Dear Larry:

I continue to be impressed by your response to any and all contacts from the home front. After all these years I ought to be used to your excellent style but....thanks once again.

Enclosed is a packet of information about Ms. Eleanor Snell. A Living Legend? Charisma? These terms are overused but Ms. Snell qualifies in both categories. During her amazing 41-year career she refused to recognize obstacles during an era when things weren't always easy for women or women athletes. She passed along both her leadership skills and dreams to a national network of former players and students who have since established the environment for the modern world of women's athletics. Olympic field hockey; the action-oriented form of women's basketball; the new acceptance of and appreciation for women athletes...here you will find the Snell influence.

Anyway, here is some background information. If there is some way to officially honor this Kate Hepburn of sports please let me know.

Best Wishes,

Glenn A. McCurdy
