CYNTHIA V. FITZGERALD

DEAR FRESHMEN:

I know it is not the custom to address the entire freshman class in the first weekly editorial but I want to introduce the 1974-1975 paper in the spirit of innovation which is beginning to grow on campus. In this open letter I feel I am speaking not only to myself but also for the other campus leaders when I say that I hope as the largest class in the history of Ursinus College you will also have the largest involvement in campus activities. Every year we optimistically view the freshmen as new life-giving forces to the college but as September passes away, the same people are "elected" to the class offices, the student committees are filled with the predictable faces, the weekly staff sheet resembles a xerox copy of the previous year and now the Union is predominantly run by the classes of '75 and '76. I am not saying that the college is not being well run—I think we all know that Ursinus has never seen a more active campus—but I am still infuriated by the mealy accusation that Ursinus is being run by an oligarchy (although it may not be consciously in those terms). I realize that as you are becoming accustomed to college life you are also becoming accustomed to the same faces who are conducting student business; I know because I did the same thing as a freshman. But don't be so docile and assume that "things" will go on without your help. Face it—there is too much work for the "oligarchy" to handle now and if you want events to be held, decisions made as well as weekends, you must assume some of the responsibility for the new ideas and the work that goes into transforming the drawing board ideas into actual events. Either assume the responsibility or don't complain "There's nothing to do." You may take the Union for granted (and you're not alone because the sophomores think the same way) but sometime ask a senior or junior what Ursinus was like in their freshman year and now. Read the reports of Student hotline performers, will be at the meeting. Miss Ketchum, pianist, and Peter Segal, classical guitarist, will perform. Miss Ketchum performed extensively as soloist, orchestral musician, and with various chamber groups. She has both performed and recorded with the Philadelphia Orchestra. Miss Segal has traveled throughout North America and Southern Europe. He won second prize in the International Competition for Guitarists in 1971.

Criminal Law will be discussed by Joseph D. Harttough, for the next Forum on November 3rd. He received his bachelor of laws degree from the University of Pittsburgh School of Law, and his master's degree from Georgetown University Law Center. While at Georgetown he represented indigent criminal defendants in the courts of Washington D.C. He was of counsel in Coles and Hendler, a noted Circuit Court for three years.

At the next Forum, on November 12th, Mme. Rosemond Bernier will speak on "Great Artists at Peking." Mme. Bernier is at home in America and Europe. She counts many of the great artists of the western world as her friends, and thus is remarkably well-qualified to speak about them. She is currently working on two half-hour programs for CBS television network.

The last Forum of the semester and the first of the year will be on January 9th. The Rittenhouse Brass Quintet will perform pieces from the Renaissance to the contemporary. The members have performed with the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Detroit and Atlantic Symphonies, the Pennsylvania and Philadelphia Orchestras.

Fall Forum Season Opens

By RICHARD WHALEY

This semester's Forum programs again offer the Ursinus community a variety of academic and cultural events. The first Forum was last Tuesday, when Apl Gaminbar gave a piano and marimba concert. This was the first of three musical programs. This coming Wednesday, October 2nd, is the next Forum, at 9 A.M. in Wissler Hall. William Achatz, a flutist, and JanTk Ketchum, pianist, will speak on "The Media Today and Their Relationship with the Presidency." Mr. Achatz is one of the most widely-traveled news photo editors in The Associated Press, with which he has been associated for more than a quarter-century.

William Achatz

He directed photo coverage for President Nixon's trip to Peking, China, and the summit meeting of Nixon and Russian leaders in Moscow. He has handled Republican and Democratic National Convention executions, in the electric chair, war, racial riots, Presidential inaugurations, several World Series baseball tournaments, boxing title fights, golf tournaments and most of pro football's Super Bowls.

RITREHOUSE BRASS QUARTET

JANET KETCHUM AND PETER SEGAL

The College Union opened the 1974 season with an A.C.U.-I meeting on September 30th which was attended to exchange ideas and discuss the problems of running a union. Although Ursinus is now a union member, in previous conferences the Ursinus representatives have dominated the discussions and the delegates have followed our lead; e.g. Ketchum built a 790-foot banana split after consulting our follow-up files. The Union's Program Board is planning a similar event to commemorated November 7, 1973 along with a marshmallow-roasting booth on Saturday, September 30th and a coffeehouse on October 5th. Ben Wright and Eric Hal, regular coffeehouse members, will be "showcased" at Allentown College for the A.C.U. on the same day. The Tuesday night movies will commence shortly and a new program for speakers and seminars is being arranged. A masquerade party is scheduled for October 19 and is an attempt at using the diversified energies around Ursinus for a campus-wide event.

Can the Ursinus Bears’ football team that finished the 1974 season with a 2-5-1 record lead U. C. to dominance in the well-balanced M.A.C. Southern Conference? The signs point to a strong conferencewide result. Thus, whatever Ursinus’ outcome, Whately describes as “very strong.”

Defensively, the Bears’ unit has changed drastically. Quarterbacking is continued by either Junior Dick Gaglio, last year’s backup QB, or Tom Ide, a freshman from Cherry Hill, N. J., and the starting running halfback continues to be Bill Helfferich. The offensive pass receivers include tight ends Jack Winter and Bill Gardner along with wide receivers, Pete Nelson, Mark Dufresne, Steve Elendowski and Bill Bingaman. Providing the pass protection and offering slot receivers with outside aggression is Frankie Prasshach, Hub Brandenburg, and Ron Coleman. The centers include returning letterman Dave Buck and backups Gary Stanfill, Paul Jones and Ray Fisher.

The starting offensive unit consequently includes only one returning letterman, Dave Buck and Kelley. Backfield should be strong with the talents of Kelley, Harry and Donato. Depth in the number of receivers will help a passing attack that is bolstered by returning letterman Dave Buck and backups Gary Stanfill, Paul Jones and Ray Fisher.
