Personal.

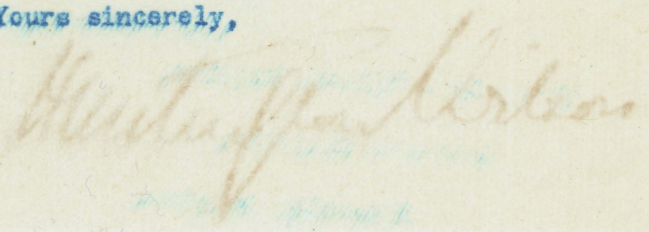

June 22, 1909.

My dear Mr. Norton:

It is most kind of you to have taken the trouble to interest yourself so effectively in the case of Mrs. Stevens, of whom I spoke a few weeks ago. What you have done is exactly the sort of measure I had hoped for. As I explained the other day, I should be the last person to desire any unmerited promotion, just as I should be the first to desire that one in Mrs. Stevens's circumstances should have precisely an entirely fair and impartial opportunity. This I now know she is getting and I am very grateful to you for your extreme kindness in the matter.

With many kind regards, I remain, always,

Yours sincerely,

The Honorable Charles D. Norton,
Assistant Secretary of the Treasury,
Washington, D.C.
