Rochester, New York.

My dear Gannett,

I received your kind letter of the 22nd of last March and I have been postponing writing you until I should have written something for the good of the cause that might possibly interest you; or until there might be some possibility of arranging to have the pleasure of seeing you again.

Now both seem possible. We motor a great deal, and I should go some distance to have a talk so enjoyable as the one I had with you in Florida. And I should be glad to take you on at golf again. I am writing a lot of short chapters designed for abook against the New Deal and in favor of sanity. I have a dozen of them done. Would you by any chance care to read them with a view to giving me your criticism and also to seeing whether they could be used in any of your publications or in the propaganda of the Committee? If so, I should be very glad to send them along.

Hoping very much to see you some where, some how, this summer I am, with kind regards,

Yours sincerely
