Summer

Many of us are now thinking about the summer. Those of us who are lucky enough know where we'll be working and have the security of knowledge that we have a job. Others must still look for positions.

Some view summers with much anticipation that the time of year to relax and get away from the problems of college work. It is often believed that we are college students, earn the money we have to budget, and save as much as we can. Besides being responsible for budgeting our income, we are responsible for budgeting our time. Too often the summer gets by without having our hours done the things we had planned.

Summer is a good time to evaluate ourselves. We can take time to view what we have done thus far with our studies, what we want to do, and what kind of education we'll need to meet our future. It is in this task of deciding for the future that our summer jobs can be most rewarding. It can be a job which is not challenging and take a job which offers many more in experience. Through a summer job we may hit on what we really want to do in the future.

Summer also involves much discipline. It's that time of year when we can read all those books we've reviewed in the NEW YORK TIMES. It's also a good time to take a few extra courses. And if you live at home, it's a good time to help out the family, for a change.

Something to keep in mind when we work in the summer, however, is that sometimes this knowledge immediately creates in other people the thought, "So you're a college student. Well, let's see what makes you special!"

Therefore, summer can be viewed as a time with new challenges and opportunities, and a successful summer should teach us something and help us grow. — Ed.

Mitchell Hall at the University of Delaware has a seating capacity of 3,000. The campus has a total enrollment of 21,000, so it can be sandwiched in along the road. "That's why the architecture is the making, to total a capacity of 3,000," said Mitchell Hall. "I am May 13, 1950 students, faculty, and visitors during the dedication ceremonies."

The hall is the largest auditorium on campus, and it is the home of the Mitchell Hall Speaker Series. The series is open to both students and the public.

It was at 8:15 a.m. on a recent morning that the first event of the day was scheduled to begin. The students and faculty who had gathered to listen to the speaker were seated in the auditorium's 1,500 seats. The hall was filled with a excitement as the doors were opened and the audience settled down for the day's program.

The first event of the day was a talk by a well-known author. The author, who was introduced by the host, talked about his latest book and his experiences as a writer. The audience was captivated by the author's words and listened intently to every word.

After the author's talk, the audience was treated to a performance by a local musical group. The group played a variety of instruments and sang songs that were both funny and touching. The audience was on their feet, clapping and cheering for more.

The day's program ended with a presentation by a local expert on the history of Delaware. The expert was a dynamic speaker who made the history of the state come alive for the audience. The presentation was well-received and the audience was left with a better understanding of the state's past.

Throughout the day, the hall was buzzing with activity. People were talking, laughing, and enjoying each other's company. The event was a great success and everyone left with a better understanding of the history and culture of Delaware.

Instrumental in the victory as usual, was captain Art Martella, who, in his first year at Ursinus, has played in every match and never scored a loss. He also has tied the single season record for maximum and most matches won.

The following upsets occurred: Mike Costello, an underclassman, beat out a second-year player at No. 2; Bob Hovan lost to a third-yearTel at No. 3; Ken Kalman lost to a sophomore at No. 4; and Garth Robinson was defeated by a third-yearTel at No. 5.

DEFEATS F & M, F. & M. C.

A hard-hitting Ursinus squad under the leadership of Coach Peter McCrae defeated F & M, F. M. C. with a 13-0 victory over F. F. M. The winning team broke through in the first, fourth, fifth, and sixth goals of the game in a downpour of rain that did not dampen the spirits of the Ursinus attack as they sunk the first goal seconds after the key offensive play, the second, and third, which came in the second, and fifth, respectively, with five more goals. The Ursinus team was only outscored by two hits.
