2-15-1994

The Grizzly, February 15, 1994

Erika Compton
Ursinus College

Hope Rinehimer
Ursinus College

Alina C. Morawski
Ursinus College

Amanda Finch
Ursinus College

Cynthia Babcock
Ursinus College

See next page for additional authors

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.ursinus.edu/grizzlynews

Part of the Cultural History Commons, Higher Education Commons, Liberal Studies Commons, Social History Commons, and the United States History Commons

Click here to let us know how access to this document benefits you.

Recommended Citation

Compton, Erika; Rinehimer, Hope; Morawski, Alina C.; Finch, Amanda; Babcock, Cynthia; Lampe, Barb; Leiser, Mark; Scoville, Satsuki; Crowers, Kelly; Woll, Fred; Richter, Richard P.; Rubin, Harley David; Mastrangelo, Tom; Markowski, Ed; Diamond, Jen; Zelley, Elaine; and Siggelakis, T. J., "The Grizzly, February 15, 1994" (1994). Ursinus College Grizzly Newspaper. 330. https://digitalcommons.ursinus.edu/grizzlynews/330

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Newspapers at Digital Commons @ Ursinus College. It has been accepted for inclusion in Ursinus College Grizzly Newspaper by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ Ursinus College. For more information, please contact aprock@ursinus.edu.
Authors

This book is available at Digital Commons @ Ursinus College: https://digitalcommons.ursinus.edu/grizzlynews/330
Pledging Meeting: First in a Series

BY HOPE RINEHIMER
Of the Grizzly

On February 9 at 7:30 pm, the first town meeting on pledging was held. The purpose of this gathering was to bring members of each of the Greek organizations together with alternate pledging plans.

The first part of the meeting was to bring members of each of the Greek organizations together with alternate pledging plans.

The second proposal was sort of a spin off of the first. It includes a shorter pledging program with no days off, all members of the group doing things together on campus to cut down on dangerous activities, an alumni adviser to keep things on track, training for all members prior to pledging, and a balance of ritual, charitable, social, and scholarship activities.

Many ideas were left for discussion until the next meeting to be held this week.

Ursinus Given Laboratory Glassware as Gift

Budgeted Funds Now Free For Other Uses

Ursinus College this month received nearly $25,000 worth of new laboratory glassware from Sterling Winthrop Pharmaceuticals Research Division (SWPRD). Six pallets of glassware delivered to Ursinus included cylinders, flasks, petri dishes, beakers, tubing, pipettes, and funnels. The glassware will be used by students in the chemistry and biology departments.

"We're very happy to be making this donation to Ursinus College," said Jim Boyle, assistant director, materials management, SWPRD, who explained that the gift creates a "win-win" situation for both Sterling Winthrop and Ursinus.

Sterling Winthrop will be gaining valuable storage space in its Oaks, Pa., warehouse, Boyle explained. The warehouse became filled to capacity last year following the move of the company's research and development operations from

Dr. Victor J. Tortorelli inspects some of the new glassware given to Ursinus College by Sterling Winthrop.
Global Perspectives

BY MARK LEISER
Of the Grizzly

International:
- The United States is planning a proposal to NATO that would give the Bosnian Serbs one week to lift their siege of Sarajevo. If the Serbs do not comply, they would face air strikes by allied forces. The Clinton Administration is hoping to link the ultimatum to future peace initiatives.
- Jean-Bertrand Aristide, ousted president of Haiti, has threatened to revoke a treaty with the United States on repatriating Haitian refugees. The 1981 treaty permits the U.S. Coast Guard to intercept Haitian vessels in international waters, search the ship, and return any occupants who do not qualify for refugee status back to Haiti.

National:
- The Congressional Budget Office reported last week that while President Clinton’s health care proposal would slow the growth of national health spending, the premiums needed to pay for the President’s plan. They said the plan would increase Federal budget deficits through the year 2000.
- President Clinton announced his plans for a national drug strategy that calls for increased treatment of 140,000 addicts both on the street and in prison. The 1995 plan, which Clinton calls “tough as well as caring”, will push drug treatment spending to a record $13.2 billion.

Local:
- Convinced they would be unable to re-sign pitcher Terry Mulholland if he became a free agent next fall, the Phillies traded the 30-year-old left-hander to the New York Yankees for pitcher Bobby Munoz and two minor league prospects. Mulholland went 12-9 for the Phillies last season with a 3.25 ERA.

Northeast Still Being Hit by Winter

BY MARK LEISER
Of the Grizzly

The Delaware Valley is not the only region being blasted by winter storms. Cities as far west as Fargo, North Dakota and as far south as Louisville, Kentucky are reporting record snow falls and low temperatures this season.

Some of the more interesting facts of this winter are:
- New York City’s snow-fighting budget reached dangerously low levels in mid-January, even before the major storms arrived.
- Icebreakers in the Great Lakes have freed more vessels this year than in the past three winters combined.
- The nation’s rock salt suppliers have already shipped out one million pounds more than during all of last winter.
- Snowfall amounts continue to soar and records continue to be broken.

Boston has received thirty-six inches of snow more than normal, while Fargo, North Dakota and Charleston, West Virginia are not far behind at thirty-five and thirty-one inches above normal, respectively.

People everywhere are trying to cope with the bitter cold temperatures, but just mere exposure to the air is enough to pose serious risks. Before the storm on Friday, the death toll had risen to 140 people. These cases include everything from frost-bite to falls to traffic accidents.

There doesn’t appear to be an end in sight as forecasters seem to feel that these conditions could continue into the end of this week. So, the next time you slip on the ice or your car battery goes dead, try not to think about those fortunate people in Washington State and Oregon who are experiencing on of their mildest winters on record.

News

AIRBAND to Help Local

BY SATSUKI SCOVILLE
Special to the Grizzly

Tabitha Buckingham likes sports, video games, and “Home Improvement”. She dreams of going to Florida State University and of one day meeting Shaq O’Neal. She isn’t too different than any other young high school sophomore, but she is. Tabitha was diagnosed with cancer not too long ago. A cordoma tumor had been found growing at the base of her neck. The medical technicalities are unimportant, what matters is Tabitha’s life.

Due to extensive surgery and the severity of her condition, steel rods now replace most of the bones in her neck, and to help the post-operative healing process, she must be restrained in a halo for the next several months. Tabby’s activities have become limited. She must avoid anything that could cause a sudden impact on her head and neck region. This means eliminating many of the sports in which Tabby had excelled.

Although this all sounds very dismal and depressing, Tabby is not alone. She has the support of her loving family. Her father, Bill, had recently enrolled at Ursinus. However, as Tabby’s condition grew in severity, he was forced to not only give up his business but also to take a leave of absence from Ursinus. He gave up everything in order to work double shifts to get money to pay for Tabby’s chemotherapy, a treatment she desperately needs.

Mrs. Buckingham has devoted all of her time to being at home with Tabby. On top of Tabby’s medical expenses and those that normally accompany raising a family, the Buckinghams are also putting their two older daughters through college.

Because they are a few months late paying their rent, their apartment complex met to decide whether or not they should be allowed to stay. Luckily the vote was in their favor. What about next time?

The Buckinghams are in need of assistance. Tabby needs our help. Although Tabby is limited physically, she knows no other limits. She is no different than any one of us. Now, she is counting on us to help make a difference in her life.

Editors Note: All AIRBAND proceeds will go the Buckingham family. It will be held Feb. 18.

Roving Reporter

BY CYNTHIA BABCOCK & BARB LAMPE
Of the Grizzly

The administration recently formed a committee to examine pledging and its goals. How do you feel about administration trying to change pledging?

Jim Kais - Senior - Delta Pi Sigma
I do not feel as though pledging needs to be drastically changed. There is nothing that a pledge does now that I wouldn’t do myself (for a second time).

Andria Dealtime - Junior - Independent
I do not believe that the administration should get involved with pledging activities. I think that the administration should put enough faith in its students (especially the Greeks) that they know what is best for their pledges.

Melanie Williams - Sophomore - Tau Sigma Gamma
Pledging should not be touched. It isn’t full of traditions that administration would not understand. Pledging is the only way to bring unity and if it is changed, sisterhood/brotherhood will not be the same.

Brian Wilson - Junior - Phi Omega Delta
I think that the administration has an obligation to act in the best interest of the school - but sometimes I question whether they really care about the students or if it is just a matter of good press and reputation.

Matt Cordes - Senior - Alpha Phi Omega
I think that the administration feels a need to have a hand in the way everything is run, but there is something to be said for tradition. If Greeks don’t want to change, then they should do so. But administration should not be able to tell them what is and what is not “proper” pledging.

Trina Petroksi - Junior - Phi Alpha Psi
If Greeks don’t want to change, then all of the administration’s efforts will be a flop. Know what I mean?

Mark Leiser - Sophomore - Independent
I feel that the administration has every right to monitor pledging IF they think there are illegal or dangerous activities taking place. However, they must realize that we are in college now, and that students here should be responsible enough to make choices as to what is right and wrong.

Kathy Tatsis - Senior - Independent
I think that if change is going to come, and if it is going to be successful, it is going to have to take equal participation of Greeks and the administration. If Greeks don’t want to change, then all of the administration’s efforts will be a flop. Know what I mean?

Satsuki Scoville - Senior - Independent
It seems that the committee that was formed to look into pledging has a balanced group of people who will hopefully come to a consensus about pledging that satisfies all involved. If Greek organizations feel that administration is “interfering” by reevaluating the pledging system, then perhaps that is an indication that a change is needed.
PROFESSOR PROFILE:

Tom Whalen

BY AMANDA FINCH
Special to the Grizzly

Well, hello out there fellow Ursinusians. As of late, the paper has been getting bigger and better with an addition here and an addition there, so… it’s time for yet another new column.

I hope to keep all of you culturally conscientious readers up to date with the happenings of the Pro-Theater Group, Communication Arts Department, and other interesting cultural things in the Ursinus world. So, if anyone out there in Readerland has a hot item to make the campus aware of, let me know and I’ll get my pen in hand. For now, I’d like to present a profile of a new professor on campus as of last semester—Dr. Tom Whalen.

Tom  is a professor in our Communication Arts department who came to us from Denver, Colorado. He worked towards his Ph.D. at the University of Denver while simultaneously teaching at Regis College, a local Denver Community College, and a prisoner education program. He ventured in the Collegeville direction on the recommendation of a colleague, as well as having a desire to teach at a small liberal arts college with a goo! academic background—yep, that’s us.

I asked Whalen what he thought of his first taste of the East Coast and what it had to offer. He said it was rather (unsuccessfully) for the Jeopardy! College Tournament. I was able to seize all these great opportunities not because I knew the right people, but rather because I always have my ears alert and eyes open for a chance to “send a postcard.”

People always ask me “How did you get tickets?” I thought it would be a service to everyone who is interested to print what information I do have in The Grizzly. Here it is…

For tickets to Letterman, send a postcard to:

Ed Sullivan Theatre
1697 Broadway
New York, New York 10019

It may take as long as four months, but the tickets are free. Standby tickets are also free. To get them, be at the Sullivan Theatre at the above address at noon on the day of taping. They hand these tickets out one per person.

For Conan O’Brien, send a postcard to:

NBC Tickets
The Conan O’Brien Show
30 Rockefeller Plaza
New York, New York 10112

The wait for these tickets is about a month, but they, too, are free. Standby tickets are given out at 4:15 on taping days at the studio, up to four per person.

The NBC address given above can also be used in August (only) for Saturday Night Live and Seinfeld. Both shows are free.

You can request specific dates for Conan O’Brien, but the show cannot guarantee that you will get them.

The chance to try out for the Jeopardy! College Tournament came to me from a postcard response. I sent it to the address given at the end of the show. Some people send hundreds of postcards for a chance, so I was rather fortunate to get in with just one attempt. Even though I didn’t make the cuts, I had a blast.

As for the Phillies, I won a chance to buy these in-demand tickets by sending my name in to Veterans Stadium. I followed the specific instructions to send only one card per address, but I also used the addresses of four close friends. Only one of my friends received a letter, but that was all it took to get me there. The address was announced on Channel 6. This was just a matter of tuning in at the right time and having a pencil and paper close by to take down the important facts.

Always remember to follow the directions you are given. Some places will disqualify you if you send too many postcards. Many places will not accept letters; you should always send postcards and supply the following information: your request, your name, address, phone number and age.

Best wishes, and I hope you have as many great chances and experiences as I have had by using the power of the postcard.
GALA Retools

BY KELLY CROWERS
Special to the Grizzly

GALA (Gay and Lesbian Association) has changed its name and its philosophy. The acronym GALA now stands for Gay and Lesbian and Allies. The new philosophy, “Straight Not Narrow,” now welcomes not only homosexual men and women, but also heterosexual men and women.

The objective of the group is to improve and strengthen the view of the entire campus towards not only homosexuality, but all diverse groups. The group is dedicated to the education and acceptance of all people, lifestyles and views.

The atmosphere on the Ursinus campus tends to be very closed-minded and not a place where homosexual students feel comfortable being “out.”

The new philosophy of GALA is one that will attempt to make this campus one on which ALL students, regardless of their sex, race, age, and/or sexual orientation can live, socialize and learn together.

We are inviting the entire Ursinus community to attend the next meeting of GALA. Please come out and bring your ideas and an open mind. Help make Ursinus a true liberal arts college.

Don’t forget Tom Paniccia, a speaker on gays in the military, tonight in the Olin Auditorium.

What Fred Said

BY FRED WOLL
Of The Grizzly

It’s that time of year again (sorry for the cliché Dr. Volkmer). Love is in the air. No, I’m not talking about pledging. I’m talking about Valentine’s Day. On Monday, February 14th, sweethearts all over the place will be giving each other “Valentines.” The question is: why? Call me a bitter, cynical old man if you will (I will), but I don’t really like this holiday. I think it’s stupid. I mean, what’s the point? If you have someone who’s your girlfriend (unlike me) or boyfriend, you’re obligated to spend money you don’t have on that person, or you’ll get in trouble. And if you do have money, you’re obligated to get them something traditional, like a heart-shaped box of chocolates or something. Then there’s the potential for real trouble, because if you’re a guy, you might be implying that your girlfriend is fat. Bang. You’re dead. There isn’t quite the same onus on the girl. She can get her sweetheart anything she wants. Lord help him if she gets him something, and then she doesn’t like what he got her (if anything).

Then of course, there are those tragic people (like me), who don’t have a Valentine. Personally, I don’t really care. As I’ve stated, I think that it’s a stupid holiday anyway. But from what I understand, Valentine’s Day can be pretty depressing for some people. Maybe they recently broke up from a relationship, or maybe it just brings back bad memories. I asked some people about it, guys and girls, and was surprised by the number of people that said that they didn’t like it either. Jen Wolf, a senior, stated that, “Seeing happy people makes me mad.” Cynthia Babcock, also a senior, said that she felt that Valentine’s Day was over-emphasized, saying, “Why should there only be one day when your boyfriend or girlfriend has to be nice to you? It should be every day.”

Krag Bano, famous senior, and my roommate, was quoted as saying “It’s pointless. I haven’t enjoyed a Valentine’s Day since sophomore year in high school. And that’s only because I got (censored) and a balloon.” And finally Nick Humphrey, freshman and known Casanova, mournfully replied, “It used to be my favorite holiday, but this year it won’t, because I just broke up with my girlfriend.”

So am I justified here or what? I could only find one person who actually liked Valentine’s Day. Joy O’Grady, senior, giggled when I asked, and replied that “Yes, because I have a special someone.”

So what’s my point? I don’t know. I don’t often have one. Harley David Rubin seems to think that Valentine’s Day is a conspiracy created by greeting card companies. I don’t know. Like maybe Hallmark executives all got together and sent out subliminal messages saying, “You will buy cheesy cards.” over and over. Of course, Harley also thinks that rooting for the Dallas Cowboys can give you prostate cancer. So you’ll have to formulate your own opinions on this one. But it seems that for such an anticipated holiday, Valentine’s Day isn’t that happy an occasion for many people. That’s too bad. But not to worry, because Tuesday, February 15th, is a holiday that I do like. Tuesday is Fastnacht’s Day. That means a whole lot of donuts. And I like donuts.

Fitness Forum

BY ELAINE ZELLEY
Of The Grizzly

Like most of the Ursinus student population, you’re sick-congested, coughing, sneezing, wheezing or feverish. Yet, despite the fact that we may be feeling under the weather, many of us persist in pushing ourselves to the limit. And for those of us who regularly engage in fitness activities, either playing a sport or on our own, we may find that cold or no cold, we try to continue our workout schedule. However, just how smart is this?

According to David Nieman, associate professor of Health, Leisure and Exercise Science at Appalachian State University in Boone, N.C., when sick with a cold, it is best to lower the intensity of exercise and keep your heart rate below 60 percent. This is because when we exert ourselves beyond 60 percent of our maximal heart rate, we increase the production of the stress hormone epinephrine, which is associated with a decrease in immunity.

If mildly sick, according to Nieman, we do not need to change our activity or skip practice, we simply need to do our routine at a lowered intensity.

It is also noted that exercisers should not workout at all with a fever above 101 degrees or during the acute phases (severe congestion, chills, coughing, exhaustion) of a virus. This applies for skiers as well, who should remain fireside or in bed rather than on the slopes when experiencing acute viral symptoms. In fact, fatal arrhythmias have been reported with otherwise healthy military recruits who engage in heavy physical training during colds.

Cont. on next page...

GALA Retools

BY KELLY CROWERS
Special to the Grizzly

GALA (Gay and Lesbian Association) has changed its name and its philosophy. The acronym GALA now stands for Gay and Lesbian and Allies. The new philosophy, “Straight Not Narrow,” now welcomes not only homosexual men and women, but also heterosexual men and women.

The objective of the group is to improve and strengthen the view of the entire campus towards not only homosexuality, but all diverse groups. The group is dedicated to the education and acceptance of all people, lifestyles and views.

The atmosphere on the Ursinus campus tends to be very closed-minded and not a place where homosexual students feel comfortable being “out.”

The new philosophy of GALA is one that will attempt to make this campus one on which ALL students, regardless of their sex, race, age, and/or sexual orientation can live, socialize and learn together.

We are inviting the entire Ursinus community to attend the next meeting of GALA. Please come out and bring your ideas and an open mind. Help make Ursinus a true liberal arts college.

Don’t forget Tom Paniccia, a speaker on gays in the military, tonight in the Olin Auditorium.

What Fred Said

BY FRED WOLL
Of The Grizzly

It’s that time of year again (sorry for the cliché Dr. Volkmer). Love is in the air. No, I’m not talking about pledging. I’m talking about Valentine’s Day. On Monday, February 14th, sweethearts all over the place will be giving each other “Valentines.” The question is: why? Call me a bitter, cynical old man if you will (I will), but I don’t really like this holiday. I think it’s stupid. I mean, what’s the point? If you have someone who’s your girlfriend (unlike me) or boyfriend, you’re obligated to spend money you don’t have on that person, or you’ll get in trouble. And if you do have money, you’re obligated to get them something traditional, like a heart-shaped box of chocolates or something. Then there’s the potential for real trouble, because if you’re a guy, you might be implying that your girlfriend is fat. Bang. You’re dead. There isn’t quite the same onus on the girl. She can get her sweetheart anything she wants. Lord help him if she gets him something, and then she doesn’t like what he got her (if anything).

Then of course, there are those tragic people (like me), who don’t have a Valentine. Personally, I don’t really care. As I’ve stated, I think that it’s a stupid holiday anyway. But from what I understand, Valentine’s Day can be pretty depressing for some people. Maybe they recently broke up from a relationship, or maybe it just brings back bad memories. I asked some people about it, guys and girls, and was surprised by the number of people that said that they didn’t like it either. Jen Wolf, a senior, stated that, “Seeing happy people makes me mad.” Cynthia Babcock, also a senior, said that she felt that Valentine’s Day was over-emphasized, saying, “Why should there only be one day when your boyfriend or girlfriend has to be nice to you? It should be every day.”

Krag Bano, famous senior, and my roommate, was quoted as saying “It’s pointless. I haven’t enjoyed a Valentine’s Day since sophomore year in high school. And that’s only because I got (censored) and a balloon.” And finally Nick Humphrey, freshman and known Casanova, mournfully replied, “It used to be my favorite holiday, but this year it won’t, because I just broke up with my girlfriend.”

So am I justified here or what? I could only find one person who actually liked Valentine’s Day. Joy O’Grady, senior, giggled when I asked, and replied that “Yes, because I have a special someone.”

So what’s my point? I don’t know. I don’t often have one. Harley David Rubin seems to think that Valentine’s Day is a conspiracy created by greeting card companies. I don’t know. Like maybe Hallmark executives all got together and sent out subliminal messages saying, “You will buy cheesy cards.” over and over. Of course, Harley also thinks that rooting for the Dallas Cowboys can give you prostate cancer. So you’ll have to formulate your own opinions on this one. But it seems that for such an anticipated holiday, Valentine’s Day isn’t that happy an occasion for many people. That’s too bad. But not to worry, because Tuesday, February 15th, is a holiday that I do like. Tuesday is Fastnacht’s Day. That means a whole lot of donuts. And I like donuts.

Fitness Forum

BY ELAINE ZELLEY
Of The Grizzly

Like most of the Ursinus student population, you’re sick-congested, coughing, sneezing, wheezing or feverish. Yet, despite the fact that we may be feeling under the weather, many of us persist in pushing ourselves to the limit. And for those of us who regularly engage in fitness activities, either playing a sport or on our own, we may find that cold or no cold, we try to continue our workout schedule. However, just how smart is this?

According to David Nieman, associate professor of Health, Leisure and Exercise Science at Appalachian State University in Boone, N.C., when sick with a cold, it is best to lower the intensity of exercise and keep your heart rate below 60 percent. This is because when we exert ourselves beyond 60 percent of our maximal heart rate, we increase the production of the stress hormone epinephrine, which is associated with a decrease in immunity.

If mildly sick, according to Nieman, we do not need to change our activity or skip practice, we simply need to do our routine at a lowered intensity.

It is also noted that exercisers should not workout at all with a fever above 101 degrees or during the acute phases (severe congestion, chills, coughing, exhaustion) of a virus. This applies for skiers as well, who should remain fireside or in bed rather than on the slopes when experiencing acute viral symptoms. In fact, fatal arrhythmias have been reported with otherwise healthy military recruits who engage in heavy physical training during colds.

Cont. on next page...
the acute stage of a viral illness.

Individuals taking medication, especially antibiotics, should also take caution when exercising. According to Cardiologist James Rippe, M.D., certain medicines do not allow the body to sweat normally. As with a viral-induced fever, this could cause internal body temperature to rise, which, in turn, strains the heart.

If sick with a cold, your best bet is to listen to your body. If you must exercise, train or attend practice, proceed with caution and consult a physician.

Some “Under The Weather” Exercise Tips
1. During the first days of a cold, keep heart rate below 60 percent.
2. Stay hydrated by drinking lots of water and fluids.
3. Eat balanced meals, especially fruits and veggies.
4. Do not attempt to diet or restrict calories while sick.
5. Go slowly, especially at higher altitudes.
6. Sleep.
7. Listen to the warning signs that your body sends.

The Origin of Saint Valentine’s Day
Saint Valentine’s Day, believe it or not, began in possibly the most unromantic way. Saint Valentine, the Bishop of Terni, was an early Christian martyr commonly regarded as the patron saint of lovers. He was said to have been executed on February 14, about the year 269. The interesting part is there was possibly another Saint Valentine of Rome who was said to have been executed on the same day. Whether both of these saints existed is not known for sure. Early records indicate that they were beheaded on the Flaminian Way, one near Rome and the other in Terni. However, there may have only been one Valentine who perhaps was taken from one city to the other for the execution.

Early Christian tradition exchange of “valentines,” or love-tokens which appeared in the late Middle Ages had most probably only an accidental connection with St. Valentine and owed its origin rather to the conventional medieval belief, held generally in France and England, that it was at the start of the second fortnight of the second month that the birds began to mate. “For this was on seynt Valentyne’s day,” wrote Chaucer, “when every foul cometh there to chese his mate.”

Be an editor!!
Editor positions for the 1994-95 year are available for The Grizzly, The Lantern, and The Ruby. If interested, pick up an application in Dr. Volkmer’s office (Olin 313) as soon as possible. Deadline for applications is March 4, 1994. Experience preferred but NOT necessary.

Do You Want VISA & MasterCard Credit Cards?
Now you can have two of the most recognized and accepted credit cards in the world...VISA® and MasterCard® credit cards..."In your name." EVEN IF YOU ARE NEW IN CREDIT OR HAVE BEEN TURNED DOWN BEFORE!

VISA® and MasterCard® the credit cards you deserve and need for—ID—BOOKS—DEPARTMENT STORES—TUTITION—ENTERTAINMENT—EMERGENCY CASH—TICKETS—RESTAURANTS—HOTELS—MOTELS—CARS—CAR RENTALS—REPAIRS—AND TO BUILD YOUR CREDIT RATING!

No turn downs!
No credit checks!
No security deposit!

Send the coupon today
Your credit cards are waiting!

EZ-CARD, BOX 16516, ATLANTA, GA 30321

YES! I want VISA®/MASTERCARD® Credit Cards approved immediately. 100% GUARANTEED!

NAME ________________________________

ADDRESS ________________________________

CITY ________ STATE ______ ZIP ________

STUDENT? Yes _ No ______ S.S.# ______

SIGNATURE ________________________________

NOTE: MasterCard is a registered trademark of MasterCard International Inc. Visa is a registered trademark of Visa USA, Inc. and Visa International.

MAIL THIS NO RISK COUPON TODAY.
CHOICES: An alumnus who served on our Board of Directors and is now retired continues to receive in the mail copies of The Grizzly and the campus Gazette. He recently wrote to tell me of an impression he received from the reports from campus: “After months of faithfully scanning the Gazette and weekly calendar, the overwhelming impression I have is that the staff and faculty are running around like scurrying mice providing for the entertainment, entertainment, entertainment of the students, filling every ticking minute of the clock with something to do or watch or listen to when not locked in on TV. I wonder, when they do study or attend classes?”

He had a point, I thought. Given the first priority for students—hard study in course work—the College should make it clear that other experiences almost always are secondary.

However, much on the crowded schedule of the College is not intended to entertain but to educate. Moreover, the campus community, for better or worse, is no longer the tight island it was in earlier years. While it is still a small community, it is made up of students, faculty, and staff with a broad range of interests. This is the consequence of efforts to make the College less parochial and more diverse. The programming of activities and speakers for this kind of campus inevitably leads to a broader menu.

No one student could attend all or most of the functions on the College calendar while doing a responsible job of studying. To the best of my knowledge, no student attempts to do such a thing. Each picks and chooses according to interest and preference.

When the 125th Anniversary committee was thinking about ways to celebrate, the students on the committee requested that we in some way tell the story of the Ursinus of yesterday. Whatever the motive for that nostalgic impulse, it seemed to call for contrasts between the way we do our educational work today and the way it was done in the past. Our alum-critic’s comment certainly affords us an opportunity to see a contrast between a rich list of campus events today with a fairly sparse one in his student days and mine.

Not many years ago, when serious outside speakers visited campus, the College required students to give priority to attending the events. Attendance cards were distributed at the start of each semester to all students; they turned them in at the door when an event took place (we called it “The Forum”) and their semester record in the Registrar’s Office was duly noted. While faculty and students alike came to see this as a “Mickey Mouse” way to induce interest, it had the virtue of focusing attention on the visitors’ ideas. It was one way to encourage a discourse across the campus.

Now students are responsible for making their own choices about attending campus events. Our alum-critic and I would concur that attending and studying for classes and doing research should always be the first choice no matter how many events are scheduled.

“Attending and studying for classes . . . should always be the first choice, no matter how many events are scheduled.”

Censorship Sucks...heh heh

—Society sucks. Heh heh.
—Yeah. Heh heh heh.
—They’re like, blaming it on us.
—Cool.

Beavis and Butthead, ladies and gentlemen! The most lovable morons on MTV (other than Pauly, who is not lovable). Senator Ernest Hollings (D., South Carolina) lovingly refers to them as “Beaver and Buffcoat” and blames them for society’s ills, then claims never to have seen the show.

For those of you who have never seen “Beavis and Butthead,” it is an animated half-hour show on MTV that features two pubescent idiots who sit around and watch videos. They usually rate these videos with “this sucks” or “this is cool.” Once in a while, they will make fun of or worship the rock stars on the screen, depending if it is Vince Neil of Motley Crue or White Zombie.

When B & B venture into the outside world, it is either to school (“sucks”), their jobs at Burger World (“sucks unless we get to break or burn stuff”), or the Maxi-Mart (“cool—a chick hangout”). Their futile attempts at meeting women or even looking at women usually end up in the dumper.

A woman who lived in a trailer park and had her son burn down their trailer (consequently killing her young daughter) automatically blamed B & B. Beavis is the pyromaniac, and since these claims, the show has dropped all content pertaining to fire from the new episodes.

But startling revelations have recently unfolded. A neighbor has claimed that the woman never had cable TV—thus, her son could not have seen B & B! This same neighbor described the boy as a pyromaniac long before this incident.

More disconcerting is the fact that B & B have been moved from 7:00 P.M. to 10:00 P.M. weeknights. I suppose the juvenile delinquents whose behaviors were reinforced by B & B at 7:00 can’t stay up until 10:00 to see the show. And the good little boys and girls have had their parents suddenly appear out of the thin air to say “go to bed before 10:00 so you can’t watch Beavis & Butthead.”

I have watched almost every episode of Beavis & Butthead. My parents, bless them, have even sat through an episode or two. My younger brothers have watched almost as much as I. Not one of us has flicked a Big and torched the house or another human being.

Is my family better than yours? Absolutely not.

So what is the answer? I don’t know. But I do know that I miss watching at 7:00. Where’s my lighter? Oh that’s right, I don’t have one. Maybe I’ll go to the Maxi-Mart.

Harley David Rubin departs from his sports tripe to comment on society.
NEW TRACK & FIELD COACHES HIRED

AD Davidson praises staff; team looking forward to success

BY T. J. SIGGELAKIS
Grizzly Sportswriter

This past week, the Ursinus College track team hired a new head coach along with three assistants. Athletic Director Dr. Randy Davidson has said that this is the best coaching staff in the Centennial Conference.

New head coach Peter Crooke formerly guided the Harriton (Pa.) High School team to many championships. Assistant Coach Rick Hess, an Ursinus graduate, has returned for his second year of coaching. Both of the other assistant coaches, Mr. Medina and Mrs. Pulio, are well-qualified and come from winning programs.

The season begins after spring break, but training is already underway. If you are interested in coming out for the team, we could use talent in the following events: the 100; the 200; the 400; the 800; the 1,500; the 5,000; along with hurdles and all of the field events (shot put, discus, javelin, long jump, triple jump, and pole vault).

Both males and females are encouraged. If you are interested, please contact one of the captains: T. J. Siggelakis at 454-1070, Bryan Savitz at 454-7850, or Eric Widmaier at 454-0156.

COMING SOON:
Previews of baseball, softball, golf, tennis, and more--if we get writers!
WRESTLING DESTROYS ALL COMPETITION

Bears end season at 14-1; ready for Centennial Conference Championships

BY ED MARKOWSKI
Grizzly Sportswriter

The Ursinus College wrestling team travelled to Johns Hopkins this weekend, and on the way, picked up Swarthmore College for the quad meet that also included Haverford College. It was a very productive weekend, as eight Ursinus wrestlers won all three of their bouts, and the Bears outscored their opponents 137-9.

It only took a combined 62 seconds for the team to take a quick 12-0 lead against Haverford College. Darren Torsone (118 lbs.) and Tom Guzzo (126 lbs.) pinned opponents in 17 seconds and 45 seconds, respectively. The two pins were followed by back-to-back forfeits at 134 lbs. and 142 lbs.

Mike Ortmann had a 13-3 major decision at 150 lbs., and Greg Loebach won an 8-3 decision at 158 lbs. to round out the action.

Haverford College forfeited the last four weight classes as UC won 55-0.

In the second match, the Bears defeated Swarthmore 47-3. After a forfeit in the 118 lbs. bout, Tom Guzzo (126 lbs.) won an 11-4 decision to give Ursinus a 9-0 advantage. Brian Wilson had a pin in the 134-lb. weight class. Already winning 6-0, Wilson used a cradle to finish his opponent in 4:48. Forfeits in the 142- and 150-lb. bouts gave the Bears a 27-0 lead.

Freshman Mike Walters lost a close 3-1 bout at 158 lbs. to give Swarthmore their only points of the match. Don Solomon (167 lbs.) also used a cradle to dispose of his opponent in 1:07. Josh Carter followed with a 9-4 decision. Brian Edens posted a 12-4 technical fall at 177 lbs. and Cameron Shepard had a pin in the 190-lb. and the heavyweight division bouts, respectively.

Ursinus continued their winning ways against host Johns Hopkins. The Bears started things off by winning the first five weight classes. Torsone decision his opponent 7-2 and Guzzo had an 8-2 decision. Brian Wilson wrestled to an 11-2 major decision, Kirk Holt shut out his opponent at 142 lbs., and Mike Ortmann followed with a pin in 1:21.

Two decisions at 158 lbs. and 167 lbs. gave the Blue Jays their only points of the match (Ursinus lost a team point in the 146-lb. bout for unsportsmanlike conduct). Josh Carter posted a 17-0 technical fall in the 177-lb. bout, and the Bears finished the match with pins by Edens and Shepard to make the final score 35-6.

The Bears finished the regular season at a stellar 14-1, and look forward to the inaugural Centennial Conference Championships this Saturday, beginning at 10:00 AM in Helfferich Hall. Both Kirk Holt (142 lbs.) and Brian Edens (190 lbs.) are taking undefeated dual meet records into the championships. Come on down to Helfferich on Saturday and watch an exciting and talented UC wrestling team go for it all!!

Sports

SPORTS BEAT

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 15
Women's Basketball vs. Muhlenberg 7:00 PM

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 16
Men's Basketball (JV) at Muhlenberg 6:00 PM
Men's Basketball (V) at Muhlenberg 8:00 PM

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 17
Women's Basketball vs. Allentown 7:00 PM

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 18
Men's & Women's Swimming at Centennial Conference Championships

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 19
Men's & Women's Swimming at Centennial Conference Championships

Wrestling vs. Centennial Conf. Championships 10:00 AM
Men's Basketball (JV) at Haverford 4:00 PM
Women's Basketball at Haverford 6:00 PM
Men's Basketball (V) at Haverford 8:00 PM

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 20
Gymnastics at Ithaca 1:00 PM

Attention!!!
Writers needed--all sports.
Call Harley at 454-0384 or Tom at 454-1024 NOW!!!

Sports

BY HARLEY DAVID RUBIN
The Envy of Editors Everywhere

Last Saturday night, a few friends and I sat around. We (the legal ones, that is—Heaven forbid minors drinking on this campus) had a few beers, some Dr. Peppers (Amaretto sinus), some Dr. Peppers (Amaretto sinus), and a ton of fun on the E-mail “LambdaMoo” thing.

Being a newcomer without an account (I’m going to get one soon), I simply watched through fuzzy eyes as the typist conversed with people from Texas, New York, Wisconsin, and other scenic places.

This truly amazed me. I thought I was on top of the whole computer generation. Just when I was getting comfortable with Super Nintendo, Sega, WordPerfect and PageMaker, along comes the TelNet, InterNet, and the information superhighway. I suppose I’ve just become a speed bump.

Maybe if you behave yourselves, I’ll give you my forthcoming E-mail address.

On to things I do understand (or at least think I do). The Phillies, after the trade rumors had died, finally pulled the trigger and dealt veteran outfielder pitcher Terry Mulholland (12-9, 3.25 ERA) to the New York Yankees for Bobby Munoz, Kevin Jordan, and Ryan Karp. Munoz is a hard-throwing righthander who could be the next David West, the next Mitch Williams, or the next Ron Reed. Jordan is a power-hitting second baseman who is an insurance policy if Mariano Duncan leaves. Karp is a finesse pitcher who won’t be a tentative Thumbs Up from here. As for the NBA All-Star Weekend, I’d rather be doing naked butt-slides down icy Main Street. 76ers Jeff Hornacek won the title of best all-around shooter—shocker? Not here. Another 76er, Dana Barros, competing well in the three-point contest? A no-brainer. He’s a great shooter before he came here.

Why do I sound bitter? Because I believe that All-Star games suck anymore. Baseball—the AL thrashes the NL because they draft bigger power hitters. Football’s Pro Bowl—it’s in Hawaii, people just get jealous and tune out. Hockey—a goal-scoring fiesta. And back to basketball—possibly the best of these, although I believe if Michael Jordan said “I’m retired, but I’d like to play in the All-Star game,” commissioner David Stern would ask “What number do you want?” before Michael could change his mind.

And Michael. What a story this guy is. You read here last week that I disapprove of Michael’s attempts to play baseball. But sportswriters across the country are now hailing this as the world’s greatest athlete and his return to the sport he truly loved. Gag. Let’s face facts—even if he makes the big club (by some miracle), he’ll have second thoughts about the whole thing after his first look at Randy Johnson’s 100-m.p.h. fastball. Look what it did to John Kruk at the last All-Star game (ha).

Wow, am I cynical. You know who else is cynical? Tris “No Hablo” English, who was the first to get last week’s “Cheers” Trivia Answer: Barfly Tom Babson passed the bar exam (or the “bah exahm” in Bostonte) and defended Sam in his first case ever. Diane was suing Sam for chassing and injuring her after she rejected his marriage proposal for the umpteenth time. After he was forced to propose again by the judge (Tom’s idea), Sam and Diane decided to give in to the inevitable.

What’s inevitable is this week’s C.H.O.C.R.‘s “Cheers” Trivia Question: What is printed on the sign mounted over the copy machine in Rebecca’s office?

Before I get out of here, I’d like to send out a belated Happy Birthday to News Editor Erika “Straight Out of” Compton, who is 69! She looks great for her age. Ask her about her grandkids.

Harley David Rubin has directed 13 major motion pictures, including “Taxi Driver 2: Travis Meets the Gunna House,” in which Travis Bickle returns from the dead to trick unsuspecting sisters in lingerie into bite-size pieces. His next film is still being edited, tentatively titled “The Fish That Digests Pittsburgh.”