EDITORIAL

Spring is the time when many of the organizations on campus elect their officers for the Fall semester. Along with the new officers come new policies. And along with the new policies comes one of the biggest problems facing the College and the student governments in the annual one...customs. Customs, as they now exist, can no longer be tolerated in their present form for the sake of the freshmen class. Our present method of "hazing" is archaic, and approaches the problem in a negative, not a positive, manner.

What can be done? This writer has heard many excellent ideas brought forth. Many people have suggested that the freshmen organize their own activities and challenge the sophomores, such as is done at the bigger colleges. Stunts could be organized by the frosh and presented to the sophomores. Women and men could work together writing new cheers and planning cheering formations for football games. The annual Homecoming Day could be handled entirely by the frosh.

What can the students and College do for the freshmen? More forums and speeches on varied aspects of College life should be arranged. It is believed that the new students attend at least any two organization meetings and see how the group operates and if he (the freshman) would be interested in joining. Instead of memorizing some idiotic saying the frosh could learn by heart the rules and regulations under which he will have to live for the next four years.

Many other ideas, beside the few stated above, would come to light if a few people took the time to drop a letter to the WEEKLY or mention it to the MSGA representative. The new Men's Student Government is vitally interested in the problems of customs. They hope to attack it within the next two weeks, but they need your help and suggestions if they are to succeed in ridding the College of the archaic system under which the freshmen are orientated.

The executive committee is expanding into infinity, an inexorable process. We're getting a little confused for the favored few, who in more fortunate times, perhaps, our own sense can still overrule.

The Geography of the Hunger, you see, is changing, too. The world is no longer divided by the cultural Egyptian night of the nation-states. It is divided by the nation-states which presently suffers from a special hunger, a hunger of one kind or another. Thus the explains the world's main purpose. The rest of the world will hardly help to reduce the hunger. The hunger is, in fact, three elements of education: science, economics, and political morality. But perhaps the explanation is to be found in the fact that we are not the only cultures on earth. But there are two kinds of cultures: One, the nation-states, which are the main purpose of the world's main purpose. The rest of the world will hardly help to reduce the hunger.
