Economics Seminar Meets; Discusses Federal Reserve; Claims Financial Trend Up

By JUDY EARLE

The Economics Department of Ursinus College, along with economics students from high schools such as Norristown, Pottstown, and Broomall, introduced the first Federal Reserve Seminar held here, April 27. The seminar was on the subject of current monetary developments and was headed by Mr. Edward Trishman, a Ph.D. and a Mr. Warren J. Augustus.

Mr. Boche is presently Research Officer and Economist at the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia. He holds a B.S., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees in Economics from the University of Pennsylvania. He has also taught at Pennsylvania State University, Indiana University, and Temple University. Mr. Boche was a student of Dr. Robert Mundell, who received the Nobel Prize in Economics at the same school in 1990. He received the Libbey Award for Teaching in 1947, and he is the author of several books on financial theories and articles in such publications as The American Economist, Business Review, and The Canadian Journal of Economics.

Mr. Gustus is currently the Economics Advisor to the President of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia. He holds a B.S. in Commerce at the University of North Carolina, an M.S. in Economics at Brown, and a Ph.D. in Economics at the University of Chicago. He has taught at Drexel, Duke, Brown, and the University of Chicago. Mr. Gustus was Staff Economist for DuPont and Vice President of Joel Dean Associates of Westchester County, New York, and a partner of an investment firm.

In meetings at Allentown, Hershey and other spots, Mr. Boche stated that the direction of the economy is up, but that the pace is slow. Unemployment rate will remain at 5.5% in 1971, and Federal Reserve Chairman William McChesney Martin Jr. has stated that the economy is not yet out of the recession. The Federal Reserve has indicated that it will continue to lower interest rates to stimulate the economy. However, the pace of economic growth is expected to be slow, and it will take several years for the economy to recover from the recession.

Dennis Stoner Sings In Memorial Concert

By LYNN WOLLENTIN

It was a heartwarming sight at Memorial Concert travelin’ to take place on Thursday evening at the Ursinus Wiemer Dining Hall. This year we are fortunate in having Dennis Stoner take time from his already busy schedule to perform in the show. We also have some familiar faces returning, such as Linda Clark, Scott Pierce, and Dan Ashelmore along with some new faces such as Wayne Gattlin, Jane Mims, and Molly Leber.

Dennis is the only member of the Metropolitans still in the area, as other members are currently appearing at area clubs. Mr. Stoner has recorded his first album for the Universal records label and has not only performed but also composed and produced some of the tunes.

Dennis' compositions are inspired by the people and events that surround him. He performs with a style uniquely his own yet universal enough to appeal to audiences of all ages.

On Friday, April 16, the committee members gathered, awaiting the arrival of Candie Silver, a member of the Student Activities Committee. The meeting began with a discussion of the proposed changes to the curfew system on campus. Candie Silver, the leader of the Student Life Committee, presented the following changes:

1. The curfew system would be modified to begin at midnight instead of 10:30 p.m.
2. Curfews would be lifted on weekends for freshmen and upperclassmen.
3. The idea of a curfew system for women was also discussed, but no decision was made.

Candie Silver emphasized the importance of curfews in maintaining a safe and orderly environment on campus. She also stressed the need for flexibility to accommodate the varying needs of different student groups.

The Student Life Committee Meetings: Proposes Several Changes

By CANDY SILVER

The following opinions do not necessarily reflect the position of The Ursinus Weekly, but state the individual opinions of members of the Editorial Board.

Rules were made to be broken. Or so the rationalization goes. I will never cease to be amazed at the reasons and excuses given by most people when they break a rule or regulation.

By far, the best excuse yet is that the rule is silly or ridiculous, or, at worst, out-dated or old-fashioned. And of course, change is slow, so if it interferes with something planned, or even something unplanned, why not just break it? After all, we'll never get caught; and even if we do, they'll swallow any sob story.

But is that being responsible? We may feel that being treated like children is our excuse, but we are sadly mistaken. The administration cannot bear our excuses for a number of years, and does not have to prove itself; nor does it have to give us the benefit of the doubt. Do we deserve the rights that go along with responsibilities? (Sure, we're people, aren't we?) But then, so is a ten year old.

It is we who must first prove that we are capable of taking on the responsibilities before we even have the right to ask for freedoms. Rules were set up for many reasons, some of which involve our parents, some of which involve state law. Generally, rules are made to protect the innocent, who would be happy if there were no rules at all at Ursinus, but I doubt that they are really in the majority. Not many parents would be ecstatic if they knew that their daughters could go anywhere with anyone for any length of time. If parents did not care, it would be unnecessary for the parents of girls living on campus to sign permission slips. (There are surprising numbers of girls who do not have "blanket permission.")

But what about a rule that is "really antiquated" and "bad"? Are we expected to follow it blindly without question? I doubt that anyone would really want us to accept everything we are handed on blind faith, but I do think that we should be expected to follow the rules which are not in force. If it is no longer applicable and has lost its relevance, then we should change it. We should not just dismiss it by saying that change has never happened and just break it because it cramps our style somewhat.

For as long as civilization has existed, breaking a rule (and laws are only rules in the end) has never been a sign of maturity or the ability to accept responsibility. If anything, it has been a sign of irresponsibility and childishness. (Remember when we were little how our transgressions were excused, "He's only a child, he doesn't know any better.") If we are going to continue breaking rules, sometimes even looking for ways we cannot expect the administration, or indeed anyone, to treat us as adults.

And so, as we go through our busy days, picking out all the rules that just have to be changed (the ones we so often break and the ones we'll find some way of breaking in the next few days), we are missing one of our biggest problems. It is a problem that has for a long time been proven to be a hindrance to all change. In one word, our problem is attitude.

As long as we maintain an attitude which allows us to break any rules we choose without a second thought or even a small amount of guilt, we hope for no major changes, especially overnight. We must realize that the process of change has always been slow and always will be slow. (Change is perhaps faster in a dictatorship, but the only person who likes a dictatorship is the dictator himself.)

We must realize that until the rule is changed (if indeed it can be, as all rules are responsible to many different things), we must obey it, for only by arbitrarily obeying rules can we hope that they are not safe for anyone, for it is not freedom, but license.

We must take it upon ourselves to prove that we are capable of behaving as responsible and mature adults in everything we do so that people can learn that we can be trusted. The next move is not up to the administration. It is up to us.

WRUC Elects Officers; R.Tee General Manager

WRUC-FM Stereo, Ursinus College's student radio station, recently held elections for new officers for next year. The new management, led by a sophomore economics major from Newark, N.J., will be assisted by Christine Gerber, a sophomore chemistry major, who will be on a semester abroad. Their station was located in Freeland Park, and it boasts a large and ubiquitous (300 watts) audience throughout campus.

In its continuing efforts to provide entertainment for the students, the WRUC staff has already helped tremendously in the planning of this year's book. This year's book is the yearbook is independent of student photography. Special effects and screening processes will take place in the fall. (Text continues)

The Rothshilds — Described by some critics as a rich man's "Dillard on the Roof," it is exactly that. The lead character is the rich man, who is so rich that he can afford to hire someone else to do all of his work, as he says, "The Rothshilds" is a film in its own right. It is a comment on American society, and it is a comment on the fact that the rich can do anything they want and get away with it.

The review begins with a comparison of the film to the Broadway show, "The Rothschild," which ran for a record-breaking 1,000 performances. The film is a much more intimate look at the life of the Rothschild family, and it is a much more realistic portrayal of the man who was one of the richest men in the world.

The story is told through the eyes of a young man named Louis, who is brought into the family's employ and who quickly becomes a member of the family. The film is a fascinating look at the world of the Rothschild family, and it is a valuable addition to the study of American history.

The film is directed by the great American director Sidney Lumet, and it is a masterwork of filmmaking. The performances are outstanding, and the dialogue is crisp and intelligent. The film is a must-see for anyone interested in American history, and it is a must-see for anyone interested in great cinema.
Rough Week For Tennis Squad; Championship Matches Begin Sat.

By PHILIP WEBER

The men’s tennis team experienced another rough week last week as the Moravian match, an Ursinus win for the last three years, was rained out, and the Philadelphia Textile match ended in a heart-breaking 5-4 loss.

D-Y Routine

Earlier in the week, however, on April 29, the Bears inflicted a crushing defeat on Delaware Valley, 9-0. The match, played partly at Ursinus and partly at Spring Ford High School due to wet court conditions, was one of the most lopsided victories the Bears have ever scored.

Dave Jacob, at the first singles position, led the way, not losing a game in singles (6-0, 6-0) or in doubles with Herman Kenisky (3-0, 6-0). Mark Trishman, with Steve Peterson (6-0, 6-1), Bruce Gassel (5-0, 6-1, 6-2) and Llew Smith (6-0, 6-1) completed the singles with impressive scores. The second and third doubles teams had little trouble either, as Trishman and Gassel won 6-0, 6-3, while Peterson and Smith eased to a 6-1, 6-0 victory.

Textile Tough

The Textile match on May 1 was a different story, though. With two of the top players in the MAC, Bob Brudawer and Dave Brudewski, and a strong doubles team, Textile was assured of points at the top of the standings, excepted. McKinley took Jacob, 6-2, 6-2, and Kulkia topped Trishman, 6-1, 6-1. But despite having won four of five matches, two of the tests were even more evenly matched. Kenisky is expected to win four of three tough sets, 8-10, 6-4, 6-1. Peterson at four and Smith at five, took their matches, 6-2, 6-0, Smith and Peterson at three doubles and both on a hot streak even things with hard-fought 6-2, 6-2 wins.

Unfortunately, the second doubles team followed the same route as the first team, and lost 7-5, 6-3. Despite a great effort, the match went to Textile, 5-4.

The remainder’s record now stands at 4-4, with five matches left. They have also been preparing for the MAC’s at Franklin and Marshall starting Saturday, where Jacob and Kenisky will play doubles and Trishman singles. The doubles team has their fingers crossed, hoping they do not draw Franklin and Marshall.

The University’s lacrosse team, No. 1 in the first team, and 10-5 at 7-5, 6-3. Despite a great effort, the match went to Textile, 5-4.

New Baseball Team Looks Very Promising

The Ursinus baseball team is getting a good start. It’s true that the uniforms may be the same, and the way the players are playing positions are being anchored by returning lettermen. The new look however, concerns the attitude and morale of the players, and for the first time in years, Unix has been molded into a real team. These achievements must be credited to Head Coach Alverd and the revitalized baseball here at Ursinus where Coach Alverd has been placed at the helm of the team. The Bears are playing with a team morale that is extremely high.

The most important innovation to this year’s team, however, is the fact that the Bears know they can win.

Record Stand at 4 and 5

The season opened with two impressive victories over Eastern Baptist 2-1, and Swarthmore 7-1. Both wins can be credited to strong pitching performances by Bob Mckinnon and Don Larson. The following weekend the Bears were defeated by Western Maryland (last year’s M.A.C. Champions) and Johns Hopkins University, where they met two strong teams, and were defeated by scores of 4-7 and 9-7 respectively.
