There is a tide in the affairs of men, which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune; omitted, all the voyage of their life is bound in shallows and in miseries. On such a full sea are we now afloat, and we must take the current when it serves, or loose our ventures.

Forget what life used to be, you are what you choose to be. It's whatever it is to you that you see that life will become. Whatever it is you might think you have, you have nothing to lose. Through ever dead and living thing, time turns like a fuse. And the fuse is burning.

Do not pray for an easy life:
Pray to be a strong person.
Don't walk before me, I may not follow. Don't walk behind me, I may not lead. Just walk beside me and be my friend.

I expect to pass through this world but once. Any good thing, therefore that I can do or any kindness I can show to any fellow human being let me do it now. Let me not defer nor neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again.

Well, there's a wide wide world of noble causes and lovely landscapes to discover.

After four long years of endless classes, meaningless assignments, horrid term papers, and all night cramming, it is time to leave. But it seems like only a few days ago we went through freshman orientation and our first college exam. Since then we've found that “college is fun” and there's more to education than classrooms and books — there were the parties, General Hospital Hour, road trips, basketball games and the P & I. We've gone through 2 presidents (a peanut farmer and an actor), 3 popes, Abscam, the Iranian crisis, the first space shuttle, and the restoration of Bomberger tower. But through it all, we still have single sex dorms, separate Christmas dinners, the infamous tree and visitation hours! Did you know that the motto of the school is “out of the darkness, through the bloodshed, and into the light”?! Where are we? P.S. For those who neglected to express their appreciation, we will correct the oversight — “Thanks Mom & Dad”!
