Ursinus News In Brief

Career Seminar Held

On December 2, 1976 at 7:00 p.m. in the Faculty Dining Room, this semester's Alumni-Student Career Seminar was held. Approximately forty students, mostly underclassmen, turned out to hear ten Ursinus Alumni speak about their different professions. The favorite section with the students was the one dealing with Money and Banking featuring Mr. Walter Tompkins, class of 1971, and Marlon Derr Strange, class of 1972, as speakers. The event lasted until approximately 9:15 and was considered as a success by both Ms. Vaughn and Dr. Cogger. The Alumni Career Counseling Group plans to hold a similar event in the spring featuring similar topics of discussion.

Insurance Coverage Modified

Certain provisions of Ursinus' student insurance program were liberalized during the 1974-1975 and 1975-1976 school years by regulation of the Pennsylvania Insurance Department which may not have been clearly stated in the descriptive brochure given to students. For your information these changes involve: removal of the maximum time limitation during which loss of life, limb or eyesight must occur after the date of the accident (1975-1976 only); coverage of complications following an accident; and the enrollment of Student Faculty Administration Relations Committee; Robert Collins is president of the Class of 1978. The Weekly sincerely regrets any inconvenience caused by this error.

Correction

By CINDY SHELMIRE

SFARC (Student Faculty Administration Relations Committee) held its third meeting on Tuesday, November 30th. Attending were: Dr. Elliott W. Palmer, Mr. W. Arthur Switzer, Mr. Nelson M. Williams, Dr. Peter F. Small, Dr. John Pilgrim, Dr. Charles Sullivan, Dr. Martha Takats, Blanche Schueler, Mr. Harry B. Browne, Mr. Frederick King, Mr. Larry Dalaker, Mr. Bob Simon, Ms. Cave referred to determine. Ron Columbia, Ms. Mary Beth Kramer, Mr. Joe Pisano, Mr. George Geist, Ms. Stephanie Dost, Ms. Patty Walters, Mr. Steve Lange, Mr. Steven Schick, Mr. George Bankin and Ms. Cindy Shallman.

Mr. Williams, College business manager, was welcomed as the new administrative representative to SFARC, replacing Mr. Richter, Mr. Switzer became new secretary.

Steve Lange expressed a wish to amend the October 18 minutes, which minutes termed a remark of Lange's as an "allusion" when in fact a specific article and date had been given. Further, the point of his question was not to gain information about college policy but rather to reconcile conflicting administrative information. The minutes were amended accordingly.

Tuition Increase Discussed

Dr. Pilgrim, invited to participate in budget discussions, explained his role as observer on the board of directors meeting at which the 1977-78 budget was approved. He had no part in making or approving the budget, but only observed and asked questions. He explained that the administration's general policy was one of non-disclosure of financial information. However, he received a summary statement of revenues and expenses from Dr. Gourman, who referred to a law, which requires "private foundations" to put on public record financial information such as monies gained, expenses, attributable, contributors, etc. He expressed an intention to write to the Internal Revenue Service, if necessary, to make financial information available to all who ask, by law, entitled to it.

Dr. Takats questioned whether or not Ursinus is a private foundation; Temple University has been lighting for years for the same information with no breakthroughs.

Williams stated that Ursinus is not a private foundation, but that they will submit Form 990, the form to which Ringhan referred. He added that in his experience, when documents are on file at an IRS office, the office decides which parts of the document can be viewed by the public.

Bob Simon asked Mr. Pilgrim if he felt the budget was given "serious consideration" by the board or whether it was merely "rubber-stamped." Mr. Pilgrim replied that it was difficult to say, since he had never before been involved in the process. He also asked questions; his assumption was that they attended seriously. He asked Mr. Gourman if he felt the interaction to be between faculty, faculty, and the recent rise in costs, and an admitted lack of complete information, the increases in salaries and energy costs were small. Moreover, the increases have not kept up with the increase in cost of living. In fact, Switzer pointed out, faculty salaries are not in line with the national increase average.

George Geist named the problems concerning the increase. He cited, as a possible model for a solution, the actions of President Sample of Lebanon Valley College. He invited all the students, faculty, and administration to a meeting in which he explained the facts in regard to an increase. The students were impressed with his experience, when documents are on file at an IRS office, the office decides which parts of the document can be viewed by the public.

Ursinus held its third meeting on Tuesday, November 20th, the USGA held a dinner meeting with President Richter in the essential dining room. A relaxed and happy atmosphere characterized the meeting, which was briefly addressed the group and answering questions following the meeting.

President Richter spoke about twenty minutes, stating the overall plans for his administration. He gave excerpts from his November 3rd speech to the faculty and circulation of that speech to USGA members.

Emphasizing the key importance of communication, the president repeated the already demonstrated fact that his door is always open to students. He also indicated that he plans to continue participating in campus activities, such as club meetings, to keep in touch with students' feelings and opinions.

Mr. Davis, chairman of the history department, feels the plan is a very good one for some departments, but he will not use it in his department. Majors in the department always the opportunity to express their opinions. There are already four Student Assistants in the department, who are expected to communicate with other students. At History Department explained his role as observer at the staff's examinations and are discussed and debated. Because of the open participation, students should not be present.

Mr. Stueb, chairman of the Chemistry department, has no objections to such a plan, but does not think it can be followed by department of psychology is necessary. The National Chemical Society officers are student-elected, and they will participate in departmental decision-making. The department is small enough that students can always attend.

On Wednesday, December 1st, the USGA held an informal meeting in the academic program of the college, just allowing students to take part in departmental meetings. The program now in effect in the Biology Department is similar to this one. The USGA in particular would like to improve communication between students, faculty, and administration. USGA members have been addressed to the administration. Switzer replied that since the new program.

Dept. Chairmen React to SFARC Letter

By ANN WEBBAEZL

SFARC sent a letter dated October 26, 1976 to each department head of Ursinus College, requesting participation in a plan to "increase the development of formal student input into the academic program of the college," by allowing students to take part in departmental meetings. The program now in effect in the Biology Department is similar to this one. The USGA in particular would like to improve communication between students, faculty and administration.

Emphasizing the key importance of communication, the president repeated the already demonstrated fact that his door is always open to students. other than working as quickly as possible, had some problems. But I am certain that, after nineteen years of existence, the students and faculty ought not to "back our new president into a corner."

Next year the tuition will increase $300 and the room and board $100. In light of this fact, Lange profes­sionally hired by Rankin and Simon to the admin­istration asked for information explanations for both last year's and this year's increases. Dr. Rankin said that in some instances it might be impossible to say exactly what "that $400 went" yet it would be helpful to set up some mechanism so that answers may be gotten and the future about budget matters. Simon agreed to a letter requesting more in­formation on both increases, what they were, and then promptly and politely ignored, but will be an influential letter from the students.

The truth is that we are being prepared for the real world. There is no way that we can act come back every weekend. They report to us that "the world out there is very different from Ursinus. You are so pro­ected that you wouldn't believe it," to quote one reason. Just because you are not so should need it in your young adulthood. My parents are trying to transmit their years, and while I was traversing those very difficult years. However, they are not able to do so, and upon reaching 18, the legal age of adult responsibility in most states, it is expected that you and I begin to accept the ability to make decisions and to act accordingly that they had been doing for many years. About everything thing about it, my parents really would not be expected to do so. Therefore, if you were to try to be the responsible, responsible adult that my parents have guided me to be in my high school and college education, not because of it. We must work together as the Ursinus Student Body. We should be allowed a respected voice rather than to be the object of pejorative rebellious actions. I have been quite vocal about the lack of the administrative body. I have been quite vocal about the existence of the Econ­omics Department. A department, if accredited, gets a "C" automatically; such a rating is void of any implica­tion of scholarship students or significant numbers of courses above an average 4.0. I have been quite vocal about the incompetence of the staff, and about the policy of the department. I have been quite vocal about the incompetence of the staff, and about the policy of the department. I have been quite vocal about the incompetence of the staff, and about the policy of the department. I have been quite vocal about the incompetence of the staff, and about the policy of the department.

And I must join together to make changes come about. We must prove to the world, and in particular to the responsible young adults that they believe us to be, not the criminals that we are treated as here at Ursinus College. Of course we need guidance. This is the purpose of a liberal education. But I say, let the administration and faculty give us the chance to prove our sur­vival. Let the guiding hand be available should we ask for it, but do not allow any administrative group to try to decide what and how they will make decisions and to be responsible for them. And I say, let the Student Body gather together consistently to convince the administration of our beliefs. We are not planning to take over the school. We have the right. Give us a voice!

Let us be adults! And above all, not just realistic preparation for the future.

Sincerely,

CATHERINE J. SCHROEN

sensitive attitude is brought to this matter and students are dealt with at face value, the atmosphere can be improved and therefore, the need to have such an atmosphere is so important. We must join together to make decisions and to encourage a voice that will not be listened to.

Dean Harris, Dean Whatley and myself are welcome to have students participating in the process. However, there have been no formal faculty meetings, and therefore little or no occasion for student involvement. Dr. Pilgrim expressed his desire to cooperate, and is asking for cooperation to Larry Dalaker, S.P.A.R.C. chairman in which he stated his interest in the proposal. Dr. Pilgrim stressed that when the Economics department resumes formal meetings, not to have should be included in the proposal. He will try to find a way to get students involved in the decision.

Don Storey, chairman of the English department, also wrote a letter to the campus student body. He welcomed English departments wishes to cooperate with the proposal. He requested that the committee give him the plan at their staff meeting, and do intend to participate. Dr. Storey is making plans for all English majors after Christmas vaca­tion. The method used in the Biology department will be adopted by the English department (due to the department's size, etc.) but it will be helpful in increasing student involvement.

U.C. Runners Compete

November closed with cross country championships throughout the nation and the Philadelphia area definitely had its share. Meets of particular interest to Ursinus College were the Junior Middle Atlantic AAU Cross Country Championship and the Bicentennial Marathon. Joe Figurelli, Keith Kemper, Tom Isern, and Chris Duvally were entered under the Norristown Striders AAU Club to compete in these events.

The 10,000 meter championship run held at Belmont Plateau in Philadelphia on November 14, resulted in the Norristown Striders five man team crowning, placing second to the Nittany Valley AAU Track Club from Penn State. The three placing individuals from Ursinus were Joe Figurelli in 31:02, Keith Kemper in 35:52 and Tom Isern in 40:51.

Philadelphia's Bicentennial Marathon, 26 miles, 555 yards, was run on November 29. Anyone running the course under three hours may compete in the Boston Marathon. Joe Figurelli ran the course in 2 hours and forty minutes followed closely by teammate Keith Kemper in 2 hours and forty-seven minutes. Chris Duvally ran the course in three hours and eleven minutes.

In the team scoring, which was taken for the three running of each team, the Norristown Striders finished a very good third. Over 500 runners began the race.

Messiah Performed

By ANN WEIDEAUH

The thirty-ninth annual performance of Handel's "The Messiah" was presented in Bomberger Hall on Friday, December 19th. The Chorus contained almost 160 members, with over 40 alumni participating, making it one of the most exciting and spirit-filled performances ever.

Four distinguished soloists added to the splendor of the event. Paula Selbi, soprano, replaced Susan von Neidekenschlag who was ill, and her delicate and soothing voice thrilled the audience. Alto Shirley Gressman Metzger, a semi-professional and 1973 graduate of Ursinus, more than did justice to Handel's masterpiece, Dan Mareck, a tenor soloist renowned for his presentations with the Metropolitan Opera, gave an indescribable performance which left the audience deeply moved. His "Comfort Ye" was undoubtedly one of the evening's highlights. Another high-light was provided by David Catlowre, the bass soloist, whose rendition of "The Trumpet Shall Sound," with the accompanying trumpet blasts and drum rolls, resounded throughout the hall.

The overall effect of The Messiah was such a powerful one that the respect is that a second performance could not be held. The numerous performances of the opera, however, well, but the three-hour performance seemed to be over so quickly. Hopefully, next year the budget will allow for two performances of this traditional event.

The Ursinus basketball team began its season several weeks ago with a good shot Juniata College. After the Juniata game, disciplinary action was taken against six ball players. Three were dropped from the team and the other three were placed on suspension. Since then the three suspended players have returned to the team.

This year's squad is a very young and inexperienced team, the only two seniors on the team, one of which is Greg Thren, who also is the captain of the Ursinus squad. Yet, there is a great deal of young talent on this team and the players are finding out college basketball is a lot harder than high school. They aren't playing up to its potential. Yet, the tournament seems to be the only reason that they aren't playing up to its potential.

Whatever the reason that the players lack belief in themselves, it is obvious that they are not as good as many people think they are. The team seems to be less talented than some of the other teams they have played. Perhaps they are afraid of being taken out of the game. Coach Handwerk emphasizes taking a shot when you have it. The players are afraid to shoot because they realize if they take a shot and miss, the team might be pulled out of the game.

Another explanation may be the fact that the players are not as well prepared as they think they are. The team seems to be less prepared than some of the other teams they have played. Perhaps they are afraid of being taken out of the game. Coach Handwerk emphasizes taking a shot when you have it. The players are afraid to shoot because they realize if they take a shot and miss, the team might be pulled out of the game. A second performance of the report was scheduled for December 10th. It was felt that the report would be too controversial to be discussed in the forum.

By STEVE SCHIRK

The November 30th meeting of the Student Faculty Administration Relations Committee brought a discussion of the Gourman Report. This report dealt with the academic quality at 1700 U.S. Colleges. The findings of this report were somewhat shocking, as Ursinus received a rating of 350 out of a possible 800, which is only a C. For a better idea of what this means, several members of the administration presented their ideas.

Mr. W. Arthur Switzer, the director of financial aid, admitted that his initial reaction to the report was negative. Upon closer examination, he felt that it lacked credibility, as it appears amazing that one person can rate 1100 schools by himself, as Gourman and his associates did. Mr. Switzer feels that the report can be very useful: "It is necessary that we are doing a good job and that our students are getting their money's worth."

Mr. Harry Broadhead, head librarian, first discussed the report several years ago (it was completed in 1967). Admitting that he was skeptical at first, Broadhead feels that Gourman's findings are somewhat difficult to follow. He said that he also is suspicious of the validity of the report, but it is necessary to consider the other schools that were listed.

The business manager of Ursinus, Mr. Nelson Williams, noted that the findings of the report were not as shocking as they appeared. He pointed out that the report has been around for several years, and that it is possible that the report is not as valid as it appears.

The Gourman Report was created in response to a growing concern about the quality of education in American colleges and universities. The report was commissioned by the Ford Foundation and was led by Dr. Bernard Gourman, a renowned researcher in the field of higher education. The report was intended to provide a comprehensive evaluation of the quality of education at American colleges and universities. The Gourman Report was widely criticized for its methodology and for its conclusions, which were seen as overly critical of American higher education. The report was also criticized for its lack of objectivity and for its lack of transparency.

In the wake of the Gourman Report, many colleges and universities conducted their own internal reviews of their programs and policies. However, the Gourman Report remained a source of controversy and debate over the years.

Deb Weiller set a MAC record and a school record to lead Ursinus' women's swim team over Wilkes 71-23 on Saturday, Dec. 4 at Elliot Pool. The senior swimmer took the 100 yd. freestyle in 55.91 seconds for a conference record and the 50 yd. free in 25.09 seconds for a school mark. Shari Slavin set another Ursinus record with a 1:17.6 performance in the 100 yd. breaststroke race as the Bears won their second meet of the season without a loss.

Weiller and Slavin teamed with Amy Early and Cindy Markley for an opening victory in the 400 yd. medley relay. Markley and Early had victories in the 200 yd. freestyle and 200 yd. individual medley events respectively, sandwiched a round Weiller's 50 yd. free effort, to give Ursinus a 23-5 lead. Linda Manney lost the one meter diving competition by one point, but Markley (100 yd. fly), Weiller (100 yd. free), and Early (100 yd. back) were easily defeating University of Oregon. The Bears were coasting, 61-9. Slavin's record and Manney's triumph in the meet's second event provided the rest of Ursinus' points.

Keying the Bears' win was their consistent ability to place second as well as first in most events. In swimming, five points are awarded to a team for a first place finish, three for second, and one for third, though a team is given one point for entering if they don't finish in the top three. In the 100 yd. freestyle event, Ursinus started the team off with Gill, Scott Horenkes, and Bruce Miller (diving) also contributing to the win. Four days later, Dec. 8, it was a different story at West Chester. The Bears took 7-4 lead by winning the 400 yd. medley relay, but West Chester tied it at eight with first and second place finishes in the 200 yd. freestyle. Sieracchi's win in the 50 yd. freestyle put Ursinus outscoring ten other teams. The senior swam the 50 yd. freestyle, 1:18.0 to move into second place.

Swimmers Splash to Two Victories

Ursinus hosted the 32nd annual Intercollegiate Women's Swimming Championships on Saturday, Dec. 11. Rutgers dominated, setting five records and tying another, but the Bears were an easy second, improving ten other schools. The final scores: Rutgers, 550; Ursinus, 219: Glassboro, 154; Penn, 91; Bryn Mawr, 82; East Stroudsburg, 96; Temple, 85; Elizabethtown, 46; LaSalle, 43; Monmouth, 32; Immaculata, 31; Keen, 26.

Men's Team Splints Two Meets

The Ursinus men's swim team also defeated Wilkes 44-19. The 400 yd. medley relay team of Stu Skinner, Bud Laveli, John Lathrop, and Irv Gill got the Bears off to a good start with a win. One event later, Bob Sieracchi won the 50 yd. fly style, then Tom Slote took the 200 yd. individual medley to give Ursinus a 23-11 lead. Skinner won the 200 yd. breaststroke, Slote captured the 500 yd. free style, and John Lathrop took the 200 yd. fly. to round out the Ursinus victory. Seconds by Gill, Scott Horenkes, and Bruce Miller (diving) also contributed to the win. Four days later, Dec. 8, it was a different story at West Chester. The Bears took 7-4 lead by winning the 400 yd. medley relay, but West Chester tied it at eight with first and second place finishes in the 200 yd. freestyle. Sieracchi's win in the 50 yd. freestyle put Ursinus outscoring ten other teams. The senior swam the 50 yd. freestyle, 1:18.0 to move into second place.
