Open on Campus

Officers of the new Pennsylvania Southeast Conference of the United Church of Christ were recently opened on the second floor of 420 Main Street (Lawrence St.). Mr. Paul T. Bluhm, D. D. Location of the new Conference office on the Ursinus campus has ample precedent in the former Evangelical and Reformed Church, Haddon Hall and Catawba College also have district offices on their campuses. All three campuses are historically related to the present Conferences.

A short business meeting will follow the showing of the film.

Summer Job Guide Now Available

The 1963 Summer Employment Directory contains a comprehensive list of 1,465 organizations throughout the United States seeking college students. Most institutions of higher learning in the area will receive this summer. Specific jobs with salary, name of employing official, and suggestions for other positions are given. These jobs will be found in summer camp, resort, restaurant, and retail business. These workers will advertise their job opportunities in the local newspapers. There is a time limit for jobs in the directory, in addition, juniors and seniors are urged to find summer jobs in their areas. Employers are included in the directory at their own request. All employment scheduling is done directly to the employer.

The New Summer Employment Guide may be obtained by sending $2 to the National Student Employment Guide, Inc., 1025 E. 12th St. of Philadelphia. The College Placement Office also has a copy.

Archaeologist Gordon Speaks At Forum Wednesday Night

Dr. Cyrus H. Gordon, professor of Near Eastern studies and chairmen of the department of Mediterranean Studies at Brandeis University, will present a program beginning at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the chapel. His topic will be "Adventures of an Archaeologist," and his address will be followed by a question and discussion period.

Dr. Gordon is a widely-known authority on Near Eastern archaeology and has been a member of the National Geographic Society's Institute since 1945. He has been a member of the Board of Trustees of the American Schools of Oriental Research in Jerusalem and Baghdad, and in 1957, 1958, and 1959 conducted archaeological expeditions in Israel, Cyprus, Crete and Greece. He is also a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Dr. Gordon was professor of Assyriology and Cuneiform, University of Michigan, and has taught at the University of Pennsylvania, Johns Hopkins University, and the University of Chicago.

He was a University of Pennsylvania graduate student in the field of Near Eastern studies and attended the College in the 1920's.

Should the "Weekly" Crusade?

There are those who would have the WEEKLY become a crusading newspaper. Strike out against the nasty old Administration, they cry. Strike out against the students, they say. Go after everyone and everything. They would have us become an angry young man.

How sophomoric, we say, in rebuttal. For we, too, have gone through this stage. We, too, have been in the past disillusioned with much at Ursinus. We, too, have sought to vent our anger over the heads of administrators, over the heads of students, over everyone.

Certainly, there is much that is wrong with Ursinus. For that matter, there is much that is wrong with the world. But that these vocal students would have Ursinus become an ideal little community, geared towards the whims and wishes of each dissatisfied student, wholly unignorant of the fact that our little community, imperfect though it may be, is after satisfactory preparation for the world of hard knocks outside.

Granted, as we said before, there are many facets of campus life which merit improvement, which cry out for remedy. But little is accomplished by idealistic criticism, by striking blindly, through every organizational voice offered the students. A wise reformer would tell us that reforms are instituted from within, that reforms take time, that reforms are accomplished through the medium of the least resistance. We find those when we seek them out. We find them before us, suspicious of our hasty suggestions and generalizations.

We are amused by those who feel that they, at the age of twenty years, have the solutions to our problems, by those who feel that they, God-given reformers, have such broad and free visions of reform that they have been under surveillance from the higher echelons for ten or twenty years. Onward and upward, they cry, stubbing over the existing system, shoving us about.

The world is not a battlefield. For reforms, they rally, their swords dulled by slicing the clouds of idealism.

If we wait, we shall see that the shackles which time and imperfect conditions place on us hinder the enactment of sought-after reforms, limit our avenues of solution. In time, they explain, we shall find that our reforms, our suggestions, are ideal as they may appear, to remedy our ills. In the meantime we say, relax—relax and enjoy the good, the really good, aspects of campus life. Be not angry young men. Be masters of our fate.

Await the time when maturity will soften your anger, and insight will lead you to work from within for these reforms which your sophomoric eyes look upon.

Mermaids Defeat Bryn Mawr Team

The varsity swimming team boosted its record to 6-0-0 with a 26-point, 156-130 victory over Bryn Mawr in a second game on the South Pool at the University. The meet was staged here on the University campus.

The winning team was led by a score of 26 points on the shoulders of Tanya Phipps and Al Hakanson, who combined for 13 points. The duo was followed by Joel Kohn, who also scored 13 points, and Linda Lam, who added 12 points for the winners. The team's winning streak continues as it prevails in the matches against Bryn Mawr.

The University's victory was marked by a strong defensive performance, blanking the opposition in all three events. The team's success was attributed to its cohesive unit, led by Phipps and Hakanson, who set patterns offensively as they dumped 26 points through their combined efforts. They were joined by a host of other contributors, including Kohn, Lam, and the rest of the team, who contributed to the team's victory.

The University hopes to continue its winning streak as it gears up for the conference championships.

Intramural Season Comes to a Close

The regular season draw to a close in Intramural Basketball this past weekend, with the playoffs to be contested this weekend. Pittsburgh's dynasty broke into the victory column as they defeated Dear-Free - Frone - Smale, and the APES edged Leber-South 46-38, as both teams finished tied for second with 2-2 records. Denny was the league champion with a 1-4 record.

With Steuer setting the pace by netting 20 points, Pittsburgh snapped a nine-point losing streak as they defeated Dear-Free-Frone-Smale 46-34. Bill Frazier paced the losers with 36 points. Maples romped to an impromptu 104-44 victory over Beta Sig as the winners. Denny Becker scored 36 points while Larry Boyer, Frank Zott, and Wallyl Knight added 18, 18, and 17 points respectively.

God's Gift

violating the monogamous principles of human life. The evil and suffering of mankind through the time of Moses and the prophets is because of the separation of the two principles of life.

This very experience that now seems too complicated to make it possible for the people of the present to realize is the very experience that makes it possible for the people of the present to realize. They went beyond a chiasmic point a few thousand years ago and we cannot do anything that will make their moral life possible. He cannot be the only one looking for the explanation of the universe upon which the human family and human society must rest.

Maturity in our relation with our fellow man is the gradual recognition of limitations. It is the growth of a very realistic man who cares for what is good and who is free. There is an underlying principle that Good and Evil cannot be reconciled and that they are at war. The same force which gives man the ability to conquer adversity and to make moral progress makes him the victim of the same forces. This is the way in which our human parents means the necessity of making moral choices and the need to study the principles of Good and Evil.

Perhaps we can come up with a word for this if we say that God is omniscient, that God is the perfect judge. This may sound somewhat heretical, but it was caused by the very nature of the world. If man is to be the judge, it is up to him to grow up to the level of God who chose to create a world which has free will.
