Secret of a Larch-Tree.

A lady, young, beautiful, walked up with determination to the spot where the larch was hiding. The trees were Gloaming, light, and the rugged slope of the ground, covered with the house was covered with the densest vegetation. The sun, which had been shining bright, suddenly veiled itself by the densest fog, and shone through a thin veiled of mist. The lady, who was about to enter the larch, was suddenly seized by a sense of fear. She turned back, and walked away, with a feeling of dread. She was about to leave the place, when she heard a voice crying, "Stop!" She turned around, and saw a man standing at the entrance of the larch. He was dressed in black, and was holding a lantern. He approached her, and said, "This is the larch where the secret is hidden."

The lady was startled, and asked, "What is the secret?"

The man said, "It is a secret of the larch."

The lady asked, "What is the secret of the larch?"

The man said, "It is a secret of the larch."

TERMS—25 CENTS PER YEAR IN ADVANCE.

This paper is a pioneer in the class of the large and steadily increasing circulation, and is one of the most desirable papers we have, being of a character, and aiming at the wants of the people generally. It has been in existence for several years, and is now one of the most successful in the state of Pennsylvania. The paper is read by thousands of people, and is extensively circulated in the country, and is read by all the leading men of the state.

The office of the Providence Independent is situated in the heart of the city, and is one of the most convenient places for the purchase of the paper. The paper is published every day, and is sold at the office, and at all the principal hotels and boarding-houses in the city.

The Providence Independent is a weekly paper, and is published every Saturday. It is printed on fine paper, and is well bound. It is read by thousands of people, and is extensively circulated in the country.
