Achatz Discusses News Media Role At Ursinus Forum

By BOB BRANT

Achatz said the news media are the public’s eyes and ears on the campuses, and that the News Media Forum was an opportunity to discuss the relationships between the future administrations and the press.

Parents’ Day Events Slated

By JUDIE JAMES

Parents of Ursinus students will receive the VIP treatment on Saturday as their sons and daughters act as Parent’s Day tour guides for prospective students. Parents will be shown the classroom, dormitories, dining hall, athletic facilities, and all the other services of the College.

In the morning the dormitories, as well as the major College buildings, will be open to the public. The college will be visited. At 1:00 p.m. a Parents’ Tour is scheduled at Ursinus Lounge so that the families of prospective students may get to know one another.

A buffet lunch is to be held in Wimmer from 1:30 to 2:45 p.m. Students may obtain tickets for their guests from the Office of Student Affairs for $5.00 each.

The college will be open to visitors between 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. on Saturday. The college will be open to visitors between 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. on Saturday.
The theme of the 1971 Ruby was “Ursinus Is A People Place.” Maybe it was true then but it certainly isn’t now and it’s a shame because we have lost our greatest asset.

The right and freedom to be an individual brought our forefathers to America. Individuality is dead here though. No one wants to allow people to be themselves; if someone is slightly different they are immediately branded with a nickname. Each of us has something to contribute to Ursinus and who is to say which contribution is more important? It takes a variety of skills to make Ursinus: sports, academics, music, publications, dramas and social activities. Each is necessary to make this place liveable.

In larger schools each of these interest groups associate only with each other. Here at Ursinus we all learn from each other because by its small size the school allows us to meet people we never would have known elsewhere. It is too bad that we all do not take advantage of this. The stereotype of the dumb athlete, the animal, is not apropos here and they need not be treated as they are. In the same vein, the biology student striving for medical school is not a “geek” or something strange. Each of us sets his own priorities and we should be mature enough to accept those of the others. The dream of America is to better self. But what is better?

The dreams each of us hold are very special. The purpose of having all of us together is to have us grow by sharing in each other’s dreams. If not for this, college could be done by mail. Ridiculing another’s dream is to hit at the essence of what they are.

Ursinus is not a factory where the parts come in and turn into a production-line product. We are not all the same and no amount of peer pressure and molding is going to make us that way. Education first. It is aLEVillege, I’ve got a suggestion. Just about twenty or thirty minutes from here (take Route 23 to Knau­ertown and turn right) is St. Peters Village, a tiny town with little shops and things to buy. There are all kinds of little stores at St. Peters; there is a bakery that makes all kinds of scrumptious things like gingerbread men and apple dumplings and, on Sundays, funnel cakes. There’s a General Store with 2¢ penny candy, a silver-smith’s, a leath­er shop, a book store and a wicker shop. St. Peters has one place called “All God’s Creatures” that has framed photographs and colored sand art, all in all to make pictures and flat rocks with portraits paint­ed on them. There’s a yarn shop where you can buy unique things, and the French Falls Inn. There’s a shop where you can buy any kind of rock or fossil or jewelry. And there’s Aunt Lena.

Ursinus is about eighty-four years old, and dressed in the con­form of the 1890’s or so, she shows you around her little “museum” and then she plays the saw and sings a song. She is a very amicable old woman, and she really knows how to play her saw. She’ll talk to you about how things were different when she was a girl and how styles have changed, and show you old photographs of her family. Aunt Lena is one of St. Peters’ main attractions.

Another main attraction for me is the village store, called Peter Pumpkin Eater’s Greengrocer. I bought a spider plant there in a hanging pot, but I had a hard time choosing between that and “wondering jew” and “baby tears.” There were all kinds of plants there, and if you like green things it might be an interesting place to stop. The rocks are another feature of St. Peters Village. Directly behind the stores on Aunt Lena’s side of the street is a creek with huge rocks to climb on. A bridge and wooden steps cross the creek and lead up and down the banks for those who don’t like to climb but the rocks make a great place to picnic, or sit and talk, or lie in the sun, or crawl, or climb and slide. There’s a lot more—a place with bottles and cans, and the little “all-purpose” store. I bought one of 4” tall, couldn’t walk through standing up. So if your roommate has a car, or you’re looking for a place to take your parents on Parent’s Day, why not take the afternoon and go to St. Peters. I think you’ll enjoy yourself. I did.

Pumpkin Eater’s Greengrocery

By BARBARA J. CRIDER

If you’re looking for a place to go to when your parents come to visit, or if anyone here is really hungry, then Aunt Lena is the place to go. When your parents come to visit, there is so much for them to see it is hard to know where to go. Aunt Lena’s stores are in the center of the village and are in the building that has been there the longest. Aunt Lena’s store is open every day, and all hours except Sunday.

Aunt Lena’s store is a small one, but it is filled with all kinds of things. She carries a variety of fruit and vegetables, and she also sells groceries. She carries a variety of meats and cheeses, and she also sells baked goods. Aunt Lena’s store is open every day, and all hours except Sunday.

INSTITUTE HELPS PRE-MEDS ABROAD

Over 500 American college students will leave the country during the next year to study medical schools in Europe. These pre-medical students will join more than 4000 Americans now enrolled in medical schools abroad.

More Americans now are opting to study abroad than in recent years. Medical careers have become more desirable than ever before, and, at the same time, competition has stiffened for admission to the limited number of American medical schools.

Once admitted to a medical school, it's extremely difficult for any student to survive. More Americans are now applying to foreign medical schools, and they must learn to read, write and speak the language of the country, and develop a knowledge of medical terminology.

One way of surmounting these obstacles is to enlist the aid of an experienced professional organization such as the Institute of International Medical Education. Provisionally chartered by the Regents of the University of the State of New York, the Institute's offices first opened in June on 13 East 26th St., New York.

The Institute of International Medical Education, with a mission to solve this problem and provide a closer collaboration between the American and European medical communities, has a staff of four professionals who must often work under foreign laws and conditions.

The Institute's secretaries must learn a new language, and some members of the staff must also learn two or more languages. The Institute is equipped to handle cases of medical students in all foreign medical schools abroad, and to help the students adjust to the new cultural environment.

Once a student has been admitted to a foreign medical school, he must learn to read, write and speak the language of the country, and develop a knowledge of medical terminology. The students must also learn the laws of the country, and the customs of the people. They must also learn how to get along with the people of the country, and how to deal with the government.

STORY LEAKS OUT

By NANCY FRYE

Dr. Robert Cogger, head of the education department at Ursinus, is also an ink bottle enthusiast. It all began in the Catskill Mountains about three years ago when he and his wife were exploring an old dumping area for interesting artifacts. Amidst the piles of junk, he spotted a six-sided green bottle which interested him. He picked it out of the rubble, and thus began his collection of ink bottles which now number over 100.

"I enjoy collecting ink bottles because of their interesting designs," Dr. Cogger explained. "I enjoy their beauty. You never know when you're going to find one that's different." "They are small and don't require too much room," he continued. "And they're very useful as pencil holders or the like."

Dr. Cogger hunts for bottles at antique flea markets, auctions and even at barn sales in the Collegeville area.

"Some ink bottles are quite expensive because they're scarce," he explained. "Carter's cathedral bottle, which was used in one-room schoolhouses is an example. It's a six-sided cobalt blue bottle that reminds you of a cathedral when you look at it."

Dr. Cogger added, however, that it is not necessary to spend large amounts of money to find bottles for the sport today.

Defeated by Kings College

By BOB STABLES

The visiting cross country team from King's College handed the Bears their second loss in three outings by defeating the Ursinus team 25-11 last Saturday here at U.C.

The Kings' runners took the initiative by grabbing the lead early in the race. The Nelson brothers, Greg and Jeff, and Ed Gilroy held the first three places while the top Ursinus runners stayed in the middle of the pack. The top three runners' position was never challenged as they widened their lead as the Ursinus leaders continued to fade. Gregg Nelson went on to take first place with a time of 29:03. Gary Startz finished first for the Ursinus team and fourth overall. Len Domanski, John Richards, and Ed Gilroy took fifth, sixth, and seventh place respectively.

Two losses early in the season are very disappointing, and put the Ursinus team at a disadvantage in their quest for the M.A.C. crown. The team needs to win their remaining meets and make their encounter with Widener even more important.

The J.V. ran against Williams College Trade on October 19th. The team faces Dickinson and Hopkins at home on Parents' Day.

Hockey Team Plans Tour of England

By MELISSA MAGEE

That's right! Ursinus has been invited to send a field hockey team over to tour and to compete against many English colleges. The upper-classmen have practiced and worked hard to be selected for the touring team. Miss Boyd, the varsity and J.V. coach, made the announcement Monday of who had the honor of representing Ursinus in Great Britain. The five seniors chosen are co-captains Pervance Barnhill and Linda "Jeute" Gibbons, Anita Deasy, Linesis Landis, and Debbie Ryan. Those selected from the junior class are Karen Hanwell, Sherrine Harden, Melissa Magwe, Karla Poley, and Elaine "Semi" Synder. Only two sophomores will be going, Bees Garwood and Judy Turner. The dates of the trip are from December 1st to 23rd. Everyone is psyched as there will be lots of sightseeing as well as playing -- not to mention the mention of the PUBS!

The third and fourth teams had home games against Temple University Thursday and continued their winning streaks. The third team had a very tense second half but they pulled it out with a score of 2-1. Scoring the goals were Jill Thomas and Candy Russell. Fourth went on to win very convincingly with a score of 5-1. The new 3rd and 4th team coach, Mrs. Butler, has two strong teams and they should keep the victories coming in!

Junior Varsity had an away game against Bucks Community College and after they got there, getting lost several times, the Baby Bees made their trip worthwhile by bringing home a 5-4 victory! The field has a little bit to be desired but the stickwork was as good as usual! Scoring the goals were Betty Meng (2), Nancy Zorn, Cindy Martin, and Joan Avallin.

Saturday, Oct. 5, Ursinus traveled to Goucher College in Maryland to play in a round robin tournament. The Varsity team was announced Friday and everyone was excited to play against the southern teams. Varsity members this year will be Betty Meng and Col Appel, two freshmen; Bees Garwood and Judy Turner, two sophomores; and Anita Deasy, Pervance Barnhill, and Linda "Jeute" Gibbons, three seniors.

Ursinus proved to be superior to the other teams when they hung 2-0 with Melissa Magwe and Betsy Meng scoring the goals. Next William and Mary beat Virginia and the Varsity and they beat Univ. of Maryland 3-0. Putting it past their roule was Betsy Meng, Pervance Turner and Col Appel. Then things got dicey again when the Varsity and the Baylor and they beat Univ. of Mary land 5-4. Putting it past their roule was Betsy Meng, Pervance Barnhill (yeah fullbacks!) and Linda "Jeute" Gibbons (3 goals). Going better for the Varsity but the real test will be Tuesday against Glassboro. Get psyched, girls!

The J.V.'s played and came home with four victories also! Ursinus beat Goucher J.V.'s 10-0, Towson J.V. 3-0, Univ. of Maryland 1-0, and William and Mary 4-1.
