It was a rough winter's night. A snowstorm was raging outside, making the inn as cozy as possible. The fire was burning bright, and the atmosphere was warm and inviting. The guests were enjoying their drinks, hissing the lantern so that the light was cast across the room, illuminating the faces of the patrons. It was a perfect place to escape the cold and wet world outside.

Proper Cornillon, the owner of the inn, was standing at the door, welcoming the guests. He wore a long coat and a warm hat, his face flushed from the cold.

The guests were a mix of people, from travelers to locals. One man, dressed in a black coat and hat, walked in and took a seat by the fire. He was carrying a bag, and his eyes were fixed on the door, watching for someone.

Nina, one of the waitresses, was busy serving the guests. She had a warm smile on her face and was always ready to assist anyone who needed her help.

The inn was filled with the sound of conversation and laughter, creating a lively atmosphere.

It was a night of suspense and anticipation, as everyone waited for the guests to reveal their secrets and share their stories.

Dairymen. - The Dairymen's Protective Milk Association of Perk. Co., meeting in the第四章, announced that they anticipated a larger membership this year than ever before, and that they would be held this evening, Sep. 9th.

Dr. W. A. G. Coleman, of Limerick Centre Point, moved into town last week, and is a valuable addition to the medical profession of the place.

Mr. Skeen has been in the hotel business, and has kept the Washington hotel, between Norriton and D. M. Casselberry, near Perkasie.

The Dairymen's Protective Milk Association was formed in a small room in the old Ziegler's house in East Perkasie, and has been continued in another column. Read it carefully for its literary meetings Tuesday evening, and enjoy the refreshments at the American Hotel.

IOWA EXPERIMENT STATIONS.

For the following reasons: It stands lower to the floor than any other makes; has enough height to allow of wide and bulky body and head room; the front of the shingle is entirely below the line of the ridge; the bedding is in the ridge so that it will soon grow over the ridge and become part of it, while in other cases it remains loose and looks like a fly.
