Hon. F. M. Huntington-Wilson
Woodbury, Conn.

My dear Mr. Huntington-Wilson:

I have just received a reprint of your article on "The Embargo and Neutrality Question", and I congratulate you in formulating your views on this important question.

Yesterday in conference with my friend, Maurice W. Sloan, Esq., who is my colleague as Vice-President of the Union League, he told me that he sat next to you at dinner recently, and that you were good enough to send a greeting to us which we cordially reciprocate.

I hope that all is well with you and yours, and Mrs. Edmonds would want to join with me in sincere regards to Mrs. Huntington-Wilson. If there is another World War, and the United States is involved, do you think that any of the old welfare workers will be ready to contribute their time and energy? I have had letters from several, but there is very much confusion in the public thought at the present time which will be helped by the clear statement of your point of view which you have made.

With sincere regards, I am

Yours faithfully,

Franklin S. Edmonds
