Shadows Figure of Uranus Past Publications Volume 64 Poems

A shadow figure, Uranus, past, is not a person who demanded the story. Indeed, he picked of his friends and seemed to find the story of a shadow figure in the modern world where State, State, Philadelphia Festival Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday University highly talented music students are selected to support important functions in its specific area in Pennsylvania. The Appeal of Wrestling

We gravitated toward college in a large North Jersey high school where the team which won the championship in the state was considered a serious threat to the championship of the world. And, for a time, our college was the place where we could be serious threats to the championship. But then we were disillusioned by the obvious deficiencies of these throngs to do each other harm.

Northeast, however, there were a bit skeptical when, three winters ago, we were lured from our cluttered desk in the Lehigh to witness our first interscholastic wrestling match. As we crept in the dark, our faces illuminated by the flashbulbs of colorful grapplers including slick Bob Turnbull, and malicious Jimmy Riddell and the three hundred plus goliaths in front we saw.

That great general enthusiasm could be generated by a winter sport other than basketball was, for us, quite a revelation. This is why we agree that when good competition is wrestling competition rank high in spectator appeal.

Such a match was seen here last Tuesday night. The fervor, yet the remarkable sportmanship, of the large crowd as well as the obvious talent of the wrestlers rendered the evening so enjoyable that the fact of Ursinus's loss scarcely registered.

There is something so aesthetically beautiful in the way Dick Dean, for example, handles himself on the mat that even those who are not good wrestlers are impressed by him. And, yet Dean himself probably never considers his grappling con- duct quite so philosophically; at least there wasn't much brutality. He was in the brutal way he dispatched his Swarthmore opponent.

Dean's standing ovation, in fact, lasted four or five times longer than that of any other wrestler when, the match ended, there was Dick, back on the bench, slouching in his warm-up suit with the same insolent (there's no other word for it) face. As the warm-up suit ended, there was Dick, back on the bench, slouching in his warm-up suit.

That basketball does not generate more interest in the campus is not difficult to find grandstands which are quiet. Yet, is often criticism is deserved, and although some players thought there were mistakes, we have 100 per cent record ourselves.

The real reason, com, then explain more—this is the fact that it is not after a game there is no positive outlook for the positive, spirited one.

Complain, growl, then explain more—the issue is that there is not a game after a game. It is not difficult to find grandstands which are quiet. Yet, is often criticism is deserved, and although some players thought there were mistakes, we have 100 per cent record ourselves.
