Farewells to Ursinus

To many alumni and friends of the College, news of the resignations of Professor and Mrs. Sheeder will be received with deep regret. Their leave-taking of the campus, where they have given such long and devoted service, will remove for hundreds of graduates their most intimate link with Ursinus, and deprive the College of a most valuable asset in contacts with a wide variety of educational and religious groups away from campus.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheeder's acquaintances among alumni are legion. Frequently, students were first introduced to the College through meeting one or the other. With many students official contacts were deepened into friendship as a result of the principles Mr. and Mrs. Sheeder sought to practise in furthering the educational process. Convinced that one of the chief merits of the small college is its ability to bring faculty and students into close personal relationships, they preferred the informality and give-and-take discussions of small groups in their home to the classroom lecture. Probably some of the most effective teaching at Ursinus has occurred at Lynnewood Hall.

As they turn from their tasks at Ursinus to accept other duties, the best wishes of students, alumni and friends will go with them.

Announcement of Dr. Lentz's intention to retire as College Pastor evokes memories that will always associate his name with the institution of a cherished Ursinus tradition—the Christmas Candlelight Communion. Of all the services Dr. Lentz was ever called upon to perform at the College, he seemed to derive greatest personal satisfaction from officiating at this conclusion to the college Christmas season. The dignity and simplicity with which he conducted the service were remarkable in the highest degree. His retirement, after a long and rewarding pastorate in Collegeville and in other churches, is well-earned.

Education for Veterans

We were interested the other week in reading a letter from Mrs. J. Lynn Barnard, wife of the former Chairman of the History-Social Science Group. Mrs. Barnard recalled that at the close of World War I the veterans who studied under government auspices were known as "rehab." This name was derived from the fact that only veterans suffering disabilities and requiring rehabilitation were qualified to receive education at public expense.

By contrast with the benefits extended veterans in 1919, the present change in our national attitude is significant. The generous provisions now made for high school, vocational, college and professional training reveal a deep conviction that thorough educational preparation is essential to undertaking almost any occupation in our present complex community life. Whereas we once believed that only the handicapped deserved public aid in obtaining special training, we have now come to the belief that anyone who lacks training is handicapped.

The large number of veterans taking advantage of their guaranteed educational advantages indicates a widespread faith in what education can do "for" men. Lest this faith give way to a period of disillusionment with educational institutions, it should perhaps be re-emphasized that education is primarily important for what it can do "to" men.

Alumni Day

Wider participation of alumni in recent years in contributing to the work of the College and interest displayed in wartime activities at Ursinus has been most gratifying to College officials. All alumni, especially those who were prevented from visiting the campus these past few years, are cordially invited to attend Alumni Day and take part in the program of events announced elsewhere in this issue. As always, chief interest for alumni will be focused on the opportunity to hold class reunions, particularly those classes celebrating five-year anniversaries and those unable to meet last year.
The following paragraphs are an informal report to the alumni.

Because the Navy program at Ursinus College did not end until October 20, we were compelled to begin the regular academic year somewhat later than is our custom. The Winter Term opened November 1 with an enrollment of 535 students. On January 7 we admitted a small group of veterans for eight-week special courses. At the beginning of the Spring Term, March 11, we admitted as many students as our housing facilities permitted. Our present enrollment is 595, including more than one hundred veterans.

The Summer Term of eight weeks will begin July 8 and will end August 31. The program is planned especially for those veterans who will wish to save time in completing their college work. The schedule is so arranged as to enable the student to complete a full semester's work in one-half the normal number of courses.

In order that we at Ursinus can assume our full share of the responsibility for the veteran as well as for the non-veteran, we are planning temporary expansion of at least 30 per cent, that is, we plan to increase the number of students from our normal total of 550 to perhaps 700 or 725. Library, classroom, and laboratory facilities are adequate for this number. We can readily make the necessary increase in the teaching staff. Our greatest difficulty is to provide adequate housing. We have sought to find additional housing facilities that will be more comfortable and convenient than trailers or barracks supplied by the government. We expect to be able to lease, a mile and a quarter from the campus, very satisfactory housing for about one hundred additional students. Our instructional facilities will not permit us to admit a larger number than this. This number, however, will enable us to admit our full share of veterans as well as our normal quotas of students who are not veterans.

Our experience with the veterans has been most gratifying. With few exceptions, they have done satisfactory work. As a group they have had a tonic effect upon the less mature students. We shall continue to control carefully the admission of veterans. It is important that we avoid the mistake of admitting veterans who are clearly not prepared to do good work in college. But we shall do all in our power for those we admit, and we shall admit as many as we can in fairness to all concerned.

Some months before the seventy-fifth anniversary of the opening of Ursinus College, which we celebrated in November, a committee of the Board of Directors set out to raise an Anniversary Fund of $150,000 to supply several of our more pressing needs. Contributions and pledges to the Anniversary Fund have now reached the desired total of $150,000. Most of the contributions were earmarked for debt reduction, for the Women's Building Fund, and for various scholarship funds. The success of this undertaking was due in large part to the cooperation and generous help of the alumni, for which all friends of Ursinus College are deeply grateful.

The steady flow of gifts to Ursinus College is rapidly bringing closer the day when we shall be able to build the long-needed residence halls for women. During the last fiscal year gifts from all sources reached the total of $51,000. Since the beginning of the present fiscal year, July 1, 1945, gifts from all sources have reached the total of $59,000. The Board of Directors has authorized the Committee on Buildings and Grounds to proceed with the study of preliminary plans for the residence halls for women, in order that these buildings can be erected as soon as possible.

Ursinus College faces unprecedented responsibilities and opportunities. With the help of the alumni and our other friends the next few years can be made the best years in the history of Ursinus.
Faculty and Staff Changes Announced

At a meeting of the Board of Directors on March 12, 1946 Dr. Eugene H. Miller, Associate Professor of Political Science, and at present Acting Dean of Men, was elected Acting Registrar. Dr. Miller, a member of the Class of 1933, has been a member of the Faculty since 1935. He is the son of Dr. H. U. Miller, Class of 1902, and of Mrs. Bertha Shipe Miller, Class of 1905. Dr. Miller will begin his work as Acting Registrar on July 1.

Dr. Charles D. Mattern, Class of 1930, Associate Professor of English, was elected Director of the Bureau of Self-help. Dr. Mattern has been a member of the Faculty since 1937. He will assume his new duties on July 1.

Faculty Appointments

Emil H. Messikomer has been recently appointed as a full-time faculty member in the Department of Physical Education. In addition to his teaching work, he will coach the men's basketball team.

A resident of Philadelphia, Mr. Messikomer has recently been discharged from the Navy where he served since 1942 as a Lieutenant Commander in the Naval Aviation physical training program.

A graduate of West Philadelphia High School and West Chester State Teachers College in 1935, he majored in physical education and was co-captain of the basketball team his senior year of college. He received his master's degree in physical education from Columbia University in 1939.

After graduation from college he taught at the Perkiomen School at Pennsburg, Pa., where he also coached basketball and baseball. From 1936 to 1942, he was an instructor in health and physical education and basketball at Collingdale High School.

J. Douglas Davis '41 has been appointed Instructor of History at Ursinus College. He is instructing a special accelerated history course for the newly enrolled veterans and also classes in freshman history. A 1941 graduate of Ursinus, Mr. Davis was connected with the 103rd Medical Battalion of the 28th Division from 1941 to 1945, serving with the rank of Captain. He is planning to take graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania this spring.

Army Discharges Stevens

"Pete" Stevens has returned to the Ursinus College campus, taking up his former position as football coach and assistant instructor in physical education after having been honorably discharged from the service. Before entering the Army in October, 1943, where he was assigned to the physical training department of the Special Services Division, he coached both golf and wrestling as well as football at Ursinus.

Mr. Stevens, a Temple University graduate and former captain of the football team, makes his home at 204 Ryers Ave., Cheltenham, Penna.

Resignations

Emily Zoll Wismer '41, resigned effective February 19, 1946, as assistant in the office of the Treasurer to join her husband, Eli F. Wismer, Jr., '41, in Elgin, Ill. She taught at Royersford High School for a year before accepting a position at the College in August, 1942.

Mary Ellen Hillegas Evans '41, who has been assistant to the Registrar since her graduation, will leave her position June 30, 1946. Her husband, Richard B. Evans '40, returned recently from duty as an Ordnance Officer with the XXIV Army Corps in Korea.

COLLEGE PASTOR RETIRES AFTER 18 YEARS' SERVICE

The Reverend John Lentz, D.D., '02, pastor of Ursinus College and Collegeville Trinity Evangelical and Reformed Church since 1928, will retire from the active ministry on April 30.

Reverend Lentz was graduated from Ursinus College in 1902 with a B.A. degree and received his D.D. from the same institution in 1930. While a student at Ursinus, Reverend Lentz played on the varsity football teams. From 1902 until 1903 he was a student at the University of Pennsylvania Law School. In 1906 he was graduated from the Ursinus School of Theology in Philadelphia. Between 1906 and 1928 he was pastor of the Reformed Churches in Eureka and Milton, Pennsylvania. Since that time he has served as pastor of the Collegeville Church and Ursinus College.

Other members of Reverend Lentz's family have attended Ursinus. His son, John B. Lentz, '31, was recently discharged from the U. S. Army. Both his brother, Edwin Lentz '89 and sister-in-law '89 are also graduates from Ursinus.

Reverend Lentz is First Vice-President of the Evangelical and Reformed Church in the United States and serves as a member of the General Council and the Committee on Emergency World Service. He is also a member of the Board of Visitors of the Lancaster Theological Seminary. Local activities include membership in the Masons and the Collegeville Lions Club.

Not wishing to retire completely from the ministry, Reverend Lentz intends occasionally to do guest preaching. Upon retirement, he and his family will move to their new home in Coleston, Norristown.

Loyalty Fund Grows

The Ursinus College Loyalty Fund is a fund to which alumni and other friends of Ursinus College make annual contributions. The Loyalty Fund was started in the academic year 1940-41. Each year the contributions of alumni to this fund have been larger than in the preceding year. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1945, the contributions of the alumni reached a total of $13,500. The contributions of the alumni this year have already reached the total of $15,560.

Donors are free to indicate the purpose for which they wish their gifts to be applied. Checks should be made payable to Ursinus College.

URSINUS COLLEGE BULLETIN
PROF. AND MRS. SHEEDER TO LEAVE URSINUS

F. I. Sheeder

Resignations effective at the end of the current academic year have been submitted by Franklin J. Sheeder '22, Registrar and Professor of Religion and Church History, and by Josephine Xander Sheeder '21, Instructor in Pageantry, Assistant in Religion, and Preceptress.

On July 1 Professor Sheeder will assume duties as Executive Secretary of the Evangelical and Reformed Church Board of Christian Education and Publication with headquarters in the Schaff Building, 15th and Race Sts., Philadelphia. His new position involves the planning and execution of the total church educational program. In his capacity of Executive Secretary, Mr. Sheeder will make periodic visits to member churches throughout the country to discuss operation of the educational program and to fill speaking engagements.

Few persons associated with Ursinus College can claim a wider acquaintance among alumni than Mr. and Mrs. Sheeder, who have been on the instructional staff continuously since 1925 except for a year’s leave of absence in 1929 to pursue graduate study at the University of Chicago. As a result of their varied positions and activities they have had personal contact with virtually every student enrolled during the past score of years. Both are also widely known over a large area in secondary educational and collegiate institutions, churches, religious organizations and social agencies.

Professor and Mrs. Sheeder were married in 1924 at San Francisco, Calif., and then moved to Dayton, O., where the latter taught in the weekday schools of religion while Mr. Sheeder completed his divinity work at Central Theological Seminary. Mrs. Sheeder, following her graduation from Ursinus in 1921, taught in high schools in Florida, Delaware and California. Mr. Sheeder, after serving as a medical corpsman in World War I, finished his undergraduate work and received the A.B. degree in 1922.

In 1925 both were appointed to positions in their alma mater. Dr. George L. Omwake, then President, named Mr. Sheeder as his Assistant and office manager for the large financial campaign then getting under way. In addition, he taught a course in the English Bible. Five years later he was appointed Registrar—the first person to hold this office in the history of the College—and Professor of Religion.

As Registrar, Professor Sheeder has had complete charge of student solicitation and enrollment. During the 21 years he has been on the administrative staff, a total of 3559 students have been enrolled. Except for the severe depression year of 1933, student enrollment in the entire College since 1927 has been over 450 and since 1936 above 500. Peak enrollment was reached in 1942 with 582 students in attendance. In performance of his duties, Mr. Sheeder annually visited hundreds of prospective students throughout the Middle Atlantic States, attended numerous college night programs sponsored by high schools, conferred with church and secondary school officials, and spoke frequently before alumni groups. Under his direction a variety of brochures and pamphlets were prepared setting forth the requirements for admission and the educational advantages offered by the College.

Upon Mr. Sheeder’s recommendation membership was sought in the American Schools Association, through whose agency the College was able to extend the area from which to draw in expanding its student body. “Open House Day” was another feature inaugurated, with the cooperation of practically all departments of the College, to bring visiting secondary and preparatory school pupils into personal contact with the facilities and resources of Ursinus.

Professor Sheeder was a frequent contributor to educational and religious journals. Many of his articles were based on the results of studies and experiences connected with his official duties. For three years he participated in the Yale Transition Study, a survey to determine the problems of students incident to making the transition from secondary schools to higher institutions. Aptitude tests for entering students, as well as all examinations for scholarships and entrance, were given under his supervision. He also developed the freshman counselling program.

In addition to administering the scholarship program, he has headed the Bureau of Self-Help, through whose facilities employment is provided for a considerable percentage of Ursinus men and women. During the time that National Youth Administration funds were granted for projects in colleges, administration of projects and grants was under the Registrar. At present Mr. Sheeder is Veterans’ Coordinator, acting as adviser to veterans seeking education under the G. I. Bill of Rights or the Rehabilitation Act.

He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa; Research Section of the International Council of Religious Education; Religious Education Association; National Association of Biblical Instructors; Fellowship of Reconciliation; Finance Committee of the Student Christian Movement of the Middle Atlantic Region; and secretary of the local chapter, American Association of University Professors. In 1929 he received the M.A. degree from the University of Pennsylvania. He has served for 12 years on the Collegeville Borough Council, the past five years as president, and was also president of the Collegeville-Trappe Water Works Committee for eight years.

Following ordination as a minister in 1926 at St. Paul’s Reformed Church, Lionville, Penna., he served that charge.

The Spring Term began on March 11 with the largest enrollment in the history of the College. There were 595 students to begin the term, 189 of whom were men and 406 of whom were women. There were 122 veterans enrolled at the beginning of the term, an increase of one hundred per cent over the Winter Term enrollment. Forty men students are housed in private homes in the community. The remaining resident men students are being accommodated in Curtis Hall.

Ten students completed their requirements for graduation at the end of the Winter Term. These students will receive their degrees at the Spring Commencement exercises. Their names and addresses follow:

M. Dustin Brooks, Trenton, N. J.
Mary C. Deisher, Philadelphia, Pa.

Mary Jane Malin, Phoenixville, Pa.
Betty Jane Miller, Hazleton, Pa.
Ethel V. Palmett, Roxboro, Phila.
Virginia K. Tovey, Spring City, Pa.
David D. Van Strien, Bayonne, N. J.

Ten new students were admitted in January. All of these were veterans. During the eight weeks remaining in the Winter Term these students were given special courses in history and in mathematics. Eighty-seven new students were admitted in March, 72 of whom were men and 15 of whom were women. Two of the women were Marines, and 56 of the men students were veterans from various branches of the service. Of the 56 male veterans admitted, 33 were former Ursinus students. Their names follow:

Ralph A. Ackerman, Green Lane, Pa.
Andrew A. Bain, Woodbury, N. J.

The second World War was a war in which 735 Ursinus men and women served and 35 gave their lives.

In the summarizing up, these are the cold, precise statistics. They were compiled on the basis of what was necessarily incomplete and unofficial information obtained by the Secretary-Treasurer of the Alumni Association. To keep this information up to date has been a very hard job, and quite probably the record is not accurate. The Journal will here note the figures available; doubtless they are not the whole story, but it is the best the Journal can do. Anyway, these figures, being cold and precise, could not, even if they were accurate to a decimal point, really tell you very much about Ursinus men and women in World War II.

But for the black and white of the public prints in this first year of peace (the United States, at any rate, is not at war), let it be set down that 735 Ursinus men and women served. This is a fairly large number.

In the Winter 1943 issue of the Journal there was listed the then-current roll of Ursinus men and women serving. The first class noted was '14. There probably were persons from classes prior to '14 who served in this war, but most came after '14. This means that the 735 men and women came from a span of about thirty-two classes— which means an average of twenty-three men and women from each class. It is a fairly large statistic, when you remember that it measures the contribution of a small liberal arts college to a struggle for the right to say how the world shall be run in the immediate future.

That thirty-five died or are reported missing in this struggle is an even larger statistic. To the families and friends of these thirty-five, it is a figure that means nothing, actually, because no such figure can possibly be any bigger than the figure 1. But to the rest of us who, aside from whatever sorrow there is in each of us—to the rest of us who are considering the figure 35 as part of the summarizing up, it is still a large statistic, because, if we translate it into another fairly precise figure, it represents roughly 4.75 per cent.

It means that of the 735 who served, 4.75 per cent died. If you are in the habit of studying the service flags of institutions, towns, corporations and other collective entities from which members have gone to war, you may have noticed that the gold-star figure is rarely more than 2 per cent of the white-star figure. The percentage for the entire country, as a matter of fact, is under 2 per cent.

For Ursinus, it is 4.75 per cent.

Of the 735 who served, a total of 463 were graduates of Ursinus and 272 were non-graduates. Most of these latter had no chance to be graduated. They were called first. More than half of those who died were "ex"-Ursinus—men who never had a chance to be graduated. The toll was heaviest in the classes of the war years.

Of the 735, the Army had 463 and the Navy 237. Twenty-five were women.

It is pleasant to record that of the 735 a total of 168 had been released from service as of February 19. Of course, by now the great majority of the 735 have been released—but it is still pleasant to include such a symbol as this statistic is.

Of the many who were decorated in the service, there is neither the space nor sufficiently complete information to furnish an inclusive report. Of the many who were wounded, the same is true. All data available to the Journal on these scores has already been provided to Journal readers in past issues.

Here is a table of how many served in the various branches of the service. It is quite possible that some branches are overweighted and others slighted, but the breakdown is believed to be reasonably accurate.

The residence facilities of the College are being utilized to capacity. Any further expansion in student enrollment must be limited to day students unless additional residence facilities are obtained. Advance enrollments for the Winter Term are well in excess of available accommodations so far as women students are concerned, and the number of men applicants—both veterans and civilians—is quite heavy. The Summer Term is scheduled to begin July 8 and will continue to the end of August. The Winter Term will begin on September 30.

NEWS FROM THE CAMPUS

A full program of extra-curricular activities was carried on during the Winter semester. A distinguished alumnus, Dr. Charles Grove Haines '27, was presented by the Forum Committee, as the first 1945-46 speaker. Dr. Haines, widely known author, lecturer and Professor of Diplomatic History at the Advanced School for International Studies, Washington, D. C., spoke on the challenging topic, "In Search of a Foreign Policy." The second forum was conducted by Dr. Emily Hickman, head of the History Department of the New Jersey College for Women. Prof. Hickman, who served as adviser to the Liaison Officer attached to the American delegation at the San Francisco Conference, spoke on "The Needs of the International World." Questions pertaining to the establishment of a Jewish homeland will be discussed at the final forum, April 10, by Dr. Philip K. Hitti of Princeton University, an expert on Palestinian affairs.

Christmas Season

Traditional festivities marked the Christmas season. Presentation of "The Messiah," the Candlelight Communion Service, Christmas banquets and dormitory parties were celebrated with old-time Ursinus spirit. Dr. Philip led a chorus of nearly 100 voices in the Music Department's annual production of Handel's thrilling Oratorio. Guest soloists included Mr. Steel Jamison, tenor; Miss Martha Wilson, soprano; Mr. Earl Styes, bass-baritone; and Miss Elizabeth Dunning, contralto. Dean Kline and Dr. Lentz, retiring College pastor, officiated at the Candlelight Communion. This beautiful service, which has become one of the most cherished campus traditions, helped emphasize the religious significance of Christmas. The feature of the Christmas banquets was the Junior Coeds' winning table decoration—a full scale model of the Ursinus campus.

The Christian organizations, as usual, maintained an active program. The annual "Y" weekend, January 19-20, was centered around the theme, "Will Christian Youth Lose the Peace?" Dr. Winburn Thomas, general secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement, made two major addresses. Smaller groups discussed the relation of Christian youth to the Church, to the College, to the race question, and to international affairs. On International Night, Dr. Kate Hansen, former missionary in Japan and a friend of Dr. Misao Nishiyama '19, conducted a program entitled, "Music in Japan." (Continued on page 7)

Athletic Policy Defined

On December 5, 1945 the Faculty of Ursinus College approved a definition of athletic policy presented by a committee of the Faculty of which Dr. J. W. Cloward was chairman. The plan was then submitted to a special committee of the Board of Directors and was finally approved by the Board of Directors on March 12, 1946. The plan provides that every Freshman must participate in the physical education program provided for Freshmen; that an extensive intra-mural program of competitive sports, in which participation is voluntary, is planned for all students; that the program of intercollegiate athletics is to be part of the general physical education program; that the Committee on Scholarships will apply the standards of administering scholarship grants and other forms of financial assistance to all students who prove worthy, without differentiation between those who participate in intercollegiate athletics and those who do not; that all coaches will be full-time members of the Faculty; that the College will engage in intercollegiate competition with institutions whose intercollegiate policy is in harmony with that of Ursinus; that the program of intercollegiate athletics will be controlled by a committee composed of members of the Board of Directors and of the Faculty.

At the end of the court season, the coeds will turn to softball and tennis competition.

In a closely contested match, the Ursinus coeds' swimming team captured the coveted title of champion in the Eastern Intercollegiate Girls' Swimming Championships held at the University of Pennsylvania's Hutchinson Pool early in March.

The Ursinus team won the 200-yard freestyle relay and the 75-yard medley relay to pile up points toward the winning 29 over New York University's 28. Doris Sprouse placed second in the 50-yard breaststroke competition with 36.7 seconds, and Marion Bosler came in third in the 50-yard freestyle with 31.5 seconds swimming time.

Other members of the winning freestyle team were Betty Walton and Pat Ellis.

URSIUS COLLEGE BULLETIN
The Secretary's Letter

Dear Fellow Alumni:

At the Fall meeting of the Executive Committee, the Secretary was instructed to apply for membership in the American Alumni Council, an association of the men and women in charge of alumni work in the colleges of the United States and Canada. This organization aims to benefit its members by interchange of ideas on alumni problems, and by the study of practises and policies of organized alumni work.

In addition to the annual national conferences, district meetings are held to enable more compact groups to discuss their problems. I attended the Annual Fall Conference of District 11, held December 5-7 in Absecon, N. J., at which meeting 75 members, representing 55 colleges, were in attendance. Some of the member colleges represented were Hood, F. & M., Cedar Crest, Muhlenberg, Haverford, Swarthmore, Princeton, University of Pennsylvania, Penn State, Rutgers, Columbia, and the University of Rochester.

The subject of the first discussion was Alumni Offices. Of the colleges represented there, Ursinus was the only one with no alumni office, no equipment other than a few files. All other colleges have at least one full-time secretary; many have assistants and clerks in addition to a field secretary and an executive secretary. Ursinus is the only college whose Alumni Association is entirely dependent on the dues paid by the active members. Alumni associations in other colleges receive some form of subsidy from the Board of Directors or Trustees of their institution but are permitted to function independent of the college administration.

With its limited budget, the Ursinus Alumni Association publishes the Journal, pays for the printing and mailing of all notices sent to the alumni, and each year allocates $100 to the Ursinus Library. During the war, the Executive Committee authorized that the Journal be sent to all Ursinus men and women in the armed forces, whether they had paid dues or not. In 1944, the Association sent a Christmas greeting to all alumni in service. Letters received from all parts of the world expressed appreciation and gratitude for that contact with the Alma Mater. No greeting was sent in December, 1945, because many of those in service had been discharged or were being transferred to other posts, so it was difficult to keep up-to-date with the addresses. This year the Committee voted $100 to be placed in a reserve fund to be added to from time to time and maintained as a protection for Life Memberships.

In spite of the handicaps and limitations imposed upon the organization, we have increased the membership until we have attained an all-high record. 45.2% of the alumni have paid dues for 1945-46; of the 2512 living graduates, 1137 are active members of the Association. We are proud of that record.

Sincerely yours,

Miriam Barnet Smith '14 Secretary

Ensminger '14, Receives Legion of Merit Medal

Colonel George R. Ensminger '14 has been awarded the Legion of Merit medal by the War Department for services performed during the war as Chief of the Standards Branch, Safety and Security Division, in the Chicago Office of the Chief of Ordnance. Upon activation of the Explosives Safety Branch in 1942, Ensminger, then Lieutenant Colonel, was ordered to interpret existing explosives standards and to develop new standards for many explosives and types of ammunition never before made available to combat forces. The distinguished performance rendered in the accomplishment of this mission is set forth in the citation:

"Because of his wide knowledge of explosives and ammunition and his rare ability to direct technical research, he organized a group and so competently guided their thinking and self-training that these men became recognized as foremost explosives safety engineers."

Colonel Ensminger's war record includes service in both wars. Prior to American entry into the first world war, he joined E. I. duPont deNemours Co. as a chemist and then in 1917 entered the Army as a private, emerging two years later as a First Lieutenant. He next became a research metallurgical chemist at Watertown Arsenal and then served another five years with the Army as an Ordnance officer. Since 1925 he was a research chemist with the duPont company until recalled to duty as a reserve officer. Col. Ensminger has contributed a number of articles on explosives to scientific journals.
Former Prof Invents Electronic Computer

Inventor Mauchly

More than a decade of research and experimentation by a former Ursinus professor of physics resulted in national attention being focused on Dr. John W. Mauchly last February when the metropolitan press and national news magazines featured the invention of ENIAC, acclaimed as the world's fastest computing machine. The letters of the name by which this latest development in the use of electronics is known stands for "electronic numerical integrator and computer." The inventors of this amazing mathematical mind, Dr. Mauchly and J. Presper Eckert, Jr., both staff members of the Moore School of Electrical Engineering at the University of Pennsylvania, were honored at a banquet in Houston Hall in February prior to a demonstration given before a group of the nation's leading scientists and mathematicians. Eniac was built by the two professors at the request of the War Department and was held under a cloak of military secrecy for several years.

From 1933, when Dr. Mauchly was appointed to the faculty at Ursinus, until 1941, when he resigned to accept a position at the Moore School, his frequent burning of midnight oil in the physics laboratory of the Science Building was observed by many students. It was during those years that his interest in both meteorology (especially weather prediction) and electronics led him to conclude that a high speed computing machine, utilizing the great speed and flexibility of control of electrons, might be built of electronic tubes which would do the massive computational work necessary to weather forecasting.

When the pressures incident to waging a world war finally created a great need for similar high speed computing in other fields, Dr. Mauchly was at last enabled to realize his ideas. After labors of 30 months and with the use of over 18,000 vacuum tubes, the two engineers assembled Eniac at a reported cost of $400,000. The original machine is the property of the Army and will be permanently installed at Aberdeen Proving Grounds. It has been estimated that a few additional models, with improvements, may be built for approximately $250,000.

Many problems of applied mathematics which have heretofore defied solution, not because methods of solution were unknown but because the labor involved was too prodigious, may be handled by Eniac with relative ease. For example, a typical problem might require a hundred years' work by a single computer for just one answer, while the scientist may have wanted as many as a hundred solutions. Increasing the number of computers beyond four would not have cut the time below 25 years since the results of one computer depends on the work of the others. Yet within the actual solutions of these types of problems there may have been no operation more complicated than addition, subtraction, multiplication and division. Eniac performs these operations at phenomenal speeds; addition of two 10-digit numbers in 1/5000 second or multiplication of the same numbers in 1/360 second. It is a thousand times faster than any other computer in existence—one week is a thousand times shorter than 19 years. Its weight is 30 tons and it occupies an entire room, ranging around three walls in a "U" shape.

Industrial, military and commercial applications of the machine are numerous. Active interest in acquiring or using the computer has been shown by electrical and electronic industries, aircraft companies, banking and insurance companies, and research and scientific personnel engaged in meteorology and ballistics studies.

In addition to constructing Eniac during the war, Dr. Mauchly also supervised the preparation of ballistics data for newly developed artillery weapons. Calculation of firing tables for each new weapon was a necessary prerequisite to the employment of new pieces on active battlefronts and was the stimulus which led the Ordnance Office to underwrite the building of Eniac. Engaged on this project with Dr. Mauchly were Ruth Heinly '37 and Joseph Chapline '42.

Ed. Note: For the technical information contained in this article we are indebted to Mr. Chapline, who is an assistant and graduate student in the Moore School of Electrical Engineering.

Control of Nuclear Energy

Dr. John W. DeWine '38

(See page 13 for biographical note)

At dawn of the morning of July 16 last summer, I stood on the desert in New Mexico and saw six miles away the explosion of the first atomic bomb. Two months before that time, I had seen the explosion of one hundred tons of TNT. It is difficult to compare them. In the one case, there was a bright flash followed by a cherry-red ball of fire which lasted a few seconds. I watched it with naked eyes. The sound from this blast was sharp and rather loud, but it wasn't disturbing. In the other case, the whole desert suddenly became brighter than the brightest midday. I could feel the radiant heat in the first instant of the explosion. The ball of fire had to be observed through the most dense welding goggles; otherwise it would have caused temporary blindness. For several minutes I could see the seething mass of radioactive gasses slowly rising into the stratosphere. Even though I had cotton in my ears, the sound was loud enough to cause some discomfort and for quite some time could be heard bouncing back from the distant mountains.

The first reaction of most scientists to the great explosion was one of elation. This final test was such a great extrapolation from the laboratory experiments upon which the design was based that it was truly a tremendous gamble. The fact that the explosion did take place in a manner so much like the prediction was a great triumph for the science of nuclear physics.

This general feeling of satisfaction continued until the reports came back from Hiroshima and Nagasaki. This new bomb, which had previously been regarded only as the successful end of a great scientific endeavor, then took on its real meaning, a deadly weapon against civilization. As a result of the nuclear reactions which took place in those lumps of metal, many thousands of people were instantly killed without the slightest chance of offering a defense. These two bombing raids set a pattern for any future wars.

We, as citizens of the country which today holds the most knowledge in the field of nuclear energy and its technology, have a grave responsibility. Our country must take the initiative in making the fruits of this new form of energy the property of the peoples of the world. To give the control of nuclear energy to a few chosen groups would automatically enslave the rest of humanity. This is

Wartime travel restrictions in 1945 caused the postponement of reunions by those classes which normally would have held five-year reunions. These classes, together with those whose anniversaries occur this year, will look forward to special observances on the campus during the 1946 Commencement Season. Special note is being made in these columns of all classes scheduled to hold reunions.

Mrs. Charles A. Wagner (Sarah Kulp), sole surviving member of her class, never misses Alumni Day. We look for her return on this 61st anniversary.

1886
Miss Eleanor B. Price is the only living member of this class. She will be celebrating the 60th anniversary of her graduation.

1890
The three remaining members of this class are expected to have 100% attendance in honor of their 55th reunion.

1891
This class numbers seven and will be expected to have full representation on Alumni Day.

1895
For this delayed golden anniversary only three members remain. They are Miss Evelyn M. Bechtel, the Rev. David Wehr (whose address we do not have), and the Rev. Calvin P. Wehr.

1896
Four alumni still represent this class whose 50th anniversary occurs this year. This should be a special occasion for all of them.

1900
We have had no recent news from any members of this class and look forward to hearing personally from a number of those graduates on Alumni Day.

1901
One member of '01 was last known to be living in Puerto Rico but others reside close enough to Collegeville to give their class representation.

1905
The several alumni of this class who frequently attend college functions should be able to combine efforts and have others return on June 29.

1906
Perhaps a member of this class will take the initiative to correspond with other alumni to make arrangements for the reunion.

1910
Members of this class have always maintained an active interest in the College and will undoubtedly have a large group here.

1911
A majority of the members of this class live within easy traveling distance of the campus so that a luncheon reunion would be ideal.

1912
Clara M. Deck, head of the History Department in the Reading High School, has been appointed a committee member of the Junior Town Meeting. The school, one of several in the United States invited to broadcast over a local station from the school auditorium, will present its daily morning broadcast over the Reading outlet between 9:30 and 10:05 a.m. Miss Deck is one of two faculty members selected to supervise these broadcasts. She has also been elected to membership in the Berks County Historical Society.

1915
Plans laid last year for the 50th anniversary can be realized this year with a far larger attendance in prospect. Elmer Kilmer, Ph.D., of the Psychology Department, Muhlenberg College, was married on February 24, 1915, to Miss Angeline A. Wetherhold, Allentown.

1916
Leaders of this class should be able to rally a high percentage of members for their reunion.

1918

Control of Nuclear Energy

centric to our democratic ideals and would not lead to a durable peace.

Since the war's end, scientists have spent a great deal of time discussing the problems which must be solved to obtain a satisfactory control of nuclear energy. Out of these discussions have come several minimum conditions which must be satisfied to insure a successful solution to the problem. These are as follows:

(1) All raw materials, significant amounts of fissionable elements, and processing plants must come under the ultimate control of an international organization. This condition has far-reaching consequences. It demands that individual nations surrender some of their cherished sovereignty to a higher power. But this is a small price to pay to save our cities from the fate of Hiroshima.

(2) Scientific information must be freely disseminated, and cooperation among scientists on an international level must be encouraged. This will enhance future developments in this new field, which will lead to many peacetime applications of benefit to our civilization.

(3) The materials and "know-how" for producing nuclear energy and applying it to other fields of study must be given to all nations. Economists have for a long time realized that the economic standards in one part of the world have a profound effect on the rest, but this fact has not been recognized in much of the international dealings in the past. The vast possibilities of nuclear energy make it imperative that greater efforts be made to elevate living standards throughout the world.

In order to fulfill these conditions, there must be a willingness among people to cooperate. But this spirit of cooperation does not exist today. Only when men have acquired the desire to face this problem in the spirit of international friendship will there be a durable solution.
