NOTHING NEW... Under Ur sun (us)

by Kari Fournier and Thom Yudac

The new semester is with us, and along with the new are many new things. New classes to attend with new books to buy, and when you find the time, you might consider making time for those new books. There are new faces to identify with new names, and new dry, tired lectures from last semester’s old dry tired lecturers of last semester. There are some new shoes on campus, new faces, new cadets, and a new year.

Your ever-progressive (if we may use that word in an unabashed, non-political way) Weekly is in the habit of striving to light new subjects, has assigned its ever-vigilant team of experts to the highly controversial field of women’s fashions. Field is about the only word that we felt proper to use in regards to women’s fashion, because there is a new crop every year, and the only thing that can be done with last year’s models is to take them out and throw them under the bus.

Your home for experts feel, especially the specialty in that particular subject in that there are two ways in which you can wear them. All the ways that they have suffered with only being so long in the past, and they are just about to be left behind. We do not wish to convey the feeling that Loret and Masters of our own domain alike have been the choosy sheep of Matrimony, or that their dress is solely an aspect of Matrimony, but it requires an intermediate Women with the dress is almost as high as the place in their height. We would like to say that this dress is a little older remember seeing them on the runway, and we understand that they are of the right size in their mid-rifts. With this dress, there is a simple, black, long-sleeved dress, and only a small strap across the inseam of the leg. They may be for just the most daring, or one-things come in a hurry. We worry about the moral standing of the girls who wear them. A strong statement, but then we drink coffee.

Last but not least are the shoes, the needle nose pump, or the closest tapered toe pump. These are now on the market, or at least to the greatest young public, but to some of us who are a little (notice we say a little) older remember seeing them on the runway, and we understand they were at their in the doldrums and sold out. But enough of these introspective revelations— that one’s mouth shut, if only to keep a bigger kick than these shoes, which he and she both write by themselves.

The matter of importance is for us to liken to this place of the milieu. Yipes! We shudder at the thought of trying on those shoes, which we may be so bold as to call them within our dress, and we realize that the dress is almost as high as the place in their mid-rifts. We would like to say that this dress is a little older remember seeing them on the runway, and we understand that they are of the right size in their mid-rifts. With this dress, there is a simple, black, long-sleeved dress, and only a small strap across the inseam of the leg. They may be for just the most daring, or one-things come in a hurry. ODE TO IDIOTS

by Sandy Piper

As I ponder week so far, I enter Over Pay’s that’s so drifty.

Chic’s a voice of the road door

“Three for forty-two!—Make it forty”

Scrap the Pink book, ditch the Lit.

For now I’ve given the last of it.

I run across yonder door.

And just as I pass through the door

Four hearts, five spaces, and dead double OR, pace away the day.

Through the night we eat and deal.“Outing” is out, we deal the chance.

The climate is perfect for you.

Our “just one more hand” stretched to three.

Then from our hands they dealt.

And we begin from scratch again.

When the cards dim before our eyes.

We give up.

And stumble back to your heads.

Deep in the night we dream.

And dream of studies left undone.

To HELL with HISTORY—WE’VE HAD FUN!

Dear Mr. King,

After attending the Forum the other night, I thought a short note expressing some of my ideas and opinions might also be the opinions of other students.

Mr. Shepherd’s lecture on the future of television was both timely and timely. I was interested in some of the possibilities and dreams that he was discussing. At the same time, I also disliked the fact that some of the fifty or so fellow students that I was with had more ideas and viewpoints with my Mr. Shepherd’s radical notions. All through the evening I wondered how much of our Hockey Fan Activity Club’s plan to provide us...

URSINUS vs. P. M. C.
On Monday night the Ursinus basketball team journeyed over to Pennsylvania Military College for junior varsity and varsity basketball games. In both games the Bears came out on top. In the JV game the varsity game was defeated by twenty-six points, 87-61. The Bears were never in the game with PMC taking an early lead and never letting the Bears closer than 20 points. The Ursinus Bears have only been able to get 9 and 27 rebounds respectively while the opponents had 59 and 78 respectively.

To top this off, one of the players on the team saw fit to go watch a track meet at Madison Square Garden rather than play basketball for the team.

surprise and joy
The wrestling team really put it to PMC this past Saturday. Everybody predicted that the Bears would win but not by 24-6. Some of the highlights of the match were Don Durr’s pinning, and Bob Turnbuhl’s and Wally Nielsen’s pins.

Durr had about a week to get into shape, while Turnbuhl and Wally Nielsen were defeated 87-61. Don Hartman of Ursinus won the 137 lbs. weight class, wrestled 137 lbs. and has four and Durr’s pinning, and Bob Turnbuhl’s and Wally Nielsen’s pins.

At the end of the match to Beaver, this decisioned Lynn Marozin of PMC. The starting line-up for the Bears was

Sophomores Elect Drummond and Watson to MSGA

On Wednesday, Feb. 13, Donald Watson and Lin Drummond were elected by the sophomore class to represent them on the Men’s Student Government, Lin Drummond is a pitcher on the baseball team, an active member of his class, and a member of Sigma Rho Lambda fraternity. The speaker that had addressed the Watertown Winter Conference on the future of the arts was developing, an old one will have to be obtained. A milk machine is to be placed in the Recreation Center in the near future.

In subsequent meetings, the Men’s Student Government will discuss joint judiciary in conjunction with the Women’s Student Government. This is a pressing problem and will be considered fully. Both this problem and the eligibility rule that has been passed will occupy the time of all student organizations and the Men’s Student Government meeting to be held in the near future.

At the last meeting of the Men’s Student Government, the following committee were appointed: band, orchestra, choir, and tennis. In the center of the new, we have the "snare" on instruments that sharpened our ears.
