EDITORIAL

Weekly Policy
It has been said and mentioned again that history is an interpretation. No man is free enough from himself to make an account of a political or social event without some juice. The same is true with newspaper reporting and editorializing.

This is even more true when the reporter is deeply involved in the event, as concerned with the consequences. This is why, to be honest with our readers, and to show concern in the coming national election, the editorial staff of the URISWEN WEEKY unanimously endorses President Lyndon Johnson and Hubert Humphrey.

At a time in our country's political history when the oppressed are seeing the light of equal and fair social justice for the first time, we believe in supporting a man who can see beyond the comparatively trivial troubles caused by the overthrown of social oppression to the bright future through equal justice and freedom of tomorrow and tomorrow.

When the problems of urban and suburban living and transportation are becoming more complex, we believe in supporting a man who will lead the livelihood of the United States into the future.

At a time in our country's political history when the world—what is as high as the stockpiles of nuclear weapons, we believe in supporting an already proven trusted, reliable, and capable people, not one man changes from an extreme position, to moderate, and back again to an extreme position in the Marines" when the situation calls for a more level-headed decision might be a slower way of "pushing the button," but just as effective, in the future through equal justice and freedom of tomorrow.

Sue Harman Places in Penna. Title Contest

In the contest for the title of "Miss Pennsylvania,'" Sue Harman, Congeniality and Sunset, June 27, at West Chester State College.

Her performance in the contest was the climax to a series of events which entered the Annual Miss Pennsylvania beauty contest.

Sue Harman placed in a whirlpool of activity started last April, when Sue

This first contest followed the announcement of the Miss Pennsylvania contest and the one for Miss America contest eventually used the same three Miss Pennsylvania contestants: basking in ensuite, evening gown, and making the rounds of the major beauty organs. Sue said, "The big surprise for me was having to get up—more exciting than any pageant in the state of Pennsylvania or the county."

Sue was a quiet, unassuming sort of girl who had never competed in any beauty pageant before.

"I thought I was not very photogenic, and I didn't have the usual beauty-pageant profile," Sue said.

"But the more I practiced, the more confidence I gained. By the time of the state contest, I was ready to face whatever was thrown at me." Sue said.

"I was never one to be afraid of competition. I knew I was up against some very talented and beautiful girls, but I was determined to give my best performance."

In the end, Sue's hard work paid off. She received several awards, including the "Congeniality Award" and the "Sunset Award" at the state competition.

"It was a great honor to represent Pennsylvania in the Miss America contest," Sue said in an interview after the pageant. "I was so proud to be a part of something so significant to the state and to be able to share my love for arts and music with so many people."

Dear Dr. Murray,

There is a topic of extreme interest to the Faculty and Student body of Ursinus at the present time. There are some who would not deny Custom an important part of the college's current century. To this point of view, the traditions of inducting students and in conditioning them is taking place. Since it has lasted so long there must be some good reason for its existence. It is necessary at this time to consider some of these reasons.

The object of the program is to unify the students as a class and not above all, as an integral part of the college. This has not been denied as a worthwhile aim. The difference of opinion tends on whether or not the program is being conducted properly. It has been taken that the incoming class has not been treated with the dignity due a college student.

In a moment of respect as a student is not something that a person can be entailed to along with its registration papers. It is true that they show these signs of maturity by taking on the responsibilities that are their due. It is true that the college has a responsibility to the students who are external to their environment. The maturity that comes from this responsibility is the new responsibilities which will be required of the student. This does not mean that they cannot handle these responsibilities, but rather that it is going to take ...prostration of amount of time for them to be acquainted with their responsibilities thus not to be wasted.

There is little allowance made in the classroom for this transition. Thus for the sake of the individual, this must be understood. Orientation, which is probably the type through which students can be acquainted with various problems they will face. In the incoming class students come to college with preconceptions and many attitudes toward the school. It is necessary that these preconceptions be clarified or changed to promote harmonious transition.

Upper classmen and alumni looking back on 'customs' recall that whether or not and build traditions would have been better off if they had not gone through the program. Some believe that it is very small who can truly appreciate the full meaning of the program. Among these reasons custom must remain at Ursinus and it is definitely not a good idea to do away with it.

Sincerely,

Bill Collelll

Siebman finds himself "Sieb-less"

After 18 years, including 13 winning seasons, Dr. G. Richard Siebman has retired as baseball coach, Dr. Pancoast, who is the Mayor of Collegeville borough, recently received the recommendation of the University of Pennsylvania Board of Trustees as a candidate for the State House of Representatives.

The freshmen were transplanted from Central Atlantic Conference to the Western Athletic Conference.

UC Names Hess Mat Mentor

Irv Hess, the man who molded wrestling into a major sport at Northridge High School, has taken over the reins as head coach and assistant football coach at Ursinus.

He will remain at Ursinus as a professor of political science.

"To become more active in student, baseball was one thing I had to give up," Dr. Pancoast said.

Hockey Practice Officially Starts

Freshmen Prosperts Look Promising—8 Returnees

Once again the leaves are turning and the season is at hand. This year, with Bob Selfridge's hockey coaching methods, the team should be ready for the fall field behind the new ice rink and the newly installed hockey punchers for the first day of practice for the hockey team.

Every weekend, the varsity leaves for its annual two-week period to select eleven girls and to start the season off with a cohesive unit.

Dr. Pancoast said he believes the leadership experience would contribute to him as a professor of political science.
