U.C. Groups Hear Dr. Adams of Yale

Last Monday evening, the Beardwood Chemical and Biological Club, in cooperation with the National Geographic Society, sponsored Dr. Albert J. Adams of Yale University Medical School for a lecture on "The Aspects of Virus Infection as Examined with the Microscope." Dr. Adams is a recognized authority on the subject and is the first to use his research, where he is using virologists, to combat diseases caused by non-bacterial agents.

Dr. Adams, an approachable, yet vigorous speaker, captivated the audience with his vivid presentation. He demonstrated how his research is shedding new light on the virus world, and the possible future of medicine.

Frosh MSGA Reps To Prepare Report On 1960 Customs

Jim Handrock called the meeting of the Men's Frosh MSGA yesterday to order. According to the results of the election, the Frosh MSGA will be held on Friday, December 2.

The newly elected Frosh MSGA officers are: Jim Handrock, chairman; Mike Woodlief, vice-president; and John Hughes, secretary.

The Frosh MSGA will work together with the marketing department to come up with a report on the Customs of 1960. The report will be used to plan for next year's freshman orientation.

President Jim Handrock said, "The Frosh MSGA is here to help. We are making suggestions for the near future."

Senior Ball Set For December

The annual Senior Ball will be held on Friday, December 9, in the Hotel Washington, hailing the class of 1960. Following the ball, the senior class will go to the Hotel Washington for a buffet dinner.

The leadership of the senior class is taking all necessary arrangements and mobilizing the whole group of seniors.

The annual Senior Ball is an event that is highly anticipated by the seniors, and is a great opportunity for them to celebrate their upcoming graduation.

On November 7 Mary Dunster and Jay Bosnai were elected to the presidency of the National Fraternal Association. Mary is an English major, and Jay Bosnai is a French major. The voting was done by preferential voting, and the results of the election will be announced at the next meeting of the senior class.

The newly elected senior class officers are: Mary Dunster, president; Jay Bosnai, vice-president; and John Hughes, secretary.

The senior class is also looking forward to their upcoming events, such as the Senior Ball, and the graduation ceremony.

The senior class is grateful to all those who have supported them throughout their college years, and is looking forward to their upcoming events.

A Review of the Student Concert

by Gail Ford

The first program in the winter series of concerts sponsored by the Department of Music in Philadelphia was given on November 19 at 8:15 o'clock. The concert was of two parts; the first, a concerto in minor, for organ, strings, and Timpani, by L. van Beethoven. Prior to the performance the group of students and faculty in attendance were introduced to the new pipe organ which was recently installed in the Academy. The performance of the concert was most enjoyable and no fault was found in it. It is true that Poulsen's concerto is an overplayed piece, but it is the truth that Alexander McQuarrie, the organist of the Academy, is an organist of such skill and execution that his interpretation of the work, coupled with the quality of the organ, brought it to a level of accomplishment not hitherto achieved.

Mr. Poulsen's organ is a composition just two years old, is a work in progress, and is considered by the composer as in a process of development. Under his leadership it is shown that the organ is a valid musical instrument. It is in the process of being transformed from the instrument of yesterday to the instrument of today. In the past, the organ has been used primarily as a solo instrument, but in the present it is being used as an instrument of orchestral music. This is a trend which is likely to continue as the organist becomes more interested in the instrument, and as the instrument itself is developed.

The Evening Concert, presented by the Harp Academy of Philadelphia was well received by the audience. The first part of the program, which included the performance of a number of compositions by Harp Academy students, was well received. The second part, which consisted of the performance of a number of compositions by Harp Academy faculty, was equally well received.

The Italian Republic is a land of beauty and grace. Its people are known for their hospitality and their love of art and music. The Academy of Music in Philadelphia is proud to have such an opportunity to present the works of one of its finest students, Mr. Poulsen, and to allow the audience to enjoy the beauty of his performance.

BOOK REVIEW

by Cindy Morris

WE THE LIVING

Application of the Russian Revolution Abroad by Professor R. B. E. S. S. H. S. P. A. with the theme of the right to the individual to the pursuit of his happiness. The living is not a story of politics or a story of toil, toil, toil and exhaustion. It is a study about a dictatorship of the proletariat which has been going on for some time. At any time it is the story of the conflict between the Reds and the Whites. It is the story of the existence of the value of human life. Life is as important as any other thing in the world. We must learn to combine intensity of conviction with a broad tolerance of difference of convictions. It is easy to be tolerant when you do not have a strong conviction, but it is heartbreaking to over the country. A divided America is not a united America. No man should appeal to the people for a solution of their problems. The majority are not always right, but we must learn to combine intensity of conviction with a broad tolerance of difference of convictions.

The author was born in Russia in 1924, and has been living in America since 1935. He has seen the conditions of Russia under the old Czar and under the new Soviet government. He has written many articles and books on the subject of Russia and its people.

The plot of the book deals mainly with the lives of two individuals who stand out from the crowd. One is a Red who wants to be a builder, and the other a liberal who wants to be a teacher. The Red is a man of action, and the liberal is a man of reason. The Red has a wife and child, and the liberal has friends and acquaintances. The Red is a man of passion, and the liberal is a man of thought. The Red is a man of courage, and the liberal is a man of caution. The Red is a man of action, and the liberal is a man of contemplation.

We are, however, about to condemn petty stubbornness, intolerance, and bigotry. To condemn another man because of his color, religion, or religious beliefs is to be as unpatriotic as it is humanly possible. A nation founded upon freedom's ideals will not survive intolerance. "Tolerance is good for all or it is for none."

As future leaders, we must learn to value others' beliefs and show honest understanding. Can teachers, lawyers, or doctors do a worthy job of teaching our children's ideas? Tolerance is not just a word applying to other people; it applies to us right here and now—and not only in political matters, but also in matters of the heart.

The United States has the wonderful opportunity to show the world that it is possible to live in peace and harmony. It is in times of disappointment that the spirit of brotherhood is most needed. It is a spirit that must remain. It is a spirit that we must not allow to be defeated by the enemies of this world. The United States is a country of freedom, and it is the duty of every citizen to uphold this freedom.

November 19 by Ray O'Donnell

Medicine and the world of sports were the topics of the first meeting of the newly formed St. John's University Alumni Association, which was held at the Hotel St. George in New York City. The meeting was well attended and the discussions were spirited.

Did you know that it was during the war with Turkey that the Pilgrims landed at Cape Cod? It was during this war that the American warship the Constitution was built. The ship was built in 1797 and was one of the first American warships to be built.

The ship was first used in the war with Turkey and was later used in the war with England. The Constitution was built under the supervision of a young man named Benjamin Franklin. Franklin was a very active member of the American Revolution and was one of the most important figures in the war.

The ship was designed to be a fast, maneuverable, and powerful warship. It was armed with 44 guns and had a crew of 200. The Constitution was a very successful ship and was used in many important battles.
