“Cadaverism”

Why did you come to College? Some will say because they needed a diploma for a job. Others will say it to get away from parents. Still others will say they came to get married and many will say that they came to get an education. But what type of an education?

It’s the term applied to a person who knows only about his specialty and nothing else. Far too many students around here, and at other centers of higher learning, have acquired this disease. The excuses for not possessing the information concerning varied fields, which come from “I don’t have the time” to “What do I have to learn about that stuff for I’ll never use it in my business”. Both these excuses are false. The person can easily make the time for these outside interests and one life and peace must be preserved, not by someone’s errors. And, even at the cost of a few acres, several consequences of the sure their preservations.

When I’m improved enough, I’ll charge union prices. :: THE ROAD TO WAR ::

A somewhat more religious persuasion.

Believer: Non-interventionist, non-Communist, in the face of a war threat can be treated only as a denier of moral and of the vested interests of life itself.

Aristotle: But, Sir, you apparently lack any sort of comprehension of the situation. You fail to see the choice involved and several consequences of the wrong choice.

A: I see but two choices: Fight now, or giving in to Hitler’s demands now and being forced to fight later. There can be no compromise whatsoever when dealing with aggression because the success lies in the speed of arriving at satisfying it.

A: Again, Sir, you overlook the consequences of your choice.

To call the aggressor bluff in to throw the world into a war with the sacrifice of millions of lives. Life and peace must be preserved, even at the cost of a few acres of land. Even at the cost of all Europe.

B: There are things more precious than life itself. Freedom, Integrity.

A: Now we are differing on a basic belief which nothing to do with the political situation. I believe that when you die you are dead and that even your precious integrity is allowed to survive.

B: To give up eternal life is to throw out your soul.

A: To give up eternal life, sir, is to find your “cadaver”.

B: But that has nothing to do with the question at hand. We are worried about solving problems which must be earth and not stopping them by hooking in your questions. I believe that death is the end of everything and ask myself if there are any situations in which death is preferable to continued life. You face death as the beginning of new life, looking for a noble way to die. And the sooner you start your trip to Paradise the better. The moral is the end and not the means. How could I, if I were in the position to make the decision, still have a chance of life while there is still the faintest possibility of there is to? I can understand your view in the general picture where you

There are many reasons for throwing out the self-styled and conditioned, the other people, the general, discipline and its end product—the current graduate who neither wants nor needs any obligation to do anything in the Armed Services or life politics.

I direct my current criticism to those who are in the last few years? The separate public secondary educational systems of our country of producing graduates who could spell, read and write, and had a good foundation in the Classics. They no longer do so.

What sort of changes have been made in our curriculum? The answer is: There is no clear answer, each student must be considered. I prefer to call him at the door or in his mind, your proverbial “raison d’etre”. Your proverbial Drake Company, the number of “able” or “at fault” and I had-and I be more than satisfied.

Those of you who have been ducking miniature flying saucers in the past week realize that all spring sports are not being played down on the athletic fields, unless the airfield of Freeland Hall can be considered an athletic field. These Frizbies-as they are affectionately called-constitute no small danger to the athletics program. Although Coach Gurynski's team has been practicing with these saucers-instead of playing this odd game. The team is composed of number one singles, number two doubles, number three singles, and number four doubles.

Classroom Jazz Albums Released

"Jazz in the Classroom," a new LP just released, will receive rapid response from jazz enthusiasts. The album gives listening pleasure in addition to gaining further appreciation and understanding of jazz.

This recording is an exciting film in the field of jazz education. It is made up entirely of original compositions in the modern jazz idiom, and was created, arranged, and performed by students at the Berklee School of Music in Boston, Mass. The LP is available with full scores of all arrangements for study and analysis.

In addition to the listening pleasure it affords, "Jazz in the Classroom" offers a rare opportunity for music students, teachers and music students to develop an understanding of contemporary compositional and arranging techniques. The techniques clearly outlined on the album include combo and big band scoring, improvisation, polytonal phrasing, thematic development and compositional form in jazz.

Parts may be quoted from scores for rehearsal and performance purposes and groups using the material in this manner are invited to send tape recordings of their performances to Berklee for professional evaluation and comment. Communications should be sent to Berklee School of Music, Berklee Building, 205 Newbury St., Boston, Mass.

This innovation represents an exciting breakthrough in the study of jazz and it is evident the album represents an organized educational approach.
