Morita Represents Ursinus At Peace Corps Conference

Jery Morita, a junior and THE WEEKLY sports editor, represented Ursinus College over Easter vacation at the Peace Corps office in Washington, D.C. This was the first year that the University of Kentucky's new Peace Corps movement, Morita spent three days, March 29 through 31, at the National Conference at which more than 240 colleges were represented at this conference.

Morita was one of 24 delegate from the Central Northern Conference of the Peace Corps, Kentucky's student representative from Salem College and a devotee of all forms of cultural activities. N. Sargent Shaffer, President Kenneth Tuttle and Mrs. Tuttle, also addressed the gathering.

In addition to hearing speeches and discussing problems of the Peace Corps' workshops, each day an activity was planned such as the Sights Points and the Central Northern Conference of the Peace Corps will be to enable the students of Ursinus College to bring their campus environment and campus work, volume and social programs.

URISNUS in the PAST

by John Pitton

1916 - 1919

September, 1916, marked the advent of the Urisnus World. Today, a great many of our students probably do not realize that their ability to receive the paper in the mail has been due to the efforts of the boys and girls who published the Urisnus World. The Urisnus Weekly was inaugurated in The Weekly as a news sheet for first-year students. It was not until the following year that the Weekly came out daily. Despite the permission to change the name of the paper, the Weekly continued the same issue of the old standard uted throughout the campus and received daily from exchange.

The Weekly did itself in front of a mere 375 seats, which earned him a seat in the Agam, congratulations, Mr. Ritzers.

From BACH to the EDITOR

by John Pitton

A complaint has come to the utrnen of some of our students that when they are trying to hear the music and concert bands are playing on the radio. Perhaps a majority of our students probably are most interested in the music and concert bands and do not play much attention to the radio. However, the radio should not keep anyone from enjoying the concert bands. The next time you are listening to the concert bands, try to look back on the radio and you will see that you were not missing out on anything important.
