Harrisburg Calls
Two U.C. Seniors
For Budget Talks

College Sends 50 Students
Larry Kennedy

The Urismus announces that a team of 50 students from Ursinus will be sent to the Pennsylvania State Capitol in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, for discussions about the State's budget. The students will meet with the legislators and express their views on the budget issues.

The fourteenth Ursinus students are selected to represent the American students in America on the Spectrum of campus activities... (Continued on next page)

Urismus College’s Fourteenth “Who’s Who” Students Drawn from Entire Spectrum of Campus Activity

By Linda Carpenier and Dave Carter

Joey Benish

Joey Benish, a biology major from Philadelphia, is the co-recipient of the Brubaker-Anders Award. He is the captain of the tennis team, a brother of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity, and a member of intramural sports. Benish has also experienced several sessions of deep breathing with respect to his Who’s Who nomination in the athletic field.

Judy Byrnes

Judy Byrnes is the first female vice-president of the WIRA. She has also served as a member of the alumni board. Judy is the editor of the campus newspaper, the Urismus. Judy has also been involved in social activities such as a staff writer for the campus magazine, the Urismus.

Gloria Burnes

Gloria Burnes is a senior from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. She has been involved in various activities on campus, including being a member of the debate team and the Women’s Basketball team.

Bob Hoffert

Bob Hoffert is a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity. He has been involved in various activities on campus, including being a member of the debate team and the Women’s Basketball team.

Weekly Circulation Up 41% Over Previous Year

The Weekly’s off-campus circulation has reached a high of 11,000 copies. This is a 41% increase over the previous year. The circulation of the campus newspaper is also up, reaching a total of 2,000 copies. These figures are representative of the growing interest in the campus newspaper.

Special Education Speech

Dr. Harold Alderfer, Deputy of the Pennsylvania State Department of Public Instruction, was guest speaker at a small private conference. The conference was arranged by the Pennsylvania State Department of Public Instruction and was attended by several state clerks.

Joint Meeting Held By Science Clubs

The Philadelphia Science Club and the Pennsylvania Academy of Science will hold a joint meeting on the campus of Ursinus College. The meeting will be held on Thursday, December 12, at 7:00 PM in the Thompson Auditorium.

CHRISTMAS COMMUNICATION from Amigo

(Editors' Note: The writer of the following letter is a student who retired last year from the custodial department on campus and is now living in Spain and is written by Amigo.)

Dear Editor,

We look in the newspapers, we listen to the radio, we read the magazines, and we read the books and the newspapers. It is a pleasure to know that the world is still going on, even though we are in the middle of the Christmas season.

Sixty Fellowships Given

To the editor:

Sixty fellowships totaling $3,900,000 have been announced by the National Science Foundation. The fellowships are awarded to graduate students in the sciences. The recipients of the fellowships will be selected by the selection committees of the scientific societies.

Correction

Dr. Parsons of the History Department notified The Urismus that, in the last issue, there was a mistake in the citation of a book. The correct citation is: "The Writing of History and Biography," by Northrup Hill, Jr., as the Weekly statement incorrectly stated.

Fraternities, Sororities Spread Cheer With Orphans' Christmas Parties

A scene from the Phi Beta Kappa's party Saturday morning. Interpreted among the Norristown children are the stories of the Christmas party, with the help of the children themselves.

FILED UNDER: Christmas, Orphans, Parties
It was convenient for us to have heard Ursinus' splendid rendition of Handel's THE MESSIAH just at the time that it behooved us to say something pleasant about the season of unselfish giving. In this dreary time of year when campus pettiness, born of more or less continual association with the same people, makes the loomimg vacation particularly welcome, THE MESSIAH, with all its joyful sincerity, sung by students with no reserves other than the love of singing, imparted a timely, wholesome lift to the outlook of the campus in general.

The fact that the Chorus, some of whose members admittedly can't carry a tune in a rain barrel, had the desire to accomplish such a remarkable musical feat more than triumphed over the blackboard, fire-dial, and sterile pervades that pervades the campus throughout great segments of the academic year. Ursinus' THE MESSIAH was a case of a one-evening set of redemption.

Fraternity and sorority members, bailed often in faculty and administrative circles as disciples of Bacchus and nuguokins, seem to come into their own around Christmas time and, in many ways partake of the Christmas spirit (singular) as much, if not more, than—perish the thought—APO and the YMCA.

The Chorus, although it rehearsed more and more every year in an orderly and reverent manner, and the admirable and thoroughly enjoyable parties' shows off the social organizations to the best advantage.

It is indeed difficult for one to determine, at an orphan's party, who is having the most fun, the men and women or the boys and girls. It is the peculiar nature of the season that one can apparently become as happy creating happiness as the children can become receiving the gifts and attention.

The Holiday Here

by R. L. Steverson

The first observance of Christmas Eve Day was February 17, 1969. The date on which the Board of Directors was organized under the charter granted by the Philadelphia University February 10, 1889 and the 1969 Ex- tense, held the College should observe this anniversary. The U.S. Postal Service's first delivery of mail was delivered by the Reverend Dr. Robert Kings, who was the "sole survivor of the ministers who participated in the founding of Ursinus."

Professor of Cambridge

An article entitled "Life at an English University," written by Professor J. C. Lawrenson, was published in the Cambridge University Press and appeared in 1874. At that time Cambridge was a place of eight papers and one had to a very weakly class. Academic life was very different, which were held from nine to one. The University was composed of 17 colleges and the writer entered the royal and religious foundation of Queens' Colleges. Queen's Court was a group of which the college was a part of five of the smaller buildings. The buildings were partly in one's own college but in the college of his generation. The early afternoon was devoted to lectures on the subjects in which there was too. There were lectures in the smaller class which you more apt to attend lectures in the larger student: for most it was more a privilege. For the most part the class was a serious discipline and would probably result in expulsion. Another regulation was that one must not smoke in cap and gown, "which had to be worn at all academic exercises, in the library, and Chapel. in town dark, and on all days Sunday.

Professor Lawrenson noted that some of the new students might seem "uncomfortably strict and even too paternalistic to College-men. It should be said that the College has been concerned over students' behavior in recent years. It means that everyone takes them a matter of course but does not think them a hardship.

The evening was free but "'tis now time to begin the magic round not to be later than midnight. To do so would be a serious violation of discipline and would probably result in expulsion. Another regulation was that one must not smoke in cap and gown. "which had to be worn at all academic exercises, in the library, and Chapel. in town dark, and on all days Sunday.

Hockey... (continued from page 3) in the tournament. D.C. placed Sally Bastien, Lynne Criddle and Debbie Showalter on the all-star team. Ursin's third team were Georgia Ferrell, Anne Stanley, and Jody Smiley. Filling out the fourth team were Ursin's Pat Emery, Susan Fitch, Jill Brinton, and Linda Marlow.

The Ursinus alumni greats, Phil Stoller, Adin Brey, Sue Ashton, Sue Streger, Sue Groe, and Pat Zelli led the first Philadelphia team to an unblemished 8-0-0 mark during the weekend.

Only the best women from all sections of the county were invited to Malvern to join the host of hopeful contestants. After three days of test of performance and ability-all of the Philadelphia American team was chosen.

Player of the Week
Mark Borak's Cage Play Encouraging. Sophomore Uses Jump Shot Effectively

by Bill Pratt

If there was a bright spot in Ursinus basketball fortune this week it was sophomore forward Mark Borak. The 6' 7'' center, Indiana, point blank for 22 ps in the 95-62 blast over Susquehanna. After a first half in which Borak was a no-show, the Ursinian content, Borak hit three perfect shots from his spot midway out on the left.

Borak possesses a sharp eye and when he is in and playing against a zone defense he is nearly unstoppable. His offensive game, however, is typical of many Ursinian players; it is non-existent.

A lot of times Borak's exciting comes off "alley alley" and a short hitch in industrial league hand: a player who only played four years in high school. He contracts the ball, fires out to a teammate and shows off with that of this area.

Borak possesses a quick release and can make him a surprise scoring threat.

The Derr Hall man (two points) for the game was every as original a proposition as his more streamlined counterpart, Mark Borak, though definitely not as potent. With his Ejek height, Brosorvert, avoids great gatherings of people, i.e. the crowd in which of Franklin and Marshall. So cheerleader, Mark Borak.

Coach Fry's iconoclastic basketballer, Mark Borak.

The Derr Hall man (two points), off the court is every bit as original as one proposition as his more streamlined counterpart, Mark Borak, though definitely not as potent. With his 7' & 3/16 height, Borak is able to outjump, outreach, and outdribble his fellow travelers. His popularity is felt from the ground level to the stands, and from right to left at Eleven Games.

Mary Dawson

Mary Dawson was also awakened Saturday morning by having a dream she was "sleepy, surprised, and very much alive." She had been chosen for Who's Who. Mary has been a member of Phi Beta Kappa. Both the Board of Chemistry and the Board of Business Administration honored her with the Ford Foundation, inducting her into Phi Beta Kappa. She is a member of the Y.W.C.A., a member of the Student Government Association of Ursinus College, and a member of the Student Senate.

Barbara Eichel

Barbara Eichel, a chemistry major from Pennsylvania, was visiting in Philadelphia on Saturday morning when she overheard an announcement on the radio. She said she had to hear it so she could open her letter and read it. Barbara is a member of the Student Senate and vice president of the Y.W.C.A. She is also a member of the Alpha Delta Sigma sorority.

The Weekly Staff was praised by the President of the College for his credit to the newspaper and the quality of his product. An English major from Columbia, New Jersey, John Eichel, spent most of his morning hours in the library. However, after lunch, he will teach a course in French and will leave the campus for the weekend.

University of Chicago...

On Saturday, the Chinese Club of Arts and Sciences program includes two up to ten graduate study in the teaching field and inquiry into the culture and society. One of the years of the program provides preparation in professional biology, chemistry, Russian, French, geography, history, mathematics, physics, Russian, Spanish, and social studies.

Students with good understanding of contemporary literature and arts will be rewarded for their study in one of the twelve fields. The award includes the student's major, minor, and college major. The award also includes the student's major and minor in the field of study.

The award is a one thousand dollar scholarship, to be made each year, beginning in the fall of 1962.

MAYS, LOVENEY, NATIONAL AWARD

The award is sponsored by the late Associate Editor of the Ursinus College and Women's National Award Association. The award is given to the publisher, the authors, and the editor-in-chief of the University of Chicago, Chic Jac, Illinois.

Volleyball

The defending champions, led Brodbeck III (1) and Wise (2) to a 15-13, 15-13, and 15-13 win over the Diplomats at the Palestra. The champions dropped 15-8, 15-9, 15-9 to Brodbeck's Don White and Pete Dunn.

The Diplomats the ball and the champions to return to Harrisburg for the conference game.

The Independent...

... is a member of Alpha Phi Epsilon and a former intern. The championship team from Maine. At this time the Independent is also a member of the Student Senate and a member of the Student Senate. It is necessary only to gain the necessary votes for election, but the Independent is quite comforted. Why shouldn't we suffer when other schools more our speed are gaining the trend of conformity.
