April 24, 1909.

My dear Sir:

While appreciating your kind invitation to be present at the Second National Peace Congress to be held in Chicago May 3 - 5, next, I regret to reply that it will be impossible for me to have the honor of accepting.

Yours very faithfully,

A handwritten signature in brown ink, reading "Huntington Wilson". The signature is written in a cursive style with a large, prominent initial "H".

Royal L. Melendy, Esquire,
Secretary, National Peace Congress,
174 Adams Street,
Chicago, Illinois.
