Frats Select Queens, Ursinus Graduate Awarded
For 1972 Homecoming Nobel Prize For Medicine

By GARY GRIFFITH

This year's Homecoming Day for the first time in the history of Ursinus College will be combined with Founders Day Convocation. The occasion marks the completion of the new $3.9 million dollar health and physical education complex.

The building is dedicated in honor of Dr. O.M. Helfert, Chancelor of Ursinus College, and the Founders' Day Convocation and the Nobel Prize ceremomies will be held at 11:30 a.m. on October 21 at Helfert Hall. The keynote speaker for the dedication will be United States Senator George L. Murphy who is currently President of the Football Hall of Fame.

At 2:15 p.m. the Ursinus football team will confront Swarthmore. The current record for the Bears is 3-0-1 and a defeat of Swarthmore time ceremonies will highlight the Ursinus Band and the crowning of the Homecoming Queen.

The traditional Homecoming Day reception after the game will take place in Helfert Hall. At this time refreshments and beverages will be open for inspection.

In the main part of Helfert Hall, the Banquet Hall, the Annual Players' Festival will be held. The entire floor of the Banquet Hall is carpeted and made comfortable by seating on risers. The room is air conditioned and furnished.

To the right of the main door to the Banquet Hall, the music for the evening will be provided by the Ursinus College Union Band.

To the left of the main door to the Banquet Hall, the art show is being held.

To the back of the Banquet Hall, the Athletic Hall of Fame will be unveiled.

The Athletic Hall of Fame will be open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

After the formal dinner, the dormitories and student organizations will have open house.

Elliott Pool Makes Splash For Ursinus Community

By GEOFFREY HIGGINS

The Elliott Pool has been open for just more than two weeks, and the friendly guard report that the pool is being well used. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday the pool is open from 2:00 P.M. to 7:00 P.M. for swimming. Students Tuesday and Thursday are open from 10:00 A.M. to 2:00 P.M. for the staff.

Mr. Randy Davison, who operates the pool, has many plans for Ursinus' aquatic area. This semester he would like to begin a swimming program on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. The program, Water Safety Instructor (W.S.I) for the city will be offered the second semester. Both these programs are vital if one is interested in the summer for qualified Life Savers and W.S.I. are accepted to any swimming pool.

Another innovation Mr. Davi-son plans is a Men's Swimming Club. Mr. Davison will meet with all those men who would like to be the benefactors of a Men's Swimming Team. Mr. Davison commented that he has observed many fine swimmers who show great potential as members of the Club. The Club will begin with an open meeting on October 30th with a team meeting.

Mr. Davison is an enthusiastic individual who feels a commitment towards total college community involvement in the pool program. His major statement is that the pool must follow all the rules prescribed for the health and safety of the students. The guards are there for emergency services. They are qualified individuals who should be respected while they are on duty.

Mr. Davison is confident that the pool will contribute to a fuller life at Ursinus. If anyone would like to speak with Mr. Davison, he is located in Helfert Hall. He runs his office on an "open door policy" basis. So anyone at any time, may see Mr. Davison.
To this day, those of us with parents who went here have never figured out where those parents went to classes when our campus more than twenty years ago, because most of the school has been built since they graduated. This particular writer first glimpsed Ursinus from a low vantage point in the back seat of a car in about nineteen-fifty-seven when he saw rock being dumped into Beardwood Halls, the gym built in the nineteen-fifties, the Alumni Memorial Library is currently being transformed in size, on the East coast. And still more is being built. The entire campus will have been constructed or re-constructed in less than fifteen years. Furthermore, most of us could not now place where as would it is now-a college with facilities matching or bettering any school with a not terribly well developed campus, and not as if ammos points in the 1990s from a low vantage point in the back seat of a car in about nineteen-fifty-seven when he saw rock being dumped into Beardwood Halls, the gym built in the nineteen-fifties, the Alumni Memorial Library is currently being transformed in size, on the East coast. Difficult to Grasp

This phenomenal growth is at the same time both easy and difficult to grasp. As soon as one becomes accustomed to using a new building, remembering how things were before the fly-up is difficult. Much as we hate to admit the fact, most of us could not now place where as would be Freshmen we were interviewed by the Admissions office; for we have adjusted to all the new buildings effortlessly and forgotten the past. Yet, when we visualize Ursinus we still catch up with reality.

But Remember

But buildings alone do not make a college; it is as the word indicates, a group of people. One thing at Ursinus which seems to have changed is the academic reputation of its students and graduates which, as shown by the lead story of this issue, seems to remain fairly high. Another unchanging aspect of the school is the dedication of its Board of Directors, Administration, Faculty, and Alumni.

And so upon the occasion of this Founder’s Day—Dedication—Homecoming Day, The Weekly speaking for all Ursinus students would like those concerned, and they all know who they are, to appreciate their efforts; and even if at most points in the past they seem to have heard more complaining than appreciation (and no doubt will continue to in the future), to realize that at least once we stopped to say thank you. Thank you.

FIDLER ON THE WAX

Foghat

By JOHN FIDLER

The summer of ’72, the greatest summer of my life (or so I was told on WFIL, while driving the car past some great releases in the world of pop music). The Stones’ “Bitch” set the beat best of all, “Exile on Main Street,” was an instant success, as was their unprecedented tour, and Rod Stewart came up with another smash in “Never a Dull Moment.” But this was also the summer of the new band. Not the new band that had been spinning and sliding, lurching fuzz tone guitars, but the new band with new players, big names in their own right, splitting from their original bands and striking out, I think, all on their own. Some of the bands which have formed over the summer are Ramatou, with the late Jimi Hendrix’s drummer Mitch Mitchell and former Iron Butterfly Mike Pinera. The Philo-Reeves Leach and Edie, with former Turtle Mark Volman and Howard Kaylan, and Mothers’ players Apology Dunbar, Jim Pons and Don Preston; and Frank Tupelo’s Camel, led by that old friend, himself Frank Tupelo. Still another new band is Foghat, a dramatic set of the 1969 version of Savoy Brown, definitely the best Savoy Brown put together in their years of personnel changes. Kim Simmonds is the only original member. The band has still remained the same, and he has seen more changes in the band than any other group in pop music.

So during the summer the other 75% of Savoy Brown, has emerged, and what an emergence it has been. Currently the group is touring the country with John Mayall and Band, performing as an encore show. Their first album is a real deal: two vocalists, one singer and guitarist for Savoy Brown, repeats those duties with Foghat, the band. And he has written six of the nine songs on the album. Rod Price, the only one not an alumnus of Savoy Brown, but still manages to click in perfectly with the band, softly strokes the rhythm. Call it P.~r. rian, Eagleville; Phoeni·xville, told on WFIL while driving the lead and slide riffs. The other two players, Tony Stevens (bass) and Roger Earl, (drums) complete the total sound that was Savoy Brown’s and is Foghat’s.

The material on the album is a perfect mixture of old standards and new material, and each side of the album contains a possible single release. Perhaps the only mistake on the album is a new track of the “Moonlight Mile” from 1971 since it was recorded with sustained string sections that build to beautiful finals. Throughout the album, the slower tempo and shorter length don’t quite make it, particularly if you come to appreciate the original. The choice for a single on side one is “Sarah Lee,” the only song on the album that approaches a ballad. The lyrics are typical ‘rock’ n roll stuff, talking about the melancholy aspects of lost love. It’s somewhat true, but the melody really saves this song.

The singles were to be selected from side two, it would be “Gotta Get to Know You,” a smooth blending of rock, rhythm and blues, guitar and electric piano. The title track, also from side two, is “Moonlight Mile” from 1971 since it was recorded with sustained string sections that build to beautiful finals. Throughout the album, the slower tempo and shorter length don’t quite make it, particularly if you come to appreciate the original. Butterflies Are Free

In Review

By NANCY FRYE

Today's movies are full of violence, a lot of sex. It's really getting to be monotonous, because even the movie advertisements in the TV Guide are full of violence, and when I saw the advertisement for "Butterflies Are Free" in the TV Guide, I thought it was nothing but sex and violence. Well, I thought it was true, but it was not true. It is a nice movie.

"Butterflies Are Free," directed by Milton Katselas, is the story of Dolores, played by Audrey Hepburn, and Dickie, played by James Fixx. Dolores is a free-spirited, hard-nosing woman running an elite San Francisco brothel. She is a she-pawn, who, according to one critic, is putting a new spin on the Donnie and Dickie story. Dickie is a naive and simple-minded young man and the two of them are brought together through the management of a tangled love story. It is a story about love, but it is also a story about the problem of finding love in a society that is so full of hate and violence.

"Butterflies Are Free" is not a simple story, but it has a lot to offer. It makes you think and feel. It is more than just a story about love. It is about the struggle to find love in a world that is full of violence and hate.

We are all searching for love, but we are also searching for something more. It is a story about the struggle to find meaning in our lives.

"Butterflies Are Free" is a movie that will make you think and feel. It is a movie that will make you want to be more than just a pawn in a world that is full of hate and violence.

Harriers Roll Over Kings And Scranton; Big Tests Still Ahead

By VEETS

The U.C. Harrier machine just keeps rolling. Last Wednesday, October 14, Coach Ray Garzynski’s Harriers faced Scranton and took care of a double dual meet held at Kirk Park in Kingston, not far away from the Kings College campus in Wilkes-Barre. The scores speak for themselves: Ursinus 18 - Kings 41; Ursinus 15 - Scranton 50; Kings 18 - Scranton 8. Thus the Ursinus men now lead the conference with 7 wins against only one loss.

Ursinus Soccer: Fans Love It?

By RICK HART

At noon on Saturday this reporter was walking past the stadium to get in position for the football field. Already preparations were being made for the annual U.C. versus Penn State Mont Alto soccer extravaganza. It was Homecoming Day. Banners of color were draped on the stadium, and on the field, decorations were in place. A feeling of excitement was in the air, as crowds of students walked across the field. Student tailgaters were cooking up the usual autumn fare. The game of viewing of sports events was over for the day. The reader may ask, “How could this be the main attraction has not yet begun.”

As I approached the concession stand on the first team at the end of the stadium I met Mr. Everett Bailey, Director of Athletics, Ursinus College.

Mr. Bailey, Mr. Ursinus, said, “It’s going to be a very tough game. As always, it will be an unattractive match the day, the Ursinus vs. Muhlenberg soccer game.”

“Tough Schedule Ahead”

Looking ahead the Harriers face their toughest opponent of the season (November 20). According to the conference schedule, there are only two losses suffered by the Bearcats. This means that Ursinus will have to beat them twice to win the conference. Thus, the Harriers will have to win their next four games to remain in the running for the conference title.

Ursinus (1-0-0) begins their quest to win the conference title against Swarthmore (2-0-0) on Wednesday, October 21. The first challenge comes in the form of Franklin and Marshall (2-0-0) on Saturday, October 24. The Harriers need to win these games to keep their hopes alive for a conference title.

The Harriers have played well in their first two games of the season, but they need to step up their game against the Bearcats.
