The Inquiring Reporter..."The Russian situation...Free Cuba, situation...Draws Prof's Comments"

by The Weekly News Staff

"I don't think the Russians will go to war over Cuba," states DR. MARCII ARMSTRONG, head of the Political Science Department. "I believe that there is a good possibility of American intervention in Cuba itself because it is unlikely that Castro will destroy his own power."

"If Castro doesn't take action in Cuba and the threat is still pointed at the United States, the president will have to do something," Dr. Armstrong feels that "the United States will probably do something...one of those mistakes." In response to the president's body at Co- son, Dr. Armstrong says that it's too late for the American people to think.

EDITORIAL

An Alarming Issue

One of the most important issues discussed at the recent 50th annual Schoolmen's Weekend Conference held by the University of Pennsylvania was the fact that a large proportion of the students with high potential are not living up to their promise in high school and college. Possibly the Education Department here at Ursinus would attack the fault with the least effectiveness. If they do not know how to bring out the best in young people, but shouldn't the responsibility be mutually borne by both students and teachers? An editorial in the PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER points out that "it represents a failure ... on the part of both the responsible parties" and that it "represents a failure on the part of our education system."

Of the high school students in the top third of their class, 76 per cent of those who did, got 60 per cent don't finish. The national drop-out rate from college is close to 50 per cent. (It is worth noting that the dropout-rate at Ursinus is much lower—20 per cent for the last five years.)

Leonard M. Miller of the U. S. Office of Education has been the problem squarely in the lap of the teachers: "Who is to do it?" The student's note: the INQUIRER concludes its editorial with: "The schoolmen should go home determined to exhaust every conceivable means to improve their results."

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

There is a time in every man's education when he arrives at the conviction that envy is ignorance; that模仿 is suicide; that he must take himself for worse for his portion. — Ralph Waldo Emerson

Campus Post Office Sets New Hours

by Carl Peck

The campus post office is open the following hours: Monday thru Thursday 8:30 a.m. - 9:30 p.m. Friday — 8:30 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. Saturday — 8:30 a.m. - 10:00 p.m.

Why? Here are the answers given to that question by Mr. Friedeborn and Dean Whalley. People have been receiving pay checks through the mail, but some of this money has been stolen from the mail room. According to Mr. Friedeborn, there have been two complaints of stolen money since school opened. Dean Whalley mentions that there have been seven complaints of stolen money since last spring, all the complaints being received from students having mail in the campus post office.

Also, the light in front of the post office is out on the outside of the building, making it impossible to read the post office hours posted on the post office’s window.

Conclusion of Dr. Miller's Talk

On India in Recent Forum Program

by Sharon Rothenberger

Turning to the economic situation of India, Dr. Miller emphasized the fact that the people living in India are very poor, and fondly call him by an Indian name meaning "Uncle." Nehru has the ability to speak the truth, and it appears that the more he receives, the more he becomes the more responsible he receives.

Since the visit, Nehra is attempting to build a bridge between the upper and lower classes. Nehru has so far been very successful in economic development which can be followed. The first step is to help the people to provide themselves with a certain amount of capital, and secondly, the people cooperate through a democratically governed plan.

The first step of the second path, three five-year plans have been developed in India, the third still being in operation. The first plan village development was encouraged on an increase in food production, improvement of well, sanitary facilities and roads, and the second plan, which is not yet fully completed, though the villages are still poor, improvements have been made, so the plan was fairly successful.

Rami Industry

The construction of fundamental industries headed the aims of the second plan. An increase in agricultural and industrial production was encouraged, and a move in the direction of socialism took place. Life insurance was naturalized and cooperatives among farmers formed. However, at the end of the second plan of the Government officials, the percentage of the economy was 90 per cent.

Little Man on Campus

Last year's "Miss Pennsylvania" is Ursinus student Lynne Malin, who is now attending the University School and will graduate in June. Dr. Alfred Creaser, Ursinus' Chaplain, besides having written several articles on theology in the campus newspaper, wrote an article which appeared in the March 1961 issue of the American Journal of Psychotherapy. The article was about theology and religion of the country.

The Ursinus weekly football defense led the Bears down to a heartbreaking defeat at the hands of the Wagner Seahawks on Saturday afternoon, 14-8. The Bears showed plenty of offensive power and dominated play throughout the game, but Wagner's defense held the Bears to two sudden turnarounds to win the Miami Atlantic Conference game.

Junior Bill DeDegenhardt came up with Ursinus' finest individual performance of the 1982 season when he led the Bears' defense against Wagner on Saturday. "DeD" caught 21 passes for a total of 118 yards, which surpassed Wagner's entire offensive output for the game, grabbed the only touchdown, a 3-yarder, with 12:08 left on the clock, made an interception and picked off an innumerable first down signal.

Statistics Do Tell

How does it feel to belt through a team for 17 first downs, dazzle the opposition with passes for 241 yards, and control the ball for an unheard-of total of 81 plays from scrimmage, and still lose by a touchdown? It must feel good to stumbling onto a field after flushing a mid-quarter for which you had pushed two weeks. The Ursinus attack just couldn't be contained; the Bears had their work cut out for them after they had been burned through a 5-yard pass to the right corner of a runway tractor in a cornfield; but then came the tough yardage outside the 10 yard stripe.
