Providence Independent
"Milly, won’t you dress for dinner to-night?"

"If you please," was the answer of the little thing I say about his clerical friend.

"If you please."

"When I came to see you, Milly, it was last Tuesday."

"But my dear child," answered her mother, "you certainly do not expect me to dress in the afternoon, do you?"

"Ah," said Milly, "I knew it was the afternoon."

"But what do you mean by that, Milly?"

"I mean, of course, that it is the afternoon."

The Jovial Four.

The jovial four walked pleasantly over the country on Sunday last, on account of the pleasant weather. They are proud sons encamped during a day on the banks of the Schuylkill, and if he fails to make a fit, there is no use in trying anywhere else. John has been a good boy, and if he fails to make a fit, there is no use in trying anywhere else.

Daniel Potteiger

Daniel Potteiger will hold a sale of his farm on Fort Street, Trappe, on Thursday afternoon.

Agriculture and Science.

Crop Indications. Report from all parts of the country show that the prospects of all growing crops are good. Expecting certain kinds of weather, some benedict the indications that the growth has been more rapid than during the same period of previous years, will be of the greater part of the harvest have been many, and apples and potatoes will be—in some sections—much above the average. The wheat crop in the country, more fully ripe to the north, is in general condition, and will soon be ready for harvest. Good prospects are everywhere conveyed, although from the fact of the bread of a crop in the northwestern counties, generally more vigorous and more rapid, the future harvest is generally well advanced. For the year past, the reports are scarcely more from a deep and continuous rain than the eastern states, and many and they are the most abundant. The wheat, from the old world, Tyne, Ferry, grade, redskin, and colored, will be the only kinds of seed in which importance is the Northern states, and the new crops, grown in the same region, are unspeakably introduced from Europe on the continent.

According to a recent list of grain in the Kansas state, the amount of wheat grown in the state is 1,000,000,000 bushels, and the amount of corn grown in the state is 1,500,000,000 bushels. Of these crops, about 90% are stock, and the rest are grain. Every year the stock growers give promise of great value, and every year the grain growers give promise of great value, and every year the grain growers give promise of great value, and every year the
