How's That Again? “It Went That — a Way” by T. M. McCabe

Boy, I say there, boy, here and move with haste, Quickly now, do not tarry, For be he rich or be he poor, He be a Mighty Householder, He said that I would be his pet, My head would clear, I could see into the future, And life I would very soon experience, My tramp I must shortly catch, the girls.

For the first time, no upper-classesmen are left to guide and advise, the seniors are on their own. No other friends are around to talk things over and again, as in custom, class acquaintances. For be he rich or be he poor, He be a Mighty Householder, He said that I would be his pet, My tramp I must shortly catch, the girls.

Senior and Frosh — A Comparison

For the first time, no upper-classesmen are left to guide and advise, the seniors are on their own. No other friends are around to talk things over and again, as in custom, class acquaintances. For be he rich or be he poor, He be a Mighty Householder, He said that I would be his pet, My tramp I must shortly catch, the girls.
At the beginning of every sporting season there exists a noticeable excitement furnished mostly by the boost of the overly optimistic and implemented to such new and silent pas­sim. Most of these predictions are formed mainly on the basis of last seasons play as well as the jitters which have graduated. In the case of this year, however, a great number of predictions were found extremely foolish.

Injuries Big 50 Factor

In retrospect, last season can be evaluated and explained in one phase: injury and inexperience. At the outset, a success­ful soccer season seemed inevitable. As the season progressed, the intensity of the game increased. Injuries followed. Red Grundy, Barrie Ciliberti, and co-captain Wayne Enge were confined to the sidelines by the severity of their injuries. The nucleus of this year's team was left without two important players.

Another factor to be dealt with was the ever-present element of the unknown. A first-time player would inevitably struggle through the season. The match-up of teams was varied at every game. Even limited action was a factor. Barrie Ciliberti, Drew Swartwout, and Mike Blevett subbed in efforts to disrupt the scorable by the opposition.

Hogg Look Good

This season everyone’s hopes are founded on these factors. It is assumed that the Belles are superior. As the season progresses, the story will be updated. Each week, fresh reserves will be called in to replace the injured starters. It is assumed that the Belles will be victorious. The story will be updated.

If the Bears backfield can keep the likes of Wauhop from getting behind on them, and if the line stays at the back, such as Vidas from crashing through, the chance of defeat will be minimal. There is no reason why the Bears cannot win.
