

Ursinus College

Digital Commons @ Ursinus College

World War II Era Documents, 1939-1945

World War II Era (1939-1945)

10-9-1940

The Issue, October 9, 1940

Francis Mairs Huntington-Wilson

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.ursinus.edu/fmhw_secondworldwar_documents

Part of the Diplomatic History Commons, Political History Commons, and the United States History Commons

Click here to let us know how access to this document benefits you.

Recommended Citation

Huntington-Wilson, Francis Mairs, "The Issue, October 9, 1940" (1940). World War II Era Documents, 1939-1945. 27.

https://digitalcommons.ursinus.edu/fmhw_secondworldwar_documents/27

This Essay is brought to you for free and open access by the World War II Era (1939-1945) at Digital Commons @ Ursinus College. It has been accepted for inclusion in World War II Era Documents, 1939-1945 by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ Ursinus College. For more information, please contact aprock@ursinus.edu.

THE ISSUE.

Willkie cannot win, and should not win, if he is on the wrong side of this issue:

THE ISSUE

Are we going now to join Britain in keeping command of the seas?

That is our only real defense.

OR

Are we going to spend all our money and time, and to be regimented, for years to come, to build defenses too late to save us? We cannot become "impregnable" alone against a hostile world that can outbuild us five times over.

No one with sane ideas on America's defense will vote for an "isolationist" party. And no honest and intelligent party can say they will "never" send men to fight abroad, or promise to keep us out of war.

No candidate, or party, that is on the wrong side of this issue can or should win. Willkie must repudiate the isolationism of Hoover, Taft, Vandenburg, Dewey (while a candidate), Hugh Johnson, the Saturday Evening Post, et al.

F.M. Huntington-Wilson

Woodbury, Conn. October 9, 1940.

(I served three years as an assistant secretary of state under Elihu Root, four years as what is now called undersectetary of state with Philander C. Knox, and nine years in the diplomatic service).