The Ursinus Weekly, February 27, 1975

Cynthia Fitzgerald
_Ursinus College_

Richard Whaley
_Ursinus College_

Kevin Gault
_Ursinus College_

Joseph Saraco
_Ursinus College_

George Geist
_Ursinus College_

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.ursinus.edu/weekly

Part of the Cultural History Commons, Higher Education Commons, Liberal Studies Commons, Social History Commons, and the United States History Commons

Click here to let us know how access to this document benefits you.

Recommended Citation

Fitzgerald, Cynthia; Whaley, Richard; Gault, Kevin; Saraco, Joseph; and Geist, George, "The Ursinus Weekly, February 27, 1975" (1975). Ursinus Weekly Newspaper. 31.
https://digitalcommons.ursinus.edu/weekly/31

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Newspapers at Digital Commons @ Ursinus College. It has been accepted for inclusion in Ursinus Weekly Newspaper by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ Ursinus College. For more information, please contact aprock@ursinus.edu.
Women's Open Dorms Suspended for Friday P.M.

This Friday, February 28, all women's dorms will be closed and open hours curtailed for an evening only as stated in Dean Harris' letter to the President of the U.S.C.G.
This letter was addressed to Women's Campus Council and President Petitt, and did not mention the closing of men's dorms.

This action was taken because of a potential spread of the recent regulations and civil law. Early Settlers Act, recently enacted by the Governor, states that no dormitory false alarm was set off in the women's quad which resulted in mass confusion. Several local fire companies were needlessly called out and a few spectators were bewildered exodus of women which was干线 sprinkled with Ursinus males. Worse yet, men and women remained in the dorm; the men were afraid to exit because they were in violation of visi-iting hours and several others did not dare to enter the dormitory.

Had this been an actual fire, the potential tragic incident would have brought any hasty slopping in the form of open dorm suspension.

Festival of Arts Includes
Music Crafts and Dance

Folk music, madrigals, chamber music, crafts and dance are the program of the seventh annual Festival of the Arts at Ursinus College.
The festival will be held on Saturday,
February 27, in Bomberger Auditorium.

The program is under the direction of Chairman Kirk Stennett, Professor of Political Science.

The program consisted of Rena tissian vocal and instrumenta-L selections.

The Institute of Pennsylvania Collelgy, directed by Mary Ann Baldil, will pre-tent a program of early Baroque music for lutes, recorders, viola da gamba, and guitar. This program will be in Bomberger Auditorium.

The Ursinus College Choirs will present several pieces by Bach, Haendel, Montet, Schumann and Rakozy in a concert and
p.m., March 3, in the College Union
lounge. Directed by Detq Howlett,
head of the Ursinus Music Department, the group will play a Bach prelude, Mendelssohn's Water "Music" selections and severi floral arrangements from the masters.

A folk concert featuring Lew
London & Sparky Rocker, Caro
Wells and the Brotie Brothers will be held at 2 p.m., Feb. 28, in Bomberger Auditorium. These folk artists also will participate in a folk workshop at p.m., Mar. 1, in Bomberger Adutorium.

A "bizarre bazaar" is scheduled for 10 a.m., Mar. 1, in Wimber Hall,
where the students and members of the community will display and
sell homemade items, including
fruits and baked goods to jewelry
and poster artwork.

THE 1975 ARTS ACADEMY SCHEDULE OF EVENTS
Thursday, Feb. 27 -The Pottstown Dance Co. - Modern Dance. 7-G:30 p.m.
Friday, Feb. 28, 6:05 p.m.-Film - "The Red Badge of Courage," Wickelel and Auditorium.
Saturday, Feb. 28 - 9:00 a.m.-Bazaar - plants, jewelry, posters, prints, and more artisles. Bomberger Auditorium. Sponsored by the classof 1975.
Saturday, Mar. 1, 10:00 a.m.-Bazaar - plants, jewelry, posters, prints, and more artisles. Bomberger Auditorium.
Saturday, 3:00 p.m.-Workshop with the folk artists. Bring instruments or just listen. Bomberger Auditorium.
Saturday, Mar. 2, 11:30 a.m.-Ursinus College Vocal and Instrumental Concert in Bomberger Auditorium.
March 10-13 -The Ursinus College Orchestra - familiar pieces by Bach, Handel, Mozart, Schumann and Rakozy in a concert and
p.m., March 3, in the College Union
lounge. Directed by Detq Howlett,
head of the Ursinus Music Department, the group will play a Bach prelude, Mendelssohn's Water "Music" selections and severi floral arrangements from the
masters.

A folk concert featuring Lew
London & Sparky Rocker, Caro
Wells and the Brotie Brothers will be held at 2 p.m., Feb. 28, in Bomberger Auditorium. These folk artists also will participate in a folk workshop at p.m., Mar. 1, in Bomberger Adutorium.

A "bizarre bazaar" is scheduled for
10 a.m., Mar. 1, in Wimber Hall,
where the students and members of
the community will display and
sell homemade items, including
fruits and baked goods to jewelry
and poster artwork.

Union Creates Hall's Half Acre

On Saturday, March 1st, Hall's Half Acre (that's Hall's Half) will be opened to the public and this event will feature the electrifying sound of BAZAAR, a 15-member band well-known in North Jersey and New York City, who will play in a lively and festive way.

Bazaar is organized as a cooperative union and is open to anyone who can bring a table to share in the fun.

The admission fee is one dollar for adults and children over 12, and 50 cents for children under 12.

The food is simple and delicious, with a variety of dishes to choose from, including hot dogs, hamburgers, fries, and cold drinks.

The music is provided by a talented group of musicians, including a singer who is known for her powerful vocals.

There will be plenty of space for dancing, and the atmosphere is relaxed and fun.

Come join us for a delicious meal and some great music!

Bloodmobile will visit U. C. Campus

The annual Red Cross Blood Donor Day will be here once again on Monday, March 3rd, between 12:30 and 5:30 at the Student Union. Come and give! As a reminder, both you and your immediate family members can now sign up to be blood donors, and if we can get 20 percent of the campus to donate everyone covered for one year! Also, being offered this year is a pair of '70 tickets to each event scheduled to be held on your time to possibly save something big! For more information, please contact Judy Butler or Craig Decena.
FOCUS:

"Nothing ventured, nothing gained," I thought. "But it means getting out of my comfort zone." This was the main idea behind my decision to sign up for professional scouting. I knew that it would be a challenging experience, but it was also the perfect opportunity for me to step outside of my box and try something new.

I'm starting from the ground up, really. I've always been interested in scouting, but I've never taken the leap to actually try it. This is my chance to learn about different aspects of the game, to improve my skills, and to make new friends.

There are certain requirements that I need to meet before I can start. First, I need to attend a training session. Then, I will be assigned to a team. It's important to me that I work hard and show improvement, so I'm confident that I can meet these requirements.

I'm excited to see what the future holds for me as a scout. I know that it won't be easy, but I'm ready for the challenge."
the Romans died out because their pipes were clogged with lead.
The Ursinus Bears saw two potential victory slips from their grasp, but they still managed to rise and grab a win. Excellent defense and two late-game field goals were the Bear’s advantage, but they’ll need to get good scoring from several players to win.

Montreal: Definitively the number one challenger to the Flyers. Guy Lafleur has become a genuine superstar, and the game’s most exciting forward. Ken Dryden has returned, but second-stringer “Bun-ny” Larque is out-playing him. Canadians are hockey’s best team, on paper. However, this does not guarantee a championship (as the Flyers proved with Boston last year). Dryden, who has been great in every playoff series he’s been in, will have to show that if the Stanley Cup is to return to Montreal.

Boston: One major problem—goal-tending. Gilles Gilbert, brilliant in the playoffs last season, has been injury prone this year; and, when playing, his game is shaky. Orr and Esposto are having superb years, but Gilbert has to play like last year if the Bruins are to win.

Buffalo: Sabres can skate and score better than most, but defense and goal-tending have really let them down. Unfortunately for Buf- falo, defense and checking count the most in the playoffs. No team has yet got the “win” by simply outscoring their opponent. Lack of playoff experience will hurt.

Chicago: Black Hawks have not played well all season. They have a solid, veteran club that should contend well to play off. The Hawks have the players to win, if they stay healthy and work hard and don’t just wing it. Otherwise, they have not done this year.

Los Angeles: Just the opposite of Buffalo. Excellent defense and goal-tending but don’t score much. Kings play a tight-checking, plug- gy style game which will be to their advantage, but they’ll need good scoring from several players to win.

The Ursinus Bears Can They Fly?

By JOE SARACO

It’s hard to believe, but in Philadelphia, the “city of losers,” this is the number one question on the minds of most comic fans. As de-defending Stanley Cup champions, the Broad Street Bullies must be considered the favorites to take the “Cup” again this year. However, they will be strongly challenged in several clubs. With the rise of Buffalo and Los Angeles into strong teams, more clubs than ever before have a legitimate chance to win it all. Here is a brief look at the threats to the Flyers’ challenge:

Boston: One major problem—goal-tending. Gilles Gilbert, brilliant in the playoffs last season, has been injury prone this year; and, when playing, his game is shaky. Orr and Esposto are having superb years, but Gilbert has to play like last year if the Bruins are to win.

Buffalo: Sabres can skate and score better than most, but defense and goal-tending have really let them down. Unfortunately for Buffalo, defense and checking count the most in the playoffs. No team has yet got the “win” by simply outscoring their opponent. Lack of playoff experience will hurt.

Chicago: Black Hawks have not played well all season. They have a solid, veteran club that should contend well to play off. The Hawks have the players to win, if they stay healthy and work hard and don’t just wing it. Otherwise, they have not done this year.

Los Angeles: Just the opposite of Buffalo. Excellent defense and goaltending but don’t score much. Kings play a tight-checking, pluggy style game which will be to their advantage, but they’ll need good scoring from several players to win.

Montreal: Definitively the number one challenger to the Flyers. Guy Lafleur has become a genuine superstar, and the game’s most exciting forward. Ken Dryden has returned, but second-stringer “Bunny” Larque is out-playing him. Canadians are hockey’s best team, on paper. However, this does not guarantee a championship (as the Flyers proved with Boston last year). Dryden, who has been great in every playoff series he’s been in, will have to show that if the Stanley Cup is to return to Montreal.

Boston: One major problem—goal-tending. Gilles Gilbert, brilliant in the playoffs last season, has been injury prone this year; and, when playing, his game is shaky. Orr and Esposto are having superb years, but Gilbert has to play like last year if the Bruins are to win.

Buffalo: Sabres can skate and score better than most, but defense and goal-tending have really let them down. Unfortunately for Buffalo, defense and checking count the most in the playoffs. No team has yet got the “win” by simply outscoring their opponent. Lack of playoff experience will hurt.

Chicago: Black Hawks have not played well all season. They have a solid, veteran club that should contend well to play off. The Hawks have the players to win, if they stay healthy and work hard and don’t just wing it. Otherwise, they have not done this year.

Los Angeles: Just the opposite of Buffalo. Excellent defense and goaltending but don’t score much. Kings play a tight-checking, plug-
gy style game which will be to their advantage, but they’ll need good scoring from several players to win.

Los Angeles: Just the opposite of Buffalo. Excellent defense and goaltending but don’t score much. Kings play a tight-checking, plug-
gy style game which will be to their advantage, but they’ll need good scoring from several players to win.

Montreal: Definitively the number one challenger to the Flyers. Guy Lafleur has become a genuine superstar, and the game’s most exciting forward. Ken Dryden has returned, but second-stringer “Bunny” Larque is out-playing him. Canadians are hockey’s best team, on paper. However, this does not guarantee a championship (as the Flyers proved with Boston last year). Dryden, who has been great in every playoff series he’s been in, will have to show that if the Stanley Cup is to return to Montreal.

Boston: One major problem—goal-tending. Gilles Gilbert, brilliant in the playoffs last season, has been injury prone this year; and, when playing, his game is shaky. Orr and Esposto are having superb years, but Gilbert has to play like last year if the Bruins are to win.

Buffalo: Sabres can skate and score better than most, but defense and goal-tending have really let them down. Unfortunately for Buffalo, defense and checking count the most in the playoffs. No team has yet got the “win” by simply outscoring their opponent. Lack of playoff experience will hurt.

Chicago: Black Hawks have not played well all season. They have a solid, veteran club that should contend well to play off. The Hawks have the players to win, if they stay healthy and work hard and don’t just wing it. Otherwise, they have not done this year.

Los Angeles: Just the opposite of Buffalo. Excellent defense and goaltending but don’t score much. Kings play a tight-checking, plug-
gy style game which will be to their advantage, but they’ll need good scoring from several players to win.

Montreal: Definitively the number one challenger to the Flyers. Guy Lafleur has become a genuine superstar, and the game’s most exciting forward. Ken Dryden has returned, but second-stringer “Bunny” Larque is out-playing him. Canadians are hockey’s best team, on paper. However, this does not guarantee a championship (as the Flyers proved with Boston last year). Dryden, who has been great in every playoff series he’s been in, will have to show that if the Stanley Cup is to return to Montreal.

Boston: One major problem—goal-tending. Gilles Gilbert, brilliant in the playoffs last season, has been injury prone this year; and, when playing, his game is shaky. Orr and Esposto are having superb years, but Gilbert has to play like last year if the Bruins are to win.

Buffalo: Sabres can skate and score better than most, but defense and goal-tending have really let them down. Unfortunately for Buffalo, defense and checking count the most in the playoffs. No team has yet got the “win” by simply outscoring their opponent. Lack of playoff experience will hurt.

Chicago: Black Hawks have not played well all season. They have a solid, veteran club that should contend well to play off. The Hawks have the players to win, if they stay healthy and work hard and don’t just wing it. Otherwise, they have not done this year.

Los Angeles: Just the opposite of Buffalo. Excellent defense and goaltending but don’t score much. Kings play a tight-checking, plug-
gy style game which will be to their advantage, but they’ll need good scoring from several players to win.

Montreal: Definitively the number one challenger to the Flyers. Guy Lafleur has become a genuine superstar, and the game’s most exciting forward. Ken Dryden has returned, but second-stringer “Bunny” Larque is out-playing him. Canadians are hockey’s best team, on paper. However, this does not guarantee a championship (as the Flyers proved with Boston last year). Dryden, who has been great in every playoff series he’s been in, will have to show that if the Stanley Cup is to return to Montreal.

Boston: One major problem—goal-tending. Gilles Gilbert, brilliant in the playoffs last season, has been injury prone this year; and, when playing, his game is shaky. Orr and Esposto are having superb years, but Gilbert has to play like last year if the Bruins are to win.

Buffalo: Sabres can skate and score better than most, but defense and goal-tending have really let them down. Unfortunately for Buffalo, defense and checking count the most in the playoffs. No team has yet got the “win” by simply outscoring their opponent. Lack of playoff experience will hurt.

Chicago: Black Hawks have not played well all season. They have a solid, veteran club that should contend well to play off. The Hawks have the players to win, if they stay healthy and work hard and don’t just wing it. Otherwise, they have not done this year.