Chapter Scholars' Named

Eight Senior Ursinus students have been designated as Chapter Scholars this week on the basis of the quality and range of their academic interests and academic achievements.

These students were selected for this honor by The Chapter, a society of faculty members with Phi Beta Kappa membership, which is especially concerned with the cultivation of the abilities of the Ursinus students.

The eight seniors honored as Chapter Scholars for 1971 are:

- Alan C. Gold
- Alan P. Novak
- Laura C. Schmitz
- Raymond R. Williams
- Yolanda F. Roth
- Patricia A. Mellon
- Margaret C. McCarthy
- Dr. Robert Myers, Dr. Rice, Dr. Takats, and Dr. Zuckier.

THE STATE OF OUR PRISONS

Prisoners Relate Restrictive Conditions At Graterford

Third in a Series of Three Articles by John T. Filer, Roger McClelland and LARRY NEUSTADTER

Since the only way to understand the system of corrections we have here is to speak to the prisoners, we have corresponded with many prisoners and have also paid several visits. Through this first hand knowledge, we have overcome the fallacy of believing that the problem is worst at a time as distant as 68 years ago. We have been able to speak the language of the men behind the bars.

In speaking with one of the prisoners whose name will remain anonymous, we were told that if we ever come upon what can be considered the major gripe, One of the chief arguments is that the so-called "work" system is about as relevant as Calculus is to medicine.

When a man enters, he has his choice of several ridiculous jobs which train him for nothing. Thus, when a man is released, he has training for nothing. Due to this, convicts have a terrible time trying to find jobs. This is one of the factors in a soaring rate of "repeaters," or men who have been in and out of prisons. If one man gets out, he could be given relevant work instead of being paid to work. The result would be that they would know where to begin looking for work once they were released.

The Graterford system is a lack of specific rules governing the prisoners. Without rules, they would be at the mercy of the guards. An example, which occurred just last week, was that guards are allowed to work late in night for breakfast. Apparently, the guards are not accustomed to eating properly during meals, however, due to the routine. As a result, the guards happened to be in, the man received a misconduct on his record, which goes very bad with the parole board, and one week in "lock-up." "Lock-up" is a condition in which a prisoner can only go out of his cell for work at all. It is obvious that something is wrong when prisoners are clamoring for more rules instead of fewer ones.

The survey was distributed last week. Of the 450 students who received them, the responses of a random sampling were tabulated to indicate their moral standards. The survey pertained to sexual behavior, drug use, absenteeism, loneliness, the desirability of co-ed housing, and other matters of concern to sophomores.

The results of the Weekly Morality Survey were as follows:

1. How often do you engage in sexual intercourse?
   a) several times a week . 35%
   b) less than once a month . 12%
   c) once in a while . 31%
   d) not at all . 3%

2. Do you have intercourse:
   a) with the same person? 55%
   b) with a group of people? 45%

3. Have you ever tried marijuana?  a) yes . 78%
   b) no . 22%

4. How often do you use marijuana?
   a) several times a week . 16%
   b) once a week . 9%

5. Have you ever smoked crack cocaine?  a) yes . 43%
   b) no . 57%

6. Have you ever used heroin?  a) yes . 4%
   b) no . 96%

7. How often do you consume alcohol?
   a) several times a week . 35%
   b) once a month . 11%
   c) at least once a month . 12%
   d) less frequently than once a month . 3%
   e) not at all . 3%

8. Have you ever violated the dormitory policy prohibiting visitation by members of the opposite sex?  a) yes . 76%
   b) no . 24%

9. Do you agree with the present regulations?  a) yes . 78%
   b) no . 22%

The above information allows for making correlations between various behaviors and particular groups.

The Unsightly Minority

By MARC HAUSER

Warren Cohen is a freshman Psychologys major from Haverson, Pa., who represents the "new generation" that is now taking part in a social change, yet willing to work within the "rational discourse" boundaries. He has done a great deal of thinking about problems that the college student of 1971 must face and press himself in a manner that is germane to these thoughts:

"I thought that I could find myself. That morning, I wanted the personalized teaching of the Socratic method that we're doing at Ursinus. The hippie concept moral decadence must not be allowed to gain an additional iota strength or momentum in this country. The time is very long overdue for the moderate-conservative to undertake a reformation, of going upon the philosophy that you don't have anything. Health to me is life, this is real. It's my sincere conviction that such people represent the most serious character of the hippie sub-culture. Culture is, without any doubt, the most important thing to me. "I'm a health freak almost to the point of being a fanatic. . . . if you don't have health, you don't have anything."

"In a complete with the school's and my ideologies. It's not something that I can uplift a whole; they're ready to hear you out. Too many people think that I'm too little to live for, too much to die for." This could sum up the atmosphere of Ursinus have. I think that the new people have been changed made until now is not because the administrative system involving minimal commitment and responsibility on the part of the student. Finally, "justice" frequently implies leniency for political insurgents who foment revolution and anti-establishment protest.

The hard-working, responsible, and conscientious citizens of straight America must never allow a small percentage of drastically wayward and misguided youths to encroach upon or contaminate the democratic system involving minimal commitment and responsibility on the part of the student. Finally, "justice" frequently implies leniency for political insurgents who foment revolution and anti-establishment protest.

There are many situations that we're not just being exposed to, but there should be more in regards to outside influence; there should be more in regards to the operation of the mind and less of society. The students here are really stimulating people, but they seem to be dealing with the period of apathy, the period between people.

"The students here are really stimulating people, but they seem to be having the jargon of this period of apathy, or having been dissolved, and NOT by the administration, but by other students. For instance, when I came here all I heard was "how bad it is." People say "if you don't like it here, leave." To me, that's the worst possible solution. You're not going to solve a problem by running away from it.

"An important thing to me is the affinity of pure, natural human relationships. I feel that kids today, after having been on the pedes­tal of affluence, after they graduate college, will be striving for the BIGGER house and the BIG­

GER car until they'll be 45 and reimize that they've missed life. People should find a way of life that is reassuring to them and gives them confidence.

THE KITCHEN CYNIC
"Shrunken Heads"

By IANE SIEGEL

In this rough and tumble college world, there are some strange things going on. I mean, it's not like I've been seeing ghosts or anything, but there were some very strange things going on in the halls the other night. Of course, I don't believe in ghosts or anything like that, but it's just strange that we should have such strange things happen on this campus. Of course, I have to admit that I was a little bit scared at first, but then I realized that it must have been my imagination. I mean, it couldn't be ghosts, could it? But who knows? Maybe I should ask around and see if anyone else has seen anything strange. It would be interesting to know if this is a common occurrence on this campus or if I am just paranoid. I guess I will have to keep an eye on this and see what happens next. It's definitely something that I will have to investigate further. After all, I can't just ignore something like this. It's too strange and too weird. I mean, it's not like I am completely out of my mind, but it's definitely something that I will have to think about.
SPORTS CORNER

JEFF WILLIAMS

This column marks the end of a lengthy career in the Weekly sports department. We have seen plenty of sports action here at Ursinus, but the first M.A.C. football game of 1968.

When we came to Ursinus, the sports picture was a bit grim. Ursinus suffered a 1-6-1 season in football in 1967. Wrestling and basketball were floundering, but there has been notable improvement since then. The football team has won a championship, and then followed that with a respectable 1970 season. Wrestling has been dramatically improved to the heights of an 8-2 record this year. Our soccer squads have seen better days of late, with basketball also starting their upswing.

Over the past four years some of our sports squads have continued to astound. Cross country and track, without benefit of decent facilities, have made just in the nation, West Chester state of 1964-1965. As has been the case in previous years, the Bears will rely strongly on running.

That quote seems to typify our team 2 years ago, as always, the Bears win third place in the nation, West Chester state of 1964-1965. As has been the case in previous years, the Bears will rely strongly on running.

Baseball Preview

BY DON MCAFEE

The Ursinus baseball team opened its pre-season season on March 1971. The team also features a new young MOC, Gene Harris, who has been preparing for Coach Whatley. In the jump, it will be Joe Muscara (6'4" indoor), Ed Leggett (6'7", 219, 412, and 183), George Lombo (6'7"), and Brad Olsen and Bob LeMoie (both 190"").

The weight events will suffer with the absence of Dave Wood (43"), 144") and still produce some vital points. Bob Dennison (EP111), Bill Creighton (EP111), and fresh Jim Popjula (39"), along with Jim Alspaugh, the discus also.

The javelin is expected to be one of the strongest events of Coach Whatley's Mid Atlantic Conference game. Following Wood's victory, the Bears number one hurdler in the 440, Bart Bennett (2:01.5), and Pete von Wodtke (2:01.5).

The only area of all for the Bears remains, as always, the 400 yard dash and 200 meter sprint. In the final by a score of 55 to 43 was last year's number two team the Bears (39'10"), who placed 4th in the Eastern College Conference. Adding depth to an already strong team will be indoor sensation Graham Montgomery and Brad Brewster (muscular)

With a fine year indoors, Bob Lemoi. If you come to 1971...,
