President's Life in Review

John Fitzgerald Kennedy was born in Brookline, a suburb of Boston, on May 29, 1917. He was the second of eleven children—four boys and five girls—of Joseph Patrick and Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy. His background on both sides was one of political importance, for his paternal grandfather, Patrick J. Kennedy, served in both houses of the Massachusetts legislature and his maternal grandfather, John F. Fitzgerald, was mayor of Boston. Both men liked to fake the boy on political campaigns, and he thus grew up in a political atmosphere.

Joseph P. Kennedy believed in competition and advancement, training his heir for competition and advancement, training his heir for what he imagined wrong. Each one in his family had a different justification for murder. To each one, the reason had different principles, different systems. But the reason, in the end, was the same. It was Cold War, and it was murder.

Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy, died at 1:07 p.m. CST, Tuesday, November 24, 1963. The plane arrived in Washington, D.C., at 2:07 p.m., and the body was then taken to its D.C. basement of Bomberger Hall, an unexpected development. The body was then taken to the hospital, where it was examined by the coroner and by Dr. J. Lee Cortez, the chief of surgery. The coroner pronounced the man dead at 1:07 p.m., the time of the shooting.

John F. Kennedy's life was given. The service began with the singing of "Lead, Kindly Light" by the choir of St. James the Less, from Texas, and the singing of "The World Is Down in Sorrow" by the choir of St. John's Church, New York. The service ended with the singing of "Ave Maria" by the choir of St. John's Church, New York.

Chapel Service Held in Memory of President

The president of the national memorial chapel service for the late President Kennedy was held in the Riverdale United Methodist Church, 84th Street and Broadway, New York City. The service was attended by the president's family, friends, and members of the congregation.

A Statement About John Kennedy

by Donald L. Helfrich

President of Ursinus

The biography of our murdered president, John F. Kennedy, is an American success story. Kennedy was not a traditional American success story. Kennedy was not the son of a wealthy and powerful family. Kennedy was not the heir to a large fortune. Kennedy was not a在这里填入空白

Another Murder

Only 48 minutes after the bullets were fired, two men were arrested in Dallas, Texas. The two men were identified as Lee Harvey Oswald and Jack Ruby. Lee Harvey Oswald, a former US Marine, was charged with the assassination of President Kennedy. Jack Ruby, a Dallas nightclub owner, was charged with the murder of Lee Harvey Oswald.

Rabinstein Held

Rubinstein is being held for the murder of Oswald in the United States. The New York Post stated that Rubinstein was questioned and imprisoned. The New York Times stated that Rubinstein was questioned and imprisoned. The New York Daily News stated that Rubinstein was questioned and imprisoned.

Assassination Saddens World

Today, Monday, November 25, has been a day of mourning for this Nation. This afternoon, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, the thirty-fifth President of the United States, was laid to rest at Arlington National Cemetery in Arlington, Virginia.

Office of the President

Robert F. Kennedy, Attorney General of the United States, delivered a eulogy at the funeral services of President Kennedy.

Students React to News of Murder

News of the death of John F. Kennedy, thirty-sixth President of the United States, was received with mourning of grief and chagrin by the students of Ursinus College in Collegeville, Pennsylvania.

A group of male students acted as the American flag-throwers and raised it to the peak of the flag staff and then dropped it to the position of half staff.

The news of the murder was interrupted by an announcement of a memorial service. The student body listened to the message in unison.

Dr. Donald L. Helfrich, President of Ursinus, made the announcement:

"The time is 11:00 a.m. EST. The ..."
Reign of Reason
November 22, 1963: the thirty-sixth President of the United States is dead, the victim of an assassin's bullet. The horrifying news of this tragedy swept across the United States and the world. The world's reaction was similar: it can't be; I don't believe it. Not in this day and age.

We repeatedly tell ourselves that things like the assassination of a President are inconceivable in our time. They are steps short of nuclear war, smaller than the Vietnam conflict, smaller than the Korean War, smaller than the Cold War. The assassination have been the result of opposition to the administration's program of Civil Rights? Could there have been a more far-reaching effect than Kennedy's presidency? Could there have been a more far-reaching effect than Kennedy's presidency? Could there have been a more far-reaching effect than Kennedy's presidency?

However, there has been a spirit of hope and an acceptance of the world that is beyond the realm of our previous expectations. This is the time for the educated, cultured, supposedly informed student to ask himself, "What have I done for my country today?"

"We" have not been disturbed by some of the unreasonable, illogical thoughts we have heard expounded around us. We must, in this time of great trial of the American democratic system, remember that our Constitutional guarantees are not merely on paper. They are not only the lifeblood of our democracy, but also the life of our nation.

Mr. Kennedy's policies were not loved by all of us, but we must remember the sincerity and hopefulness with which he pursued his ideas. We must, as Mr. Kennedy so often said, "think about the world we want to leave our children." We must think about the world that John F. Kennedy came to represent.

We of the WEEKLY join in with civilized men every where in our expression of grief and of sympathy to the Kennedy family and to the sorrow of the student body of Ursinus College.

To the students we offer the message given by Louis Pasteur to his students at the Barumbone in Paris. The year was 1892. The Urusin Weekly, as a result of the accident of last Tuesday evening at Sixth Avenue and Main Street, began the circulation of a petition requesting the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to reinvestigate the traffic situation on Main Street between Fifth Avenue and Eighth Avenue. The letter which accompanied this petition is included in this issue under, “In The Mail.”

The weekly was presented to Mr. Harral and the situation discussed with him. It was his feeling that the present speed limit, 15 miles per hour, could well be too high. Both he and Mr. Coleman assured the editor that enforcement of any speed limit was the first step to increased safety.

Questions for a stop light at this intersection have been in the media, being debated in town as to whether the traffic light at several chosen intersections is necessary. If a stop light is needed, everyone can be assured that the traffic light will be placed where it is needed.

There is some feeling, both in Collegville and in Harriton, that the traffic situation is simply a matter of time, that it is all due to the rush-hour traffic. This would be understandable if it were the only thing that caused the traffic.”

Further comments were received from Mr. Henry D. Harral, Secretary of Highways and a native of Montgomery County. Mr. Harral was interviewed by Miss Robbins and Mr. Peck as part of the Commonwealth’s investigation of the traffic situation.

Campaign Sprecher Struck by Auto

Miss Campaign Sprecher, 18, of Fairless Hills, was hit by a car traveling east on Main St. She was on the shoulder of the road at the intersection of Main and South O’clock. The automobile was traveling at a speed of 25 miles per hour, which is the speed limit.

Miss Sprecher and two other female friends, Susan, Corin and Carole Boyer, all from Durham High School, were on their way to a picnic at Fairless Hills. Miss Sprecher stepped on to the road to get the attention of the motorist, who continued on his way.

The three friends were involved in a collision with the motorist, who was traveling at a speed of 25 miles per hour. The accident occurred at the intersection of Main and South O’clock.
