The country is not suffering for the lack of Democratic candidates for the Presidency. The lack of many of them is, however, a source of anxiety. Some of the prominent names which have been mentioned are those of Squire, McClellan, or Greeley, or any other candidate, the choice of the people is not made definite. It is possible that some of these men may yet become candidates, but it is also possible that none of them will be. The lack of Democratic candidates for the Presidency is, therefore, a source of anxiety to the party. It is not known what the people of the country will do, if at all, in the election of 1880. It is possible that they may elect a man who is not a candidate for the Presidency, but it is also possible that they may elect a man who is a candidate for the Presidency.

A Happy New Year to all

Hark! how the bugles of the New Year are sounding out some ancient tones. The time has come again when we are all invited to spend a few moments in the contemplation of that noble and idealistic collective, the Friends of the New Year.

On January 1st, let us all take up a pen and express our sentiments of good will towards all mankind. Let us all make a solemn resolution to live more harmoniously with each other, to be more charitable and forgiving, and to make our lives a source of inspiration to others.

Let us all reflect on the year just passed, and with a heart full of hope, look forward to the year that is to come. May it bring peace, prosperity, and happiness to all.

Yours sincerely,
