Fields Gets Ph.D.

Salmoneella food poisoning has been reported at five college areas including Lehigh, Muhlenberg, and Drexel.

The supplier of food for the five colleges is the M.W. Wood Co., which supplies food for Ursinus College.

The Lehigh University Newspaper Brown and White reported that an extensive investigation is underway to find the cause of the outbreak. The Brown and White continued that as a precautionary measure several cold meat and fish salads have been removed from the menu.

David Denis, a law office of Physical Facilities Howard Schultze is quoted. "The cost of energy has nearly doubled in the past few years, and the cost continues to rise, so it now is a major concern in our operating budget, despite reduced usage."

"Our analysis shows it is urgent for the entire campus to work on energy conservation. We have already cut down on our use of lights, and we have a systematic energy conservation program."

The college student activities committee (SAC) met to discuss a proposal for an increased number of open gym hours. The SAC also debated whether a fourth week at game was needed.

In a letter sent from the student faculty administration relations committee (SFARC), the proposal requested joint funding for expansion of gym hours by SAC and the Ursinus student government organization (USGA). The letter requested expanding the hours of open gym at the Heffelfrich Hall for students. And, to give more support to the SAC, to increase funds for the USGA.

Dr. Ronald Hess and Mrs. Annette Lucas, two faculty representatives to SAC, asked for the student government organization to help audit all those organizations.

New Gym Hours Proposed

Mr. Jim Sakell has become food service director at Ursinus College. His assistance to Dr. Ossie Davis.

Sakell has been planning some changes in the meals here. One of his ideas was the recent Chip and Dip Night. Later in the month, the students will have a Cruise Night, when the students will be able to see how crepes are made and then put on the toppings themselves. He also wants to have an unannounced third food selection, such as a sandwich, at least two or three times a week.

The kitchen isn't able to prepare a third choice every day.

Sakell has some ideas for changes that will probably not start until September, but these plans are still indefinite. He points out that he is just beginning as Food Service Director, so he feels that changes will have to occur gradually at first.

The thing that Sakell is most eager to stress is his desire for communication with the students. He hopes for more understanding between himself and them, and wants them to feel that they can come to him whenever they have complaints or comments about the food.

Communication is the greatest change he hopes for.

He mentioned that perhaps some people don't understand that French fries, for example can't taste the same when cooked in front of a thousand people as when a person cooks an individual order.

He says he's very glad to be here, and hopes to "give everything he has." He wants to give the students what they want, and that there are limited possibilities of course imposed by the budget.

Ursinus Appoints P.R. Director

Ted Kavanagh has been appointed director of press and public relations for Ursinus College. He will continue to work with area news media, and provide information of public interest about the college and its activities.

Kavanagh, a Collegeville resident, retired last month from a 22-year public relations career in the business sector.

As a state employee, the Ursinus staff was associated with the Philadelphia Saving Fund Society. Before that, he directed public relations services for clients of Weightman, Inc., a Philadelphia-based advertising agency.

Kavanagh began his PR career with the Curris Publishing Company, where he was New York manager of its news bureau, national manager of the education bureau, book division manager, and publicity director for Holiday Magazine.

His earlier journalism experience was as a reporter for the Newark (N.J.) Star Eagle, and as a Marist Star correspondent during World War II while on combat duty with the 15th Air Force in Africa and Italy.

He is a member of the Overseas Press Club and past president of the Philadelphia Public Relations Association.

Energy Conservation: The Choice Is Yours

by David Denis

In a January 11, 1978 release from the February 17 Office of Public Relations, Director of Physical Facilities Howard Schultze quotes. "The cost of energy has nearly doubled in the past few years, and the cost continues to rise, so it now is a major concern in our operating budget, despite reduced usage."

"Our analysis shows it is urgent for the entire campus to work on energy conservation. We have already cut down on our use of lights, and we have a systematic energy conservation program."

Of the nine rooms in Isenberg Hall, only two have storm windows. The heat is sucked directly outside and lost. Being a 20-year old structure, Isenberg has no insulation. Of the two third floor rooms, room 7 has no heat.

On a calm day, the heat emanating up from the second floor keeps the room at an acceptable temperature. At night or on a windy day the room suffers from severe want of heat. In addition, the heat loss through that room to the outside is fantastic.

Even though they now have storm windows, the women at South Hall find that the house is consistently too cold. The reason they have to force their hands, are forced to leave their window open all the time to bring the temperature down to a habitable level. (This same condition is known to exist ex- tensively in the Old Men's Dormi-

Room 2 has a hole in the roof, and it is reported that water is entering the room, providing the room with what amounts to an unsounded ceiling system. ANN Weiblee reports that Ray B. loses most of his heat through the uninstalled, (Continued on Page 3).

Union Answers Questions

Special to The Ursinus Weekly

Abbie Green
Chairman, Union Program Board

The threat of an Ursinus "student boycott" of the College Union Snack Stand last week may have been averted because of positive actions taken by the members of the Miley Detective Agency, the College's security force.

The union board met late Wednesday night and decided to take the following action:

1. Close the union store immediately until such time as the union board has learned more about the views of the students and the faculty about the union store.

2. Meet with the student liaison committee on campus to discuss the situation and to try to reach an understanding.

3. Hold a meeting with the administration of the college to discuss the problem and to try to find a solution that is acceptable to both sides.

4. Continue to monitor the situation and to be prepared to take further action if necessary.

In conclusion, the union board is determined to continue to work towards a positive and constructive relationship with the administration of the college, and to be fully committed to the betterment of the college community.
Puppets Perform

by Susan Wachtel

"You can fast asleep—just don't snore," said Miss Janelle Landis, the puppeteer from Japan. Thus began an evening of international fantasy. "Puppets pull you up to the grand old Muppets, but intense, nevertheless—there was a moment of 'disco' dancing and even a kissy scene which surely would have been scandalous in Japan." Miss Landis used many animal puppets in a display of dramatic and onomatopoetic talent. As things wound up, there was a singalong with "Twinkle, twinkle," known to Japanese children as "The ABCs."

A recurring theme throughout the performance, as stated by Squigly (or some similar character) was, "I am stupid because I have only a finger." This was a well thought-out, profound statement, and the question and answer period which followed certainly showed that this problem, the evening seemed intensely childish, and despite the Japanese accent it was very entertaining. Perhaps fifteen other people present would agree that it was appropriate for college level children.

College Bowl Held

by Patty Walters

Trivial buffs had a Field day at the College Bowl Demonstration held Friday at 12:00 in Wismer Auditorium. It ranged from "On what day in February would you be most likely to eat sausage?" (the name of the 2nd highest mountain in the world?) Ton-up questions were followed by bonus questions of 15, 20 and 30 points for the team that answered first. Dean Lloyd Jones was the host, joined by Dr. Cleon and Dr. David Phillips as judges.

Mark Mankowski's team (Lan Daly, Ben Shapiro, Lois Fleischer, Brian Kellor, Carol Fitzgerald) won 36 to 85. Ten points separated the second placed team with Dr. Cleon and Dr. David Phillips as judges.

The Governing Board of the Union is looking for student interest in the College Bowl. Even though interest is shown, teams will be formed next year. After inter-campus competition, winning teams will compete with Moravian, Albright, and other similar colleges in the area that are part of the program.

Crosswinds Come to Ursinus

by Ed Jane

Crosswinds, the versatile acoustic rock ensemble, performed at the Union Sunday, February 18th. The group, formerly known as "One Way," had been hardened the enthusiasm audience with a few gospel songs. Bouncing from songs as modern as Billy Joel to as ancient as Chuck Berry and before, the band "split the atom" group whaled on for three hours. For the first two mellow sets, the audience sipped sop-thick hot chocolate and lounged on the unheated back porch. The New Men's Dorm poses another problem. Cinder block, being a very porous construction material, allows the wind to pass through, offering little in the way of insulation. As a result, the exposed dorm rooms are colder than the interior rooms (one exterior room registered a temperature of 30 degrees). Ice and snow can be formed on the windows if it is not changed, and it is not unusual to see buckets of snow dumped on the lower windowsill to prevent them from freezing. The result is a cold dormitory and a damp window pane. As a result, the exposed dorm rooms are colder than the interior rooms (one exterior room registered a temperature of 30 degrees). In order to make the best possible use of the Placement Bureau, students are urged to register in the fall to the fullest for the year of desired employment. A folder is then compiled on each registrant which includes a resume and letters of reference. The Placement Office maintains the folder and sends out copies as requested by various corporations and schools. Presently, there are 104 seniors registered at the Placement Office. After the student has obtained employment, the office would like to be notified in order to update its records.

From these employment records, the Placement Office is able to predict trends of career and comments on the job market. Although Cogger stressed the fact that much depends on the individual, scientific and mathematics majors are finding employment opportunities. Science majors with business courses seem to have somewhat of an advantage over those who are not. It seems to be successful in placing teaching candidates of these students who want to teach, not included are the arts, married or attend graduate school, approximately 65 to 70 percent are placed.

Students are encouraged to visit the Placement Office themselves. The office maintains detailed information about the various services offered. The office is open from 8:30 — 12:00 noon and 1:00 - 4:00 P.M. Cogger will meet with the junior class on March 7 from 12:20 — 12:50 in Wismer Auditorium to discuss the placement procedure.

The Placement Bureau in Carson Hall offers several different sources of employment to faculty and students as well as to alumni and faculty members. Dr. Robert Cogger, the Placement Director, would like to bring to the students' attention exactly what resources and facilities are available for the students at the Placement Center.

A special service that is offered by the Placement Center is a database of current job openings. This is contained in a separate room at the Office. Files of material pertaining to District College, industries and governmental agencies are available for the students' use. A periodical center, a teaching education section, a small library of books and pamphlets, and information are also contained in this room. For those students considering graduate school, the office maintains a collection of applications and bulletins.

Another service offered is the Advising Service for the Placement Counseling Program which was started in 1973 as a joint venture of the Placement Office and Ursinus College industries that this is a unique opportunity for the students and that ours was one of the first to start such a program. There are now over 125 alumni from a wide variety of majors in this Counseling group. Through this plan, get-togethers are arranged for Ursinus students to meet to discuss placement policies and plans and possibly meet potential employers.

The Placement Office itself offers much in the way of employment counseling for the students. The office can provide information about business opportunities, summer jobs, civil service openings, opportunities and graduate fellowships and assistantships. Periodically throughout the school year, a variety of corporations and governmental agencies conduct recruitment at this campus.

Cogger strongly recommends that students make an appointment to go through job interview techniques. This collection includes cassette tapes, booklets and pamphlets. Every student should be available for a college placement annual, if he so desires.

Grapples Troubled

by Rick Morris

The Ursinus College Wrestling Team has recently been plagued by injuries and controversy, which has prevented them from getting on the winning track. The Grapplers were expected to turn over a new leaf this season, but their efforts to reach the top have been hampered by recurring personal problems.

The team lost to Drexel, which was a tough loss in itself, but the problems of Dale Irwin were compounded after the meet. Fred Shapiro, who had sidelined him for a while, thus leaving the team without the services of Cohen and Shapiro for a quick regular meet at Western Maryland. The Western Maryland meet fit right in with the rest of the season as far as future prospects are concerned.

The team arrived to find no meal prepared for them and they ended up eating at McDonald's from their personal funds.

Four Meet Streak

by Gretchen Devlin

With the help of Shari Slavin, "The Ursinus Bearacudas" should be "beat" cher. The Ursinus Women's Swimming Team has won their past four meets, making history for the first time in Ursinus. It is a triple win for the women's winners - Eric Rhea, Mike "Mool" Kazanajian and Rick Mosher. The win comes in a difficult season, and hopefully it will be the first of many.

The Bearacudas were successful in getting eleven places first of fifteen events. The first event of the evening was "By George" with the first place in the 200 Freestyle. Kris Hollstein won with a time of 1:50.0. In diving, Sue Kelley, Markley and S. Kelley won with a time of 4:02.14.

Another Bearacuda that is consistently benefiting the team effort are: Andrea Cimino, freestyle, and the 1 meter. Sam's freestyle, Debbie Gray in freestyle and breaststroke, Terri Stettner, in butterfly and freestyle, Sue Williams in freestyle, Kathy Cunningham in breaststroke, Michael Speck in freestyle, and Wendy Casebeer in breaststroke.

Victory for Women's B-Ball

The women's basketball team presently shoots a 2-4 record. The girls' victory over Salisbury State revealed the real talent that has been cloudy by the imperious competitors. The victory ended with a score of 41-34. High scorers were Laura Haag (25 points), Cindy Martin (13 points), and Lisa Colena; Juniors Laura Haag and Janet Litka; and Seniors Cindy Martin, Sally Starr and Carolyn Dabney. The Junior varsity record presently stands at 4-4.

Coach Karla Andre has turned a primarily young team into an aggressive squad. The team's confidence, built up from their recent victory over Salisbury. The squad applied a half court press that was not to be broken. High scorers for the game were Janet Litka (14 points), and Janet Litka in 15 points.

Next, the Carl Samuels also played a superb game. The J.V. team also beat Kutztown with a score of 34-20. The J.V. team is Coach Dabney who played a great game. Buggy and Eleanor Erhart, and Sonny Adams, are typical of their talented and hard-working team.

FINANCE

The Program Board has received a proposed budget which comes from the student union dues each year. This budget is used to plan and finance events. The Snack Bar last year made a $4,000 profit which becomes a part of student scholarships. The revenue from the game room is is divided in half between the Miller & Mohler Company, owner of the pool, and the student-employee.

SNACK BAR

Due to recent controversy over the game room, many questions were raised about the management and revenue of the business. The changes have taken place such as the addition of new items like "Morning Muffin," three drink sizes to include root beer, pop or many flavors, and a daily special. The snack bar has taken on the task of food service and apparently the old problems are resolved. Mr. George Fisher has been working very closely with the Bearacudas and with the University to maintain prices at the levels. He is open to suggestions and expects the bar to be successful.

The whole idea has caught on at McDonald's from their personal funds, and they are reaping the benefits of their hard work and commitment to the university.

Pam Miller owns the snack bar, and has contributed to the game room which has been made up of fourteen students, four officers and ten committee chairs. Pam Miller is the president, and Schuyler Fegley, for program development. Being students themselves, they perceive the desires of their peers concerning campus activities, and try to satisfy these needs as they can.

The leader of the Union include: Allen Green as Chairman of the Program Board, P. W. Stover as Vice-Chairman, and Robert Verdin as Treasurer.

The Union

Later, Ursinus students are still pursuing, and striving towards an education that adds to their past. The union leaders continuously work hard organizing and providing the welcoming adult college. What many students do not realize are the hours of preparation, the labor involved, the commitment that is needed to add receptivity to student ideas for future events. We hope for involvement of every member, no matter what level of commitment. It seems that more and more students are showing an interest in being a part of student organizations. The College Union is under the direction of the Program Board, which consists of a diverse representation of the college. Voting members include the students, faculty, and administrators. The Student Senator, Mr. Nelson Williams, Business Manager of the College, is the student representative, and Dr. Donald Helferich, the faculty representative. Dr. Peter Small, the acting president, is the student advisor. Mr. Karen Loux, Mr. Fred Kie from the mainenance department, Dean Ruth Harris, Director of Student Activities and four members from the Union Program Board, Amie Green, Mr. Steve Trumbower, Mr. Steve Benton, and Ms. Pam Martin, who is also the recording secretary.

These include: Dean Leslie March, Director of the Union, and Mr. Charles Martin, Director of the Monmouth Union Director for Program Development. The Governing Board reports on the increases and additions to the Union, the purchasing of equipment, the scheduling of meetings, and the approval of the annual budget by the faculty. It has been made up of fourteen students, four officers and ten committee chairs.

The House and Arts and Conference Committee led by Ms. Carolam Franklin discusses the Ballroom, the concert dance concerts of different groups and music, the Colloquium Committee led by Ms. Karen Zanger, which offers small groups or individuals who perform more along the folk or ethnic lines and special events with Benton as chairman who covers the annual evening events such as the Concert Breaker, Casino Night, road rallies, game room tournaments, and Superstars Week. There is also a House Services Committee chaired by Mr. Karen Reber who finds educational but interesting lectures and performances such as the caricaturist, yoga, dancing, self-defense, and a Movie Committee, Mr. Greg Martin, who looks after the Film Board.
