Thoughts of a Senior

It is with a sense of joy and yet a feeling of sorrow that we look back upon our class history- a sense of joy because of the golden hours we have spent together as a class, of friendships we have made and fostered, of victories we have gained in class and sport- a feeling of sorrow because we realize that all this will be no more, we soon must give place to those who shall follow us and we will be swallowed up in the activities of the big, big world.

Nachos from Sev's...they can only be appreciated by a true gourmet.

Eleanor hurries to her next class.

Andy Franz (right) and his gang.
Yvette watch out, Jon knows how to dip!

Let's go fly a kite.

“All I really don't know these people!”

Allison and Sue...all dressed up and stuck in Reimert.

Khalil and Michele smile for the camera.
AJ...you can dress him up, but you can't take him out.

Paul and Andy say cheese!
“Yea, I'm SURE this is my last semester.”

Becky is hard at work again!

Right: It’s good to have friends to lean on in times like this.
Brian can always find new and different ways to pass out.

Standing in line at Wismer is our favorite time killer.
