"I got involved in various clubs on campus because college is a two way street. In order to get as much out of your experience here as you can, you have to put a lot of yourself into it. Being involved has helped me feel more connected to the campus and has made my college experience that much more enjoyable."

"Clubs and organizations are the two cornerstones of campus life at Ursinus. Every student comes to school with different backgrounds, interests, and experiences. But it's the clubs and organizations that bring us together. They unite us. They help to develop our skills. And they bring out the absolute best we have to offer."

"The English Honors Society, Sigma Tau Delta, has given our group an overall sense of community both socially and intellectually. Our events have given me the opportunity to spend time with fellow English majors and the English department faculty, allowing me to develop strong bonds with the people at Ursinus who share my interests and goals."
