In a critical address today before the women's division of the Independent Order, Edward N. Eliot, a member of the executive committee, declared that the Industrial Labor Union is "the only hope of the working-man." In his address Mr. Eliot said, "The working-man, if he wants to save his children from a life of toil and poverty, will listen to the call of the Independent Order, for there is no other hope for him than that which the Industrial Labor Union offers."

In conclusion, I have no reason to believe that the views entertained by Mr. Eliot are not shared by the majority of the working-men of the country. The Independent Order is a true friend of the working-man, and its efforts to improve the condition of the working-men are to be commended.
