Weekly Review of Books

Mr. Lincoln on Civil Rights

Copyright 1864 by "Presbyterian Life." Used by permission.

This book, "Mr. Lincoln on Civil Rights," edited by Carl F. Fredrick, is a wonderful resource for anyone interested in understanding the history of civil rights in the United States. The book contains a collection of letters, speeches, and statements made by Abraham Lincoln during his presidency. These writings provide valuable insights into the challenges and complexities of enforcing civil rights during a time of war and division.

For example, one letter written by Lincoln to Attorney General Edward Bates in 1863, argues for the protection of black soldiers in the Union army. In another letter, Lincoln expresses his support for the 13th Amendment, which abolished slavery. These writings are not only informative, but also provide a glimpse into the personal beliefs and motivations of one of the greatest leaders in American history.

The book is well-organized and easy to read, with each letter or speech clearly labeled and dated. The introduction by Fredrick provides a useful overview of the book's contents and context, helping to guide the reader through the material.

Overall, "Mr. Lincoln on Civil Rights" is a valuable addition to any collection on the history of civil rights in the United States. It is a thought-provoking and informative resource that offers a unique perspective on the challenges and successes of enforcing civil rights during a time of war and division.

Have You Read...

by David Phillips

Today, there are many authors who have written on the topic of civil rights. These books can help the student, too busy to read this book, get a sense of the issues and the importance of civil rights.

In the introduction, the author discusses the history of civil rights in the United States and highlights the importance of understanding this history. The book is divided into several sections, each focusing on a different aspect of civil rights.

The first section, "The Birth of Civil Rights," covers the early years of civil rights in the United States. The author discusses the role of Martin Luther King Jr. and other civil rights leaders in the fight for equality.

The second section, "The Civil Rights Movement," covers the years from the 1950s to the 1970s. The author discusses the role of organizations like the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) in the fight for civil rights.

The final section, "The Legacy of Civil Rights," covers the years since the 1970s. The author discusses the impact of civil rights on the United States and the challenges of continuing the fight for equality.

Overall, "Mr. Lincoln on Civil Rights" is a well-written and informative book. It is an excellent resource for anyone interested in understanding the history of civil rights in the United States.
Girls BB Falls to ES, 46-36; JV Continues Unbeaten

The women's Varsity Basketball team lost a strong first-half advantage to bow but take over. The first half was fast-moving from the start. As soon as the ball was taken from zone to man-to-man defense.

The action shown in the first quarter seemed to be the same as the previous home game. The players take over at the second half, aided by numerous UC violations brought on a constant full-court press, enabled the ailing team to come back and win.

UC had the game well in hand at the end of the first half. After going up 29-15, UC was fast-moving from the start. As soon as the ball was taken from zone to man-to-man defense.

The end of the second quarter, however, was foiled by a strong travel violation, a pass in bounds, and a 25-point game. It was needed. His scoring average was 14.6 with a 6-4 at the three-quarter mark.

The fall and spring are the big seasons for women's athletics. Hockey and lacrosse coaches always find an abundance of hopefuls coming out for their teams. The coach whose proverbial "cup runneth over" can find a suit- able and, usually, capable substitute for a starter who isn't performing that day. The starter is never assured of a position, and this doubt lends itself to more work and better performances. A combination like this is bound to bring home winning records.

The draw of the winter sports just isn't great enough to bring the women of Ursinus out to compete for laurels in starting positions. At East Stroudsburg, Karen Kohin wasn't hitting, and Diane Regester was having trouble sinking her shots. The day before the game, the men's basketball team was on target during that game.

The swimming team lost Lynn Miernicki to a leg injury aggravated while she was practicing her best. Terry Clark, a diver with little swimming experience, has been turning in a credible job in the JV swimming meets. Several girls have been swimming in three events, the maximum allowed in any one meet.

We should all take our hats off to the girls who put everything into the efforts they turn in for Ursinus. But where are the girls who have the ability to compete and don't? These women have all kinds of excuses. However, the fact remains—they have the ability but don't use it.

Team support doesn't mean contributing just your talents; it means giving your talents, whatever they are, to support your team.

It's been a week for women's sports at Ursinus.

The swimming team lost two close meets and then failed to score a point in the Women's Eastern Intercollegiate Swimming Championships. The basketball team lost a heart-breaking big one at East Stroudsburg.

The coach whose proverbial "cup runneth over" can find a suitable and, usually, capable substitute for a starter who isn't performing that day.
