Magazine Sponsors Religion Contest

Is campus religion vital? That was the question asked on the first page of the new issue of Phi Omega Magazine. Approximately \( \frac{2}{3} \) of the students at the University of California at Berkeley, and more than \( \frac{1}{9} \) of the students at the University of Michigan, have no religious affiliation. Church membership is declining nationwide. The question now stands: Is campus religion vital?

The Inter-Denominational Council has tentatively approved a program for three weeks of intensive study of campuses. The first phase of the study will be formal. The study will be planned in three parts. First it will be planned for the fall semester of the next year, and secondly, for the spring semester of the following year. A total of \( \frac{2}{3} \) of the students at the University of California at Berkeley, and more than \( \frac{1}{9} \) of the students at the University of Michigan, have no religious affiliation. Church membership is declining nationwide. The question now stands: Is campus religion vital?

MINOR BIRDS

Status-Seeking Only?
In the STATUS-SEEKERS, Vance Packard informs us that we tend to strive throughout our lives to establish a position of some particular kind in the scheme of things. However, we can only desire to be the champion of freedom of thought for all through the world.

"Radiation?" you ask, "is it really real?" Take, for example, when we buy our courses, we don't always know exactly what they are, but what is expected of us is to show up for class with a clear conscience, and to consider the results of the course for other purposes than just to gain knowledge. When we graduate, we don't know exactly what these courses may be applied for, but we do know that the knowledge we acquire is of a general nature, and that we have acquired it by the process of being exposed to a series of experiences. We are not expected to be responsible for our actions, but we are expected to be able to make decisions in a responsible manner.

Mermaids Organize for Season with 10 Returnees

The 1961 Ursinus girls swimming team shows great possibilities this year, and the mermaids are asking for a winning season.

The returning team, as co-captains Dorothy Schachtel and Barbara Spence, are joined by Nancy Hanger, Grace Falzone, Terri Perry, Judy Hernandez, and Kate Leslie, coupled with such promising freshmen as Patricia Rose, Claire Dentler, Judy Bader, Betty Kleintges, and Joan Kleinwell with a desire to win and try for the best possible team for the future.

As an added bonus for a stronger and more experienced team, the university now offers a program to continue in the University of Pennsylvania every Saturday morning to make up for its regulation size pool and excellent diving board.

Girls' Breadmon Prepare

For Winning Season

Seeking its sixth straight undefeated and second straight season, the Ursinus girls' track team will open the 1961 campaign against Chestnut Hill on February 14 on the home court. Under the coaching of Miss B. Hart and captained by Carol Heidinger, the team will have many experienced players returning. Only the number 2 and number 3 singles players, Jeanne Gehrke and Fannie Hester and the doubles player Wether Sporer were action last year. Besides Carol Heidinger, others returning to the varsity are Cheryl Alexander, Janet Fry, Janet Schneider and Adele Blatt.

The JV team will have all of its players returning which include Kathy Drager, Ruthie Fistcher, Donna Kryt, Phyllis Longstreth, Arlene Mumbarger and Barbara Popp. From gossip and Gross's diary should add much strength to the team. Judie Tomkins will serve as manager.

The Bears were unable to find a defender to cover the Ursinus attack, and they constantly allowed the easy bear to touch the floor. The game showed that defense improved at every phase of the game.

Stronger Teams for a Stronger College

by Bob Barrow

Last evening I was present at the first of the intramural basketball games where the players were poorly rehersed, and full of miscues, but the participants played with enthusiasm. At noon on Monday, the Bear's defense demonstrated their defensive ability during the last game of the season at Drexel. The last game was the last of the season for me due to a scheduling conflict.

Unfortunately, the team had been working on the drill that led to the defeat. The Bears' defense was directed by the Ursinus' board of directors. The Bears played with enthusiasm and their defense was solid, but their offense was weak. There were many things that proved that the Bears' defense was superior to the offense.

All this started me thinking about the entire Ursinus program. The Ursinus team has won only seven of the seven games played since the beginning of the season. The Ursinus team has not scored over 10 points in any game.

Book Review: THE CHOICE
by Carole Widmark and Beth Thompson

All of the time, every where you turn, people are making decisions. Often, they may not be able to see their own decisions, much less explain why they are made. This is the situation we face today.

Every day you proceed with your life, your decisions are being made. Whether it's the way you dress, the way you talk, the way you act, you are making decisions. Each decision you make has consequences. The consequences of your decisions are what Shape your life. Each decision you make is a reflection of your values. The values you hold dear are the values you try to live by.

Our book talks about the concept of decisions and the importance of making good ones. It discusses the different types of decisions people make and how to make good decisions. It also provides tips on how to make decisions in a creative way and how to take responsibility for your decisions.

This book is a great resource for anyone looking to make better decisions in their life. It provides valuable insights into the decision-making process and offers practical advice on how to make better choices. Overall, it's a must-read for anyone looking to improve their decision-making skills.
