June 11, 1909.

My dear Mr. O'Brien:

It gives me much pleasure to present to you my old friend, Dr. Clay MacCauley, a Unitarian clergyman who was for a great many years identified with educational work in Japan, and who during my first years in Tokyo was among our staunchest American friends. I am sure you will enjoy knowing him both personally and on account of his extraordinary knowledge of Japan.

With many regards, I remain, my dear Mr. O'Brien,

Very sincerely yours,

Walter Dill Scott

The Honorable Thomas J. O'Brien

American Ambassador,

Tokyo, Japan.
