle the situation in our best advantage—if we are willing to listen.

Among the prophecies which she left with us were: the hurricane which would result from an impeachment of the president, the likelihood of a comet appearing in 25 years, which will dwarf what we had, accompanied by the idea that unless we unite instead of bandying around, we will lose our system of capitalism and the presidents in the 1980’s will be subject to much abuse. The wars in the Middle East will continue for at least the rest of the century.

More troubles were to come. From the comet Kahnatshe, she said we will learn the secrets of the universe, but desire more exploration to convert theory into fact. Exploration will be cut in the next couple decades; before it is we will conduct a flight to Jupiter and even encounter a sister planet on the exact other side of the sun which explains why we’ve never seen it before. Later, a comet will bypass the earth bringing fire, floods and earthquakes, disturbing the earth’s electric field. These days of darkness will follow, and knowledge will be powerful to preserve world peace, experience will be needed. The eternal flame in each one of us will have to guide us. Only by discovering our spiritual unity will we save ourselves from total destruction.

After she had finished with these foretellings, Dr. Honrath asked her some individual questions, which had been prepared previously. Answers were as follows: 1. The President will not be impeached as of now and a conviction will not be obtained similar to the previous attempt to impeach a president in the U.S.

2. We will have a food shortage next year, a much larger energy crisis is to come.

3. In reference to organized religion, she was interested in her next few abuse in the next few years.

4. Ted Kennedy’s candidacy for the presidency will not be timed correctly for 1976.

5. We can soon be squeezed between all oil companies, and the Japanese will tell us what we should sell the U.S. for profit.

6. The little girl missing in New Jersey is a bribe to her; but she may still be alive and simply out her reach.

7. The stock market will come in the near future, but may fail if people don’t present.

8. A study of the occult by many will also help the country.

9. A woman, mentioning a few, will be put into a high position, a known, maybe not the presidency.

10. She warned the President in the sixties that if the oil companies were not dealt with they might get out of hand. This was more her answer as she was asked if they had formed a conspiracy.

By this time we were all quite tired. Leaving us to consider a future with all of the above happenings, she vanished as quickly as she had come.

The University Relations Club received national recognition at the National Model United Nations Simulation in New York City at the Statler Hilton Hotel. The delegation consisted of Ettie Turner (delegation chairwoman), Paul Bear, Maggie Carson, Glynis Coburn and Larry Ferron with Dr. and Mrs. Craft accompanying the group.

The Ursinus group represented the Syrian Arab Republic in the Simulation of the General Assembly. For the first five days, April 16-19, the 2000 delegates met in one of six committees: Political and Security; Special Political; Economic and Financial; Trusteeship; Social, Humanitarian and Cultural, and Legal. Also the group represented Syria in the Committee of Twenty-four to discuss the question of decolonization.

On Wednesday the afternoon session was spent at the United Nations Building. First there was a mission briefing with the 1st Secretary of the Syrian Permanent Mission at the United Nations. This was followed by a speech by Mr. Bradford Morse with the United States Mission. This was followed by a cocktail reception in the U.N. delegates’ dining room when the Syrian delegation promoted an exceeding amount of good will.

In all the experience was one of education, hard work (9 a.m. to midnight every day), little sleep and a lot of enjoyment. The delegation learned much of the inner workings and methodology of the United Nations. Professor Schlesinger, a U.C. student, supplied the U.N. best when he talked on a New Generation of the United Nations where the U.N. is no longer a little girl who seeks the big powers apart but rather as a force for viewing Space as an entity where the actions of one have a great influence on all.

The proposed change in the policy of women’s hours will be considered this week by a sub-committee of the Board of Directors. This committee will be made up of several members of the Board, Dean Harrison, Dean Whaley, Beers, one set of parents of a boy student and one set of parents of a girl student and a boy student. This committee will be made up of several members of the Board, Dean Harrison, Dean Whaley, Beers, one set of parents of a boy student and one set of parents of a girl student and a boy student. This committee was established by the Board on recommendations. Their role is to make recommendations on what changes should be made in the women’s hours and how best to implement them. President Felitt stressed the need for effective security for the girls regardless of what changes are made. The sub-committee will return its recommendations to the Board at their May meeting with the Board’s decision coming before next September.

To the surprise of everyone except himself, Mark Sellers, a freshman physics major, won the 1974 Ursinus College Chess Championship with a perfect score of 4-0 (4 wins, no draws, no losses—0). He was especially impressive in the last two rounds when he defeated tournament favorite, senior Joel Birk (last year's runner-up) and Frank Schmidt (last year's co-champ) in games which left them sufficiently humbled.

Ed Knowles, Howie Judis, and Frank Schmidt each had 5-3 scores (3 wins, no draws, 1 loss). Howie had a very strong showing, beating Jim Zechman (the president of the chess club), Wendy Bernardi, and losing only to Frank Schmidt in a very close game. Ed Knowles was awarded second place ($50) by virtue of his third round victory, defeated Jim Zechman, Howie Judis and Joan Dembroski. By being on the winning team, Howie Judis, Monster, and Jim Zechman each were awarded $25.

The tournament was spectacularly directed and directed by Bob Small, who has helped to make the U.C.C. chess club one of the best in the nation. Thanks also have to go to Bob Small for not playing.

Seventeen players in all competed, of whom eleven scored twenty. Below are the results for the 1974 U.C.C. CHESS CHAMPIONSHIP.

Philadelphia Jazz Sextet plus two led by Eric Nemeyer.

By ED KNOWLES

Chicago's most famous jazz group, the Philadelphia Jazz Sextet plus two led by Eric Nemeyer, appeared in the Colonnade last night, one of two concerts of this nature to be given on Ursinus' campus this spring. The Sextet, a popular group in both the city and the suburbs, has been active, performing in various clubs and theaters. The group features five musicians, including a saxophonist, a trumpeter, a trombonist, a pianist, and a singer. The Sextet's sound is a blend of traditional jazz and contemporary styles, with an emphasis on improvisation and creativity. The group is known for its high-energy performances and its ability to engage the audience. The Sextet's performance at Ursinus was a highlights of the evening, featuring a mix of standards and original compositions. The ensemble's musicianship was on display throughout the performance, with each member contributing their unique talents to the overall sound. It was a great honor for Ursinus to host such a talented group, and the performance was a testament to the school's commitment to providing a diverse and enriching cultural experience for its students and community.
The Women’s Lacrosse team, coached by Mrs. Watson and Mrs. Stahl, are now practicing for the first half of their season completion. This past week the team tried out five new players and three teams pulling together won against University of Penn early in the week and will play again against East Stroudsburg for the second week. Saturdays playing against University of Maryland contributed two more wins for the first two seconds. This week the Senior and Urns hosts “All College” try-outs. The squad looks forward to seeing their players on the college teams.

the all-important school tie. The first week is the most difficult for a syllabus and felt totally stretchy , I was the box — the tutor reads off a list of tentative books which changes weekly and I spent about two weeks collecting my materials from bookstores. The more I read the less time I spend in the library. The concept of age is a bit odd. The title past 16th or 17th century is “new” — any tour guide would tell you so. I can certainly understand why people are interested in bookstores. The book is a difficult task, and students have now tried to read books that were written in the last few years, and the contents are arranged by publisher instead of author or title. It is an experience I have come to appreciate an American system of book lists and one book store.

I determined not to judge England by American standards but is only natural to compare the two when living with 200 other self-identified Americans. We eat in one formal dining room at four long tables while portraits of deans from ages past gaze down upon us and the comments about the food run the gamut. I can never understand why people have the bruskest personality , but my tongue has adjusted quite quickly. What have developed is a taste for good beer which is served in great variety with both local and international flair. The English seem to be quite fond of sweets which might explain the vast number of public “houses,” better known as pubs. Discuss any ideas of the American bar and the Pub in the — the pub is a great place to socialize with those students and villagers meet for a pint of bit ters and talk; women are not both when alone or in groups, dart boards are numerous and our local pub even has an anthem of its own which is sung at the 10:30 closing time.

It is also a great time to be out of town and I can’t wait to have a meal in London again. I am the most time of my life — I bought a small study lamp and when I went to London to look for my next purchase I discovered that it was broken. Apparently British lamps are quite different from their American counterparts. If you have ever tried to read book titles in the Titles/darkness of the bookstores where the books are arranged by publisher instead of author or title. It is an experience I have come to appreciate an American system of book lists and one book store.

The Women’s Lacrosse team, coached by Miss Boyle, are into their season with two wins so far against Temple and Bryn Mawr. The players of the 8 now tennis courts behind the gym and for the first time have several home matches. The team consists of singles players Ingrid Yamanaki, Helen Liddell, Dorothy Brooks and doubles players Elaine Snyder, Barb Wiborn, Denise Jean, Polly Jones, and Patty Meade.

This weekend at Princeton, N. J. an intercollege tournament will take place with several of the team’s players representing our league. Good luck to all those involved.
