Dr. Helen T. Garrett Dies

On Sunday evening, April 22, Dr. Helen T. Garrett, professor of French, died. She had been ill for some time.

Dr. Garrett, who studied extensively in France and travelled widely, had published several articles on language and literature, and had been active in French studies in the United States.

An area resident, Dr. Garrett expressed sincere sympathy to the family and friends of Dr. Garrett.

Dr. Helen T. Garrett

We feel sure that her students will long remember and appreciate her knowledge of the French language and culture.

UC Students Experience Teaching

An experiment in practice teaching involving 15 Ursinus College students in their junior and sophomore years has met with favor from administrators of three area high schools where the college students have been placed two days a week for the past two months.

According to Dr. Herman W. Wood, professor of education at Ursinus, this is the first time that Ursinus students are involved in high school classroom work before their normal practical teaching assignments during their senior year.

The new policy was introduced, Dr. Wood said, to expose prospective education majors to teaching at a time when they can derive the most benefit from the remainder of their college courses in education and in the subjects they will teach.

Schools participating are Central Junior High School, Pottstown, Alfred T. Schranda, principal; Perkinsville Valley Senior High School, Lester Eckman, principal; and Perkasie Valley Junior High School, Edward Mikolaitis, principal.

Students are assigned to follow:

Central Junior High School, Pottstown: Roger Blind, West Orange, psychology; Duke Wissler, social studies; Mark Grin, Glad, science, junior—social studies; Edward Wallace, 7th Grade, principal; James Castor, mathematics.

Perkinsville Valley Senior High School, Perkasie: William Hallman, biology; Thomas King, history, junior—social studies; Amos Walson, first-year teacher, social studies; Edward Raney, principal; Robert King, mathematics; James Wallace, social studies.

Perkasie Valley Junior High School, Perkasie: Donald G. King, history, junior—social studies; James King, first-year teacher, social studies; James Walsh, principal; Robert Walling, mathematics; John Johnson, mathematics; David King, social studies.

The College is grateful for past corporate support and hopes for a generous response to this important new program.
FOCUS: Jane Siegel

BY RICHARD BUDENSTEIN

"You've been transferring out of here ever since the first semester of my studies because it was the only chance for me to escape the school. If I can be considered an idiot, it was my fault. I've been involved in political activities, and I've never had time for studying."

Jane is graduating this year as an economics major and undertaking Villanova Law School in the fall. She doesn't believe in my country's foreign policy, which is why she wants to leave.

Jane said that her parents are disappointed with her decision. They had hoped that she would continue her college education and become a lawyer. But Jane is determined to follow her own path, even if it means leaving the country.

"I want to go to law school because I believe in social justice. I want to make a difference, not just for myself, but for others."

Jane's decision to leave the country has been met with mixed reactions. Some of her friends support her, while others are concerned about her safety.

"I understand why she wants to leave, but I'm worried about her safety. She's young and naive, and I don't want anything to happen to her."

Jane's parents are also worried about her decision. They have tried to convince her to stay, but she is determined to follow her own path.

"I know that my parents are worried, but I can't change my mind. I want to make a difference, and I think law school is the best way to do that."

Jane's story is not unique. Many students are making similar decisions, choosing to leave their country to pursue their own goals and beliefs.

"I think it's important for students to have the freedom to make their own decisions. They should be allowed to pursue their dreams, even if it means leaving their country."

Jane's decision to leave the country is a testament to the power of education and the importance of following one's passion. She is determined to make a difference, and she will not let anything stand in her way.
GUEST COLUMN:

Dr. Allan Rice On War and Peace

By Dr. ALLAN RICE

The Usina Weekly

Columns are read with heartening earnestness and serious discussion. A large proportion of our students collected and engaged me in fruitful discussion for an hour and a half and showed what I felt were unusually mature attitudes for college freshmen. It was a revealing experience. I must say that I was surprised to find out that we have, indeed, a small campus. The whole experience was very favorable results.

A qualified person in this position can obtain through the Potts Point Mental Health Clinic.

The cost of implementing the program will need to be collected by adding an amount to the student's tuition.

This, however, is only one suggestion. We must objectively present the facts, and I think that the student body, the faculty, and parents will have decided that the beginning of the term is not yet at a proper moment. It is not just because this is a false promotion. I think that the student's problem can be solved by objectives.

The first point is that the student's problem cannot be solved by objectives. It is not just because this is a false promotion. I think that the student's problem can be solved by objectives.

MODERN DANCE CLUB: 1.

FUN FOR ALL

By PRISCILLA AMEND

The Modern Dance group is a campus organization which receives very little public notice, and yet it has its own devoted following of both male and female, who have heard of it by word-of-mouth. In fact, some people seem to take it for granted that there must be a group and have never bothered to find out about it. Washington was a success and a step in the right direction.

The group works on its steps, combinations, and exercises which are of interest to both sexes, steps which often take a great deal more effort than they first appear to require. One can hear an abundance of groans and means as the men

Harris said that his team never stops hustling and will be in every ball game. He is satisfied with his team's 2-1 mark and thinks the pitching will improve as soon as the weather gets warmer. "The days have been so bad this week, but just have not been able to get enough work," Coach Harris said.

Snow cancelled the team's opener with Dickinson College, April 8, 1972, and rain cancelled Saturday's game with Johns Hopkins on April 18, 1972. No new dates have been scheduled as of yet.
